New Holland, Case Merger Plans Announced

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Farm equipment manufacturer New Holland NV, based in Amsterdam with North American headquarters located here, with 1998 net revenues of $5.7 billion, on Monday announced it was purchasing Case Corporation, based in Racine, Wis., for $4.3 billion.

Case Corporation shareholders would receive $55 per share in cash from New Holland NV, which intends to fund the transaction by issuing debt and equity. Case, with 1998 consolidated net revenues of $6.1 billion, when combined with New Holland, could create a company with revenues of close to $12 billion per year.

In comparison, Deere and Co., noted by experts to be the world's largest manufacturer of farm equipment, based in Moline, Ill., had sales of about $13 billion in 1998.

Fiat S.p.A in Italy owns 71 percent of New Holland. New Holland has approximately 6,100 dealers and 21,300 employees.

Case operates through about 4,900 dealers and employs 17,700 people.

In a news release appearing simultaneously on both New Holland and Case Corporation web sites, it was announced that Jean-Pierre Rosso, Case chairman and chief executive officer (CEO), will become chairman and CEO of the combined company. A new name would be selected for the group, with Fiat retaining a 71 percent controlling interest.

The deal is subject to regulatory and Case shareholder approvals, noted New Holland.

"We are creating a new company with an extraordinary range of products and services that will meet the needs of more customers around the world than any other equipment company, while also capturing the significant synergies of a company of this scale and scope," said Rosso.

"We are elated by this opportunity to create a new company with unparalleled global reach in the equipment industry," said Umberto Quadrino, New Holland CEO. "Participating in this challenge,

Excellent hay drying and corn planting spring weather has pushed farmers ahead with these activities. Some Maryland farmers are reporting dryness to the point of hurting hay production. According to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service, planting of most commodities has progressed well, with corn planting at least one week ahead of schedule. A look at the fields across the region show corn fully emerged and growing in most fields. Wheat, barley and oats were all ahead of schedule with heads emerging nicely. Fruit trees have bloomed rapidly with the above normal temperatures. Peach and cherry blooming is complete and apples are ahead of normal. Conditions have been favorable to plant vegetables.

Pastures were dependent on the rainfall, with most of them in good to excellent condition. Growth remains slow in some areas due to the dry conditions. In the photo, two yearling Holstein heifers enjoy a nice open green meadow filled with buttercups and seeding dandelion Monday afternoon. Located along New Holland Road just north of Newport Road in Lancaster County these bovine youth became both suspicious and curious when the black box with the "seeing eye" was pointed at their scenic Amish Farm home. They soon made up with the photographer and came up to the fence for a close-up encounter. Photo by Everett Newswanger, editor.

Lancaster County Farm and Home Foundation gave $1,400 to each of these students to pursue either an agriculture or home economics-related degree. LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Officials with the Reading Area Fair, state Department of Agriculture, and Berks County leaders officialy broke ground this week on the new Reading Fairgrounds, located in Leesport adjacent to the Berks County Agriculture Center.

The Reading Fair is to be held there this September, and officials expect to have the first building completed — a 60-foot by 310-foot pole building to be used as a cattle holding and cattle judging area.

The fairground's 69 acres, combined with the land included with the Agriculture Center, is expected to provide a total of about 80 acres on which to hold the annual weeklong Reading Fair.

Also, during the remainder of the year, 4-H youth are to be able to use the grounds for various livestock shows and events.

For more than 5 years, Berks County agricultural and fair leaders have been working to find a new home for the fair, which had been held for 14 years at the Fairgrounds Mall, north of Reading,

ATLANTA, GA.
MAY 20, 1999

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying interest improved slightly, but overall was still disappointing. Offerings were mixed in their availability and for the most part were at least adequate to cover current trade requirements. Movement through the retail complex continued to struggle while seasonal demand through various outlets accounted for most distributive business. The market tone was cautiously steady.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES.

NY Phil Frozen Eggs

ATLANTA, GA.

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, MAY 14, 1999. FEDERAL-STATE

Whole egg and whites were unchanged to higher, and yolk products were mostly lower. The market tone was mostly steady to firm on whole and whites, and weak on yolks. Demand continued light. Supplies were occasionally short to adequate. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending May 8, 1999 were 6% more than last week, and 8% less than the same week a year ago. Shell egg supplies were adequate.

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE

In Chicago and the Eastern region, prices were unchanged to higher on the extra large and large sizes. Elsewhere, prices were unchanged. The market tone ranged steady to firm. Demand remained mixed, light to good, with widespread feature activity stimulating the best interest. Supplies continued tight to close balanced on the larger sizes, and inventories were occasionally held with confidence. The medium and smaller eggs were generally adequate to well balanced. Breaking stock supplies were usually adequate for the light to good demand. Light type hens were ample for slaughter schedules.

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Warmer, drier weather, good crop condition, and planting progress pushed grain and soybean bids lower for the day. Wheat 1 to 5 cents lower. Corn 1 to 2 cents lower. Sorghum 3 cents lower. Soybeans 4 to 7 cents lower. Wheat bids were lower as favorable planting weather in spring wheat areas. Winter wheat harvest is moving further north in Texas. Light overnight export wheat sales to South Korea kept bids from dropping too low. Corn and soybean bids were also lower due to the warm dry weather in the Midwest. Corn planting has resumed in most areas and rapid emergence has been reported on crops that have been planted over the past week. Many areas, however, are still too wet and need several more dry days. Some export optimism has limited declines in corn. Lack of fresh export soybean sales, weighed on bean bids.

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was slow, and was generally noted as insufficient to satisfactorily clear seller offerings. Live supplies were at least moderate; weights varied in a full range of light to heavy. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than truckIot asking prices were 1 cent lower at 55 to 69 cents. Trade sentiment was mostly weak. In the parts complex, inquiry had increased on selected items, however, all items remained at least adequate for immediate needs. Leg cuts were generally noted as in best balance. Breast items were fully adequate to ample. Wings were ample.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

MAY 24-30, 1999

CHICKENS AND BADGERS

Rhode Island and Wisconsin share their day of statehood on May 29th. The former became the 13th state in 1790, and Wisconsin became the 30th state in 1848. Other than the day, the two states seem to have little in common. Rhode Island hosts the winter surfing competitions in February and has the Rhode Island Greening (an apple), the Rhode Island red hen, and the shortest state motto: Hope. Wisconsin boasts the dairy cow as its state domestic animal, Monroe as the center of the Swiss cheese industry, and Oshkosh as the place to buy your overalls (B'Gosh). Their motto? Forward!

Every thing that is done in the world is done by hope. – Martin Luther (1483 1546)

TIP OF THE WEEK

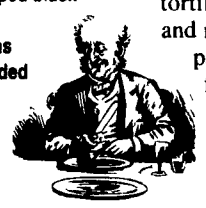
CHICKEN BURRITOS

2 tablespoons butter
1 small onion, diced
2 tomatoes, diced
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/4 teaspoon paprika
2 cups diced cooked chicken
1/2 cup chopped black olives
6 flour tortillas
2 cups shredded cheddar cheese
salsa and sour cream (optional)



Melt butter and sauté the onion. Add tomatoes, seasonings, chicken, and olives and mix well Simmer 10 minutes, stirring until slightly dry. Fill tortillas, top with cheese, and roll Place into baking pan and bake at 350° F for 10 minutes. Serve with salsa and sour cream, if desired.

Makes 6 burritos.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

The full Moon eats clouds.

If the Moon rises pale, expect rain. If it rises clear, expect fair.

If the full Moon rises red, expect wind.

At St. Urban (May 25) gather your walnuts.

The more thunder in May, the less in August and September.

The Kaffenbargers chose a common sense approach to expand their hog operation.

Bob and Greg Kaffenbarger, Woodlawn Farms, New Carlisle, Ohio

When Woodlawn Farms (Bob and Greg Kaffenbarger) expanded their hog operation to include two nurseries and two finishing barns, they also included Telmark. They chose Telmark for its 100% tax guaranteed deductible payments and common sense approach to security.

Telmark's understanding of the swine industry – and its flexibility to let Woodlawn Farms control disbursements to venders during the construction process – enabled Bob and Greg to get the buildings they wanted and have them constructed to meet their specific needs.

OPINION

Preaching To The Choir

In times past, farmers were more respected. Today, you wonder why some people have no regard for the hand that feeds them. Robert Santini of New Village, New Jersey, says it's discouraging when you're pulling a plow down the road to get to the next field and somebody passes you yelling or gesturing obscenely You know that person is just hurrying home to get something to eat, and then jump in front of the TV

Many of these people never stop to think where that food comes from. Or they have been fed (no pun intended) information that is totally out of touch with the real world of farming. Often when children from the city are asked where milk comes from, they say the store.

Today's farmers not only provide an abundant food supply, they are doing it with crop planning, rotation schedules and insecticide, herbicide, and fertilizer applications that provide use only when needed. This not only lowers input costs, it benefits the land and the community as well.

We know we are preaching to the choir, but this is the message that we need to get the consumers who eat well, but have no regard for the source of their food

Now Is The Time

To Bale At Proper Moisture

Baling hay at the optimum moisture content can be tricky business This often involves some guesswork and cooperation from the weather Baling at moisture levels above the optimum will cause heating and spoilage of the hay

Conversely, baling at moisture levels below the optimum causes excessive leaf loss which translate into lower quality hay The optimum moisture for baling hay is not a constant and depends on the bale size being used According to Dr Marvin Hall, Penn State Agronomist, moisture for small rectangular bales should be no higher the 20 per cent, unless a preservative is used

The upper moisture limit for large bales, both round and rectangular, is about 16 per cent to avoid excessive heating during storage If large round bales are stored outside and uncovered, moisture content at baling may be up to 20 per cent

To Determine Hay Moisture

Determining moisture content may be done with a microwave oven or Koster moisture tester before baling or an electronic moisture meter at baling When using an electronic moisture meter, probe from the end of rectangular bales and through the rounded diameter of round bales

Dr Marvin Hall, Penn State Agronomist, recommends at least five probes of each bale should be taken and the readings averaged If the readings vary more than three percentage points, more probes should be taken and the average recalculated Many factors may affect the meter's accuracy, such as bale density

Tightly packed bales will give the most accurate readings The use of chemical preservatives is another factor that may affect the accuracy of electronic moisture meters Some chemicals, such as propionic acid, may increase readings as much as four percentage points If preservatives are used and the instruction manual does not provide information about the effects of chemicals on meter performance, you should contact the manufacturer for additional information

To Ground Electric Fences

When utilizing electric fencing, you cannot have too many ground rods, according to Chester Hughes, Lancaster County Extension Livestock

Agent When an animal touches the fence, the electricity must travel through the animal into the soil, then through the soil to a ground rod The current then travels from the ground rod to the fence charger, where the circuit is completed Only then does the animal feel the shock Therefore, the more ground rods, the more electricity gets back to the fence charger

That is why the best ground system consists of three galvanized ground rods, at least six feet deep and spaced 10 feet apart. For best results, install your ground rods where soil moisture is constant Always use clamps to attach the ground wire to the ground rods Remember, your electric fence is only as good as its ground system

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

ANOTHER COUNSELOR
May 23, 1999

Background Scripture:
John 1; 16:4b-15
Devotional Reading:
Hebrews 2:10-18

Intellectually, there is little more difficult for the Christian to sort out and understand than the doctrine of the Holy Spirit. Contributing to this difficulty is the variety of terms that seem to be related: Spirit, Spirit of God, Spirit of Christ, Spirit of the Lord, Holy Spirit, and the term that is peculiar to the Gospel of John, Counselor. When we speak of the "Spirit of God," do we mean the "Holy Spirit"? How is "Holy Spirit" different from "the Spirit of Christ"?

I frankly do not know. I assume that all these terms point to the same reality, a reality that is virtually impossible to define and explain. By the very nature of what 'spirit' represents—a non-material reality—it defies tangible analysis. It is a lot easier to experience the Holy Spirit than it is to explain him. (Even the term "him" causes some difficulties in understanding.) I have personally experienced God in Christ on a non-material level, a level I choose to think of as "Spirit."

When I was doing my graduate work at Union Theological Seminary in New York City, I wrote an extensive paper on the "Doctrine of the Trinity." In preparing that paper, I found that this has long been an area of theological confusion and doctrinal combat, primarily because of the questions concerning the Holy Spirit.

EXPERIENCING THE SPIRIT

But the disciple of Jesus Christ is not called so much to explain or define the Holy Spirit as he or she is called to experience the Spirit in his or her inner life. The knotty questions need not prevent us from knowing the Holy Spirit first-hand. I cannot adequately define or explain God either, but that need not keep God out of my life.

Actually, if I could give you a very precise definition, then it would not be the Holy Spirit I had captured on paper. Jesus likens the Spirit to the wind: "The wind blows where it wills, and you hear the sound of it, but you do not know whence it comes or whither it goes; so it is with everyone who is born of the Spirit" (John 3:8). The Holy Spirit cannot be captured by our minds, although the Holy Spirit can capture us.

Jesus promises us, "And I will pray the Father, and he will give you another Counselor, to be with your forever, even the Spirit of truth..." (14:16). And again: "But the Counselor, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, he will teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance all that I have said to you" (14:26).

Parakletos is the Greek word which the RSV and some other versions of the Bible translate as "Counselor." But there is really no one English word that adequately translates parakletos. Most translations render it as "Advocate" and the Twentieth Century New Testament spells that out as "one who pleads our cause." Other translations include "Comforter," "Helper," "Counselor," "One who is called," "someone to stand by you," and "he who is to befriend you."

BUT HOW?

Jesus knows that his physical demise is immanent. He will no longer be able to be with his disciples—at least on a permanent basis—in the flesh. He promises them, however, I will not leave you desolate: I will come to you" (14:18). But the disciples are understandably confused and one asks: "Lord, how is it that you will manifest yourself to us, and not to the world?" (22). How indeed?

It is then, that Jesus makes the promise concerning the coming of the parakletos and, however this word is translated, it is obvious that this non-material presence will do all the things for and with them that Jesus has been doing in the flesh: teaching, counseling, helping, comforting, consoling, befriending, and standing by them. By the power of the Holy Spirit, we today who follow Jesus Christ are brought the same abiding presence that powered early Christians and the Church.

It is also the Spirit that is able to make and keep this promise: "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you; not as the world gives do I give to you. Let not your hearts be troubled, neither let them be afraid" (27). These words were spoken almost 2,000 years ago and the warranty has never expired!

Scholarships Go To Students Pursuing Ag, Home Economic-Related Careers

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Seven Lancaster countians will be heading off to college with $1,400 scholarships from the Farm and Home Center Foundation.

The monies for the scholarships are derived from a trust fund set up more than three decades ago by the late Elmer L. Esbenshade. Recipients must pursue either a degree in agriculture or in a home economics-related field. Selections are based on scholarship, leadership, extracurricular activities, and financial need and include the following students:

Shannan Sombers said of her decision to study food science at Purdue University, "I like making food and eating, too."

The 18-year-old had considered becoming a chef, but with a strong background in math and science courses, Shannan heard opportunities abounded in the food science arena. When she saw a brochure from Purdue touting its food science program, she knew that was the place for her. Purdue and the Institute of Food Technology have also awarded Shannon with substantial scholarships.

The Ephrata high school senior is the daughter of Frank and Laurie Sombers of Ephrata. At school, Shannan is president of the National Honor Society, plays field hockey, spring and winter hockey, student council representative, prom council member, and placed first at the state level in the Science Fair competition. Her project was called "Metingoline's Effect on the Living Ecosystem of Corbicula Fluminea." Successful Science Fair projects enabled her to visit Albuquerque as an observer of ocean habitat.

As if that isn't enough to keep her busy, Shannan works part time at Zinn's Diner, and volunteers at Maple Farms Nursing Home, Ephrata Library, and Eileen's Fitness Club.

Jessica Hess plans to study beef and livestock science at State University New York (SUNY). The 18-year-old doesn't live on a farm, but for years she has been helping on neighboring farms. She has worked with hogs, chickens, tobacco, hay, straw, tomatoes, orchard, and small vegetables.

Jessica selected SUNY after a university representative visited Penn Manor High School, where she is in FFA. In school, Jessica also participated in soccer, basketball, track and field. She is a member of a church youth group. Jessica resides with her mom Teresa Hess in Washington Boro.

Jessica Latham said, "Penn State was the only college I applied to because it's the only place I wanted to go."

The 18-year-old daughter of Steven and Donna Latham plans to study animal bioscience to pursue a veterinary career. Although she did not grow up on a farm, Jessica said that she often helped on her grandmother's farm, where she raised 4-H dairy projects.

At Solanco High School, Jessica has participated in marching, concert and jazz bands, pit orchestra, glee club, Interact Community Service, Christians in Action, National Honor Society, and served as a peer mentor. Jessica is active in her church youth group, plays in the church brass band, and helps in the nursery.

In addition to Farm and Home, Jessica has received scholarships from Penn State and a savings bond from Daughters of the American Revolution. She was featured as Teen of the Week in December.

This summer Jessica will participate in a mission trip to Austria, where she will work in an orphanage and be part of a drama team.

Sarah Woodling is best known to Lancaster Farming readers as the Lancaster County Poultry Queen and as recipient of several awards for her research in egg preservation. This year, Sarah has discovered new egg storage methods by using food grade shellac and with modified atmosphere packaging.

After top awards in the Science Fair for two years, Sarah's project this year was even more qualified to win, except it couldn't be judged.

Contestants needed to attend the event to be interviewed by judges. Because Sarah excels in music, she had the opportunity to audition at regional competition. The problem was that it was the same day.

The 17-year-old daughter of Russell and Barbara Woodling, Landisville, said that she decided that since she would be spending the rest of her life in science research, and she would never again have the opportunity to compete in regional chorus, she would go for the musical competition. Sarah was selected as first soprano at county, district, and regional levels. She was a member of Chamber Singers, Hempfield Singers, Senior Strings, Concertas Musicus, and participated in the school's fall and spring musicals.

Sarah has participated in the Governor's School of Ag Science and has been impressed with Penn State's program. She has received several scholarships from Penn State and the National Institute of Food Technology to study food science and poultry technology at the college.

Sarah also works part time at a retirement home and at J.C. Penney.

Michael Bollinger will study animal science and agribusiness at Alfred State College of Technology.

The 18-year-old son of C. Dale and Cynthia Bollinger lives on a Quarryville farm.

At Solanco, Michael has participated in baseball, wrestling, soccer, FFA, marching band, band, and the National Honor Society. He is active in his church youth group.

The Bollingers raise 45-50 cows on their farm. In addition to many farm projects for FFA, Michael has received Keystone, Red Rose, and star chapter awards. He is a past president of his FFA chapter.

Laura Miller has been sewing since she was 7 years old.

"I love to sew," she said of her reason to pursue a fashion design degree at Lasell in Boston.

For years, Laura has been helping in her mom's home business by sewing wedding and formal gowns.

She has enjoyed it so much that she is determined to concentrate on formal wear in fashion design.

"I would like to establish a big business in formal wear," Laura said.

Helping in her mom's business has not allowed Laura much extra time for extracurricula activities at Donegal High School. "But that's the way I wanted it. I can sew all day," Laura said.

She works on the yearbook staff, is a member of the Key Club, Booster Club, and in the church library.

TAKE IT EASY ON YOUR HAY.

With the new Model 5312 Mower Conditioner from New Idea, haying is easy on you - and on your hay. That's because our new center-pivot design lets you cut from either side, instead of going around in circles. The 5312 also incorporates our proven cutter-bar, with reversible knives, fully enclosed disc drive units and segmented hex driveshafts, for reduced maintenance and increased reliability. Plus, Ti-Cor™ conditioning rolls speed dry-down without damaging leaves. We also made it easy to learn more about the 5312. Just visit your AGCO New Idea dealer today.

CATTLE: Compared to last week's close, slaughter steer prices ended the week mostly steady to weak. The market was under pressure until Thursday, when buyer demand increased and late sales were quoted firm on a large offering. Strength came from a charging dressed beef market that traded near 112.00 for Choice carcasses on Thursday. Western fat cattle traded 1.00 higher on a live basis at 65.00, but only steady from mostly 101.00-102.00 in the beef. Local Holstein steers closed steady to 1.00 lower and slaughter heifers ended steady to .50 lower. The slaughter cow market finished higher, again this week with very good demand. Prices gained 1.00-2.00 with no signs of slowing down. Slaughter bulls ended the week .50-1.00 higher. Supply included 55 percent slaughter steers, 6 percent slaughter heifers, 27 percent slaughter cows, 4 percent slaughter bulls, with the balance made up of feeder cattle.

SLAUGHTER STEERS: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1065-1465 lbs 63.50-68.00, few up to 70.00. Choice 2-3 1010-1480 lbs 62.25-64.85, high dressing 1-2 up to 67.00 and low dressing down to 61.25. Select and low Choice 2-3 1050-1610 lbs 57.75-63.50. Select 1-3 990-1445 lbs 54.00-59.25, several packages returning to feed 1030-1225 lbs 59.75-62.25.

HOLSTEIN STEERS: High Choice and Prime 2-3 1475-1620 lbs 55.50-57.85. Choice 2-3 1225-1610 lbs 53.60-56.10. Select and low Choice 2-3 1120-1630 lbs 51.50- 54.75. Select 1-2 1170-1460 lbs 48.50-52.25.

SLAUGHTER HEIFERS: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1145-1360 lbs 63.00-64.50. Choice 2-3 1100-1325 lbs 60.75-63.75. Select and low Choice 2-3 1060-1360 lbs 57.00-62.25. Select 1-3 940-1205 lbs 55.00-58.75. Heiferettes: Commercial and Standard 2-4 950-1135 lbs 43.00-50.00.

SLAUGHTER BULLS: Yield Grade 1 1140-2205 lbs 48.50-57.75, individual 1940 lbs 64.00. Yield Grade 2 985-2285 lbs 43.25-49.50. Bullocks: Select 1-3 975-1480 lbs 49.50-57.50.

CALVES: Compared to last week's close, veal calves ended weak to 7.00 lower and slaughter calves were 2.00-5.00 lower with only a light test late in the week. Demand for Holstein farm calves slipped on Thursday, after holding steady most of the week. Holstein bulls returning to feed closed 18.00-32.00 lower, but Holstein heifer prices closed firm to 10.00 higher.

VEALERS: Good and Choice 70-110 lbs 20.00-33.00. Standard and low Good 60-90 lbs 11.00-27.00.

DMI, Processors To Expand Milk Buying Opportunities

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Dairy producers and fluid milk processors are working together to expand fluid milk sales through convenience stores and vending machines, where today's consumers buy more than one-third of their beverages, but only 3 percent of their milk.

The producer- and processor-funded Fluid Milk Strategic Thinking Initiative (FMSTI) commissioned independent studies concluding that both of these distribution channels can be used to increase fluid milk sales.

To accomplish this, the studies suggested the dairy industry must improve packaging, product variety, sales support and effectively educate convenience store and vending operators about the high profit potential of milk.

One of the FMSTI studies shows that milk traditionally has ben successful in bringing customers into convenience stores, and that consumers who purchase milk spend more money overall in the store. But stores miss out on additional sales when they don't restock milk in a timely manner.

"The industry must work to show these outlets the true sales potential of milk, then provide stores with the right incentives," said Linda Racicot, executive vice president of domestic marketing for Dairy Management Inc.™, (DMI) which manages the national dairy producer checkoff.

"We need to capitalize on milk's advantages over soft drinks," added David Weitzer, a Poolesville, Md., dairy producer and DMI board member. "We need to communicate to c-stores and vending machine operators that milk has two major things going for it — kids really like flavored milk, and milk packs a nutritional punch with proteins, vitamins and minerals."

FMSTI research indicates the dairy industry can sell more milk through these outlets it if makes changes in four areas:

• Improved product offerings — including consumer-friendly packaging (easier-to-handle) cartons, more attractive graphics) and multiple flavors for kids.

• Increased education — about milk's high profit potential, the popularity of single-serve containers, which offer higher margins, and the importance of stocking adequate suppliles.

• Improved sales support — through in-store promotion, advertising and merchandising programs, including signage and trays that highlight the dairy processor's logo.

• Food partnerships — bundlilng of milk with complementary foods, such as cookies; the dairy industry aims to partner with a cookie manufacturer to test market a milk-and-sweet-snack vending machine later this year.

"Innovations like these will go a long way toward making milk more convenient and attractive to consumers," DMI's Racicot said. "By working closely with convenience stores and vending machine operators, producers and processors can accomplish this efficiently and effectively."

The Fluid Milk Strategic Thinking Initiative (FMSTI) is a cooperative effort of the Milk Processor Education Program (MilkPEP) and Dairy Management Inc. (DMI). It was founded in 1995 to explore ideas and make recommendations for increasing milk's competitive position among other beverages, thus leading to increased sales.

Its first phase addressed the appearance of skim milk, labeling terms, and packaging, the results of which can be seen in recently introduced products from processors across the country. The second phase is addressing milk's availability in underutilized channels of distribution.

FMSTI is part of the overall integrated $187 million fluid milk marketing partnership between DMI and MilkPEP, designed to address consumer barriers to increase consumption of fluid milk.

Dairy Management Inc.™ is the nonprofit domestic and international planning and management organization responsible for increasing demand for U.S.-produced dairy produced dairy products on behalf of America's dairy farmers. DMI manages the American Dairy Association®, National Dairy Council® and U.S. Dairy Export Council®.

PDA Sets Plastic Pesticide Container Pickup Schedule

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA) has announced a 1999 summer schedule for its plastic pesticide container recycling program.

For the past two years, the PDA has gathered more than 30,000 recyclable plastic pesticide containers, according to a letter by Phil Pitzer, PDA environmental and safety specialist.

"We encourage all pesticide users to save your containers and bring them to the collection locations ... . In doing so, we should easily be able to surpass the number of containers we have collected in previous years," Pitzer stated in the letter.

There are 68 locations statewide in 29 counties this year, an increase of five counties and 13 collection sites over last year.

Pitzer stated that it is important to bring in containers that are free of visible pesticide residues inside and out.

"Pressure rinsing or triple rinsing each container is required," Pitzer said. "EPA registered agricultural, structural, turf, forestry, and specialty pest control products, adjuvant, crop oil, sufactant, sanitizers and fertilizer containers are acceptable, so long as they are No.2 HDPE plastic."

No motor oil, antifreeze or household containers will be accepted.

Collections began this week and are to continue through August.

Additional collections, later than scheduled times, are to be announced regionally, as needed.

Those planning on bringing more than 500 containers at one time are asked to contact PDA prior to drop-off day. Call (717) 787-5206, or 772-5210. Do not call the drop-off sites.

Collections will only be accepted during the scheduled times. If a site is unattended, do not drop off containers.

Enders Farm Wins Ice Cream Freezer

ENDERS (Dauphin Co.) — Blair and wife Marie Enders, with a farm based near here, were the winners of a special January insert questionnaire drawing in Lancaster Farming. They won a White Mountain electric ice cream freezer. Blair, who used to be in the dairy business but still farms his 169 acres, has been a subscriber to the paper since the 1970s. Lancaster Farming continues to run another questionnaire contest, open until June 1, with the winner receiving a White Mountain ice cream freezer.

Expand With Registered Holsteins

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Fred England of Williamburg, Pennsylvania, admits that many dairy producers don't include registered Holsteins when planning a major expansion

But when he increased his milking herd from 250 cows to 700 at Penn England Farm, many of those purchased were registered Holsteins.

Currently, about 75 percent of the herd is registered.

"There have always been registered Holsteins here," said Fred. "The registered cows we bought were better than the grades, and it doesn't cost a whole lot more to have registered cows."

His brother Barry echoed that sentiment. "There is a tremendous opportunity to merchandise here," he said, "with significant income generated from the herd. We've always been in a building mode, so we've never had a chance to sell animals."

"You know what you're getting with registered animals," he added.

He went on to say that in one group of about 50 animals, only six had any information on them. Close to half of them were shipped after their first calf. "Some of them were only milking 20 or 30 pounds, and we didn't know why."

Sire identification is important if the animals aren't registered. Barry cited one example of a group of purchased cows that were registered, yet all had been bred to a grade Holstein bull.

"It was very frustrating when we found out. When you get used to good bulls, you get good heifers. It's worth the time it takes, so why not use a registered bull?"

If animals have some identification, the Englands then start the ID process by registering them. They are using Holstein ID Tags, and have just started using EASY (Holsteins' Electronic Application Software) and Customized Tags.

Penn England Farm classifies regularly to keep the type up and provide added value for future merchandising. "It also adds value to pedigrees and registration papers," Barry said.

"We will definitely keep the papers up – would be foolish not to," he said.

Bob Cropp
Dairy Marketing and Policy Specialist
University of Wisconsin Cooperative Extension–Madison

April milk production for the U.S. is estimated to being up 3.5% from a year ago. This is the second consecutive month production was up by 3.5%. Accumulative milk production, January through April, is also estimated to being up 3.5%. These estimates are made from data collected from 20 states having about 85% of the nation's milk production. For these 20 states, milk cow numbers were up 4,000 head from March and down only 1,000 head from a year ago. The more favorable milk prices during the last quarter of 1998 and ample supplies of low cost feed has spurred on dairy expansion in several states. In addition, favorable weather has resulted in excellent milk per cow in many states. Milk per cow for the 20 states was up 3.5% from a year ago.

Milk production continues to surge ahead of a year ago in the West. California, which a year ago, was being adversely affected by unfavorable weather has experienced just the opposite this year. Favorable weather, stronger milk prices earlier and ample supplies of low cost feed all have California expanding in milk production once again. Milk cow numbers were up 46,000 head or 3.3%. Milk per cow was 7.9% higher than a year ago and total milk production was up 11.5%. A year ago, poor milk production in California was a major factor for record milk prices. This year, a strong come back in California milk production will be a major factor for lower milk prices.

But California is not the only state in the West showing strong increases in milk production. April milk production was up 11.4% in Arizona, 8.1% in both Idaho and New Mexico and 3.8% in Washington. Each of these states had more milk cows and more milk per cow. Texas continues to experience less milk production, down 1.3%, the result of 4.7% fewer milk cows more than offsetting a good increase in milk per cow, up 3.7%.

Milk production is doing very well in both Wisconsin and Minnesota, being up respectively, 2.7% and 2.4%. Milk cow numbers were down only 0.2% for Wisconsin and milk per cow was up 2.9%. Cow numbers were down 1.8% for Minnesota, but this was more than offset by a strong 4.2% increase in milk per cow.

In the Northeast, production was up 2.1% from no change in cow numbers and 2.1% more milk per cow. Milk per cow was up 1.0% in Pennsylvania, but 1.4% fewer cows netted a 0.5% decrease in milk production.

Milk production was up 6.3% in Florida. While cow numbers were down 1.2%, milk per cow was up 7.6%. But several states did experience a significant drop in milk production – Kentucky 8.8%, Illinois 7.8%, Missouri 7.1%, Ohio 5.4%, Indiana 5.2%, and Virginia 3.6%. Each of these states experienced either fewer milk cows or no change in cow numbers and all had less milk per cow.

This relatively strong milk production has put pressure on manufacturing milk plant capacity. For March, American cheese production was up 10.3% from a year ago and total cheese production was up 6.4%. Total cheese production for the first quarter of the year was up 6.0%. But despite this strong cheese production, excellent cheese sales prevented a build up in cheese stocks. March 31st Natural American cheese stocks totaled 404.96 million pounds, 4.2% lower than a year ago, but up 3.2% from two years ago. However, cheese sales have since weakened as cheese buyers anticipate adequate supplies and at lower prices. For each of the past three weeks on the CME both 40 pound cheddar blocks and barrel cheese have declined. After holding at $1.33 per pound for several weeks, the cheddar block priced was $1.205, a total decline of $0.125 from its peak. Cheddar barrels were at $1.18 per pound, just $0.025 lower than blocks. This tight spread could help to hold blocks from declining further.

CME Grade AA butter prices moved sharply higher last week, increasing $0.12 per pound to $1.1925. This increase is in spite of butter production being up 2.5% from a year ago and March 31st butter stocks at 108.92 million pounds, up 94.8% from a year ago. But anticipation of tighter cream supplies as milk production declines seasonally and ice cream makers compete for cream to make ice cream has spurred some butter buyers to build better stocks earlier. Some remember how tight butter stocks got during the summer and fall of last year and the resulting record high butter prices.

What does all this mean in terms of milk prices. The BFP increased from $11.62 in March to $11.81 for April. While CME cheese prices have declined significantly, NASS survey cheese prices are used to adjust the "base price" portion of the BFP and published NASS prices lag almost two weeks behind CME prices. Therefore, not all of the decline in cheese prices will show up in the May BFP. So the May BFP will stay above $11.00 per hundredweight. The May BFP futures settled at $11.27 on May 17th. I see a May BFP near $11.20. But then the June BFP will likely drop to near $10.70. June BFP futures are settling at $10.64. Cheese prices should show some strength in late June or early July. The BFP will move above $11.00 in July and could still peak near $13.00 in October. However, October BFP futures are settling at only $12.83.

State Budget Recognizes Agriculture's Importance

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Rep. John E. Barley (R-Conestoga) recently said the first week of May was a great week for Republicans in the General Assembly and a great week for the people of Pennsylvania as the House and Senate passed another early and historic budget with overwhelming support from both parties.

According to Barley, "This year's budget makes history for many reasons.

"This budget leads Pennsylvania into the new century," he said. "It delivers the largest tax cut package ever for Farmland Preservation.

"This budget preserves farms across our county and state and it preserves our rural community and our quality of life. We've inserted an historic and unprecedented investment in Farmland Preservation — $65 million this year — tripling the state dollars and the funding in Lancaster County.

"As chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, and as a fourth genertion farmer from southern Lancaster County, I'm honored to serve in this role where I can make sure, when we're at the budget table, that the needs of Lancaster County and rural Pennsylvania are represented," Barley said.

The budget also delivers increases in many other areas of the agricultural community.

"Overall, the Department of Agriculture's budget is increased an overwhelming 71 percent. We invest in agricultural education with $647,000 more for ag research at Penn State and #2.8 million more for Penn State's Cooperative Extension. We offer $1 million more for local soil and water district assistance. We boost product and promotion and marketing with an additional $226,000. We deliver $100,000 more to agricultural research and $750,000 more for animal health. State fairs get $100,000 more this year and state and club farm shows will see an additional $26,000, and the list goes on.

"I'm excited and honored that this budget can direct such increase to the agricultural community," he added.

"For rural Lancaster County and Pennsylvania this is much more than dollars and cents — this budget sends a clear signal of the value and importance of the Pennsylvania farmer," Barley said. "It also signals the high priority of expanding and preserving our heritage and our quality of life here in Pennsylvania."

Pa. Holstein Association Announces Judging Schools

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Holstein Association has announced the schedules for the 1999 round of junior judging schools.

Every year, the PHA serves as host sponsor for two junior judging schools — one located in the eastern part of the state, the other in the west.

This year, both schools are to be held east of the Susquehanna River.

The deadline for registering for either school is June 21.

The Eastern School is set to be held June 28-29 in Adams County with the county Holstein Club serving as host. The specific farms and herds to be visited were not announced as of this week, but the teacher is to be Bonnie Remsburg, from Middletown, Maryland.

The Western School is set to be held June 30-July 1 in Westmoreland County, with that county's Holstein Club also serving as host organization.

The teacher is to be Alisa Fava of Scenery Hill.

The schools are open to all youth interested in learning about dairy cattle judging, regardless of personal dairy cattle breed affinity.

The PHA schools attempt to cover the basics of animal evaluation and reason-giving.

Individuals who attend have the opportunity to learn terminology, animal and class breakdowns, and how to effectively give reasons.

The cost of the school is $25 for those staying overnight. The cost includes the school, a hotel room and an evening meal.

For commuters, the fee is $15, covering the school and an evening meal.

Again this year, a second member of the same family who attends will receive $5 off the registration fee.

Milk Bottle, Truck Collectors To A Meet In Hershey

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — The National Association of Milk Bottle Collectors will be holding its annual convention at the Holiday Inn (Hershey/ Grantville) the first weekend in June (June 4-6, 1999). Both this year and last, members who are also members of the Divco Club of America have been invited to display their Divco Milk Trucks. Divco milk trucks were the old stand-drive milk trucks that made house-to-house delivery of milk in nice glass bottles. The convention provides an opportunity for members to buy, sell and display bottles and related memorabilia. A general meeting, program, auction and banquet play a part in the convention. Members come from all over the United States to participate in this convention.

The National Association of Milk Bottle Collectors publishes "The Milk Route," a newsletter published monthly since October 1980, as its official publication. It contains a wide variety of articles, dairy histories, illustrations, members classified ads, mystery bottles and show calender. The club encourages educational and service Activities with a nationally recognized slide/video presentation, illustrating the development and variety of milk bottles and go withs, which is available to members.

Founded in 1991 and incorporated in 1998, The Divco Club of America today is a non-profit educational corporation with members all over the US and Canada. They also publish a newsletter that comes out 5 times a year and is packed with articles about Divcos Some members own Divco trucks themselves, while others just have an interest in remembering a way of life characterized by multi-stop delivery trucks coming right to the door

Divco Trucks were once as much a part of the American way of life as baseball and mom's apple pie. Chances are your milkman drove one. So did the laundry man, the baker and even the paper boy's route man From 1926 until 1986 Divco produced multi-stop delivery trucks unlike any others Only the VW Beetle stayed in production with the same basic model for a longer period of time.

Today there is a growing interest in all models of Snub-Nosed delivery trucks and their ancestors. The Divco Club of America is the oldest and largest group of Divco enthusiasts, collecting, restoring, and operating Divcos for pleasure and business Their library is stocked with Divco literature, manuals and advertising materials. They catalog parts sources to keep Divcos running and facilitate restoration. And they also offer a number of fun Divco-related products for members

PennAg Industries Provides Production Ag Insights

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — A group of state legislators and their staff recently toured several "advanced farms" in Lebanon and Lancaster counties, through a program offered by PennAg Industries Association Inc.

"Advanced farms" are described in the literature distributed during the tour as, "high-yield, livestock-raising activities that benefit from new technologies."

The definition is a departure from the trend in defining the more recent developments in livestock production, in that it avoids any reference to animal density or numbers.

Current federal and state environmental laws concerning livestock operations consider them, respectively, as "concentrated animal feeding operations" (CAFO) and "concentrated animal operations" (CAO).

However, the different emphasis in the definition chosen by PennAg is perhaps more accurate.

The difference in definition seems a reflection of different agendas.

Federal and state government agencies and rulemakers concerned with nutrient management aspects have chosen to focus on volumes of manure as a threat. Therefore, the number of animals on a farm is emphasized as an indicator of an environmental threat.

PennAg membership is concerned with raising livestock profitably and with the least amount of risk and headaches.

Anything that exposes investment to loss is a threat, and short-cutting on manure management doesn't make business sense.

The farms toured have gone well beyond minimums required for nutrient management laws.

The risks they pose to the environment are very slight — it would be difficult to create a plausible scenario in which they could pose a threat.

Nevertheless, these are the style of operations that have been badmouthed as "corporate" farming, held up by anti-agriculturalists as threats to human health, and targeted by new development urbanites as environmental nuisances.

PennAg is an association of agricultural producers, feed and equipment dealers and manufacturers, and other agricultural support businesses.

The industry association makes no excuses for bad actors, or the negative environmental impacts that poor practice farming can cause. But neither does it side with commuters in new developments trying to shut down local farming.

Instead, it seeks to educate lawmakers and policy leaders about the activities that predominate livestock production, in Pennsylvania.

According to Walt Peechatcka, executive vice president of PennAg, the tour was put together to offer legislators a first-hand look at actual modern farming operations so they can better know the difference between what is really the situation in farming, and what is being told to them by agricultural opposition groups, misinformation perpetuated by ill-researched news reporting, and other misguided reports.

PennAg's role is to serve as an educational catalyst between agriculturalists and lawmakers and law enforcement.

Last week, Peechatcka met with a group of legislators in Harrisburg at the state Capitol, and traveled with them on a bus to meet with the rest of the tour group in the parking lot of the historic Franklin House in Schaefferstown, where other legislators and staff traveled directly.

Technical and educational support for the tour came from several PennAg members, such as Wenger Feeds Inc. and Hostetter Management Company.

The companies represent a segment involved in what is called "integrated" agriculture — alliances and effort coordination are done from production through processing. Marketing is generally another level above, but can be involved.

The day, and group, was divided between morning and afternoon trips. That way participants could either visit one of two swine facilities and also a poultry facility.

Because of the biosecurity restrictions on the swine facilities — complete head-to-toe body showers are required before entering the area where the swine are housed and cared for — there were two facilities offered to participants. Some went to visit a 1,400-sow farrowing operation in nearby Lancaster County, while others visited a 700-sow farrowing house within walking distance of the Franklin House in downtown Schaefferstown.

The poultry operation that was toured — an 80,000-bird layer house — was located closer to Newmanstown. The contract farmer who permitted the tour group to view the facilities requested that no photographs be taken nor family names be mentioned in any news report.

According to tour participants, they were impressed with the cleanliness, attention to detail, and, lack of odor, at each of the facilities.

In Pennsylvania, livestock producers, especially those operations defined as "integrated," are finding more and more governing boards of local municipalities created ordinances aimed at banning what are being called, "coporate" farming methods.

Generally, "integration" consists of a landowner who invests in a building and operational plan and who performs the day-to-day maintenance operations, an owner of the animals, an owner of the feed, and a marketer who contracts for the production of commodities at a specific rate of profit per unit.

For example, at the layer operation, the farmers received a certain amount of income for each egg produced.

The farmer doesn't take on the risk of the investment in the layer birds, worth more than $2 each when brought to the house at several weeks old. Either the marketer or some other entity, such as a group of investors, puts up the money and thus financial risk, for the birds.

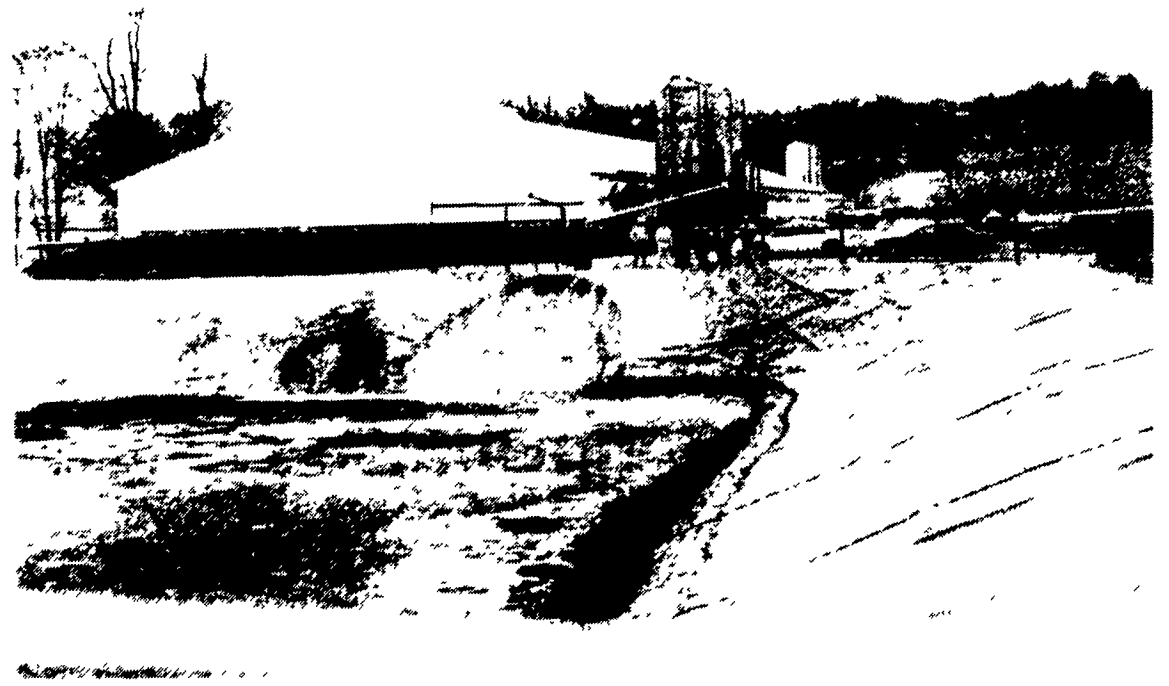
The feed used is not the financial responsibility of the farmer either. That risk is held by another partner.

The farmer is required to protect the birds from infection by following a prophylactic routine, such as not allowing people into the facility unless they first don a clean jumpsuit, boots and hair-hat.

The hog facilities actually require that visitors strip of the clothes they wore to the premises,

(Turn to Page A27)

The outfits may not win them any prizes, but the group is no longer a threat to chickens. From the left, members of a legislative tour group about to enter an 80,000-layer house, are Jay Howes, hosts Bill Rogers and Bob Sydell, Rep. Raymond Bunt, Jennifer Loy, Owen Thomas, Lynn Slabicki, Rep. Allan Egolf, and Jim Shirk with PennAg Industries Association.



Members of a PennAg legislative tour look over this 1.2 million gallon manure lagoon that receives manure via gravity from the 700-sow farrowing facility behind it. The lack of odor is demonstrated, and the liner is highlighted because it voluntarily exceeded requirements to ensure beyond any doubt that the facility was environmentally compatible.

shower, and then put on clean clothes and footwear provided.

These precautions are not for the safety people visiting, but for the animals being raised.

There are some diseases that could cause a complete loss of stock and require additional costs for additional sanitization.

As it is, the profit margin on production is low enough that any unecessary or additional costs can eliminate profits, or worse.

With the financial risks shared among several parties, each responsible for a different aspect of the operation, and the quality of each aspect mutually agreed to, the industry is allowing more involvement and productivity than is possible with only one individual assuming all the risks and management responsibility.

At the hog facility owned by Marlin and Marlene Martin, of Scheafferstown, Marlin and son Rick work the home farm. Son Steve works off the farm in agribusiness, in the retail department of Farmer Boy Ag Inc.

The 40-acre farm was owned by Marlin's father, who raised beef and swine, making for the third generation now of the Martin family to farm it.

The family considers the integrated operation to be the thing that has allowed them to continue as a family farm operation.

According to Steve, who helped brother Rick serve as hosts during the tour, the family had 250 sows and a 30,000 pullet house and decided it was time to update operations, which has meant new technology, and more production to pay for its use.

The 700-sow operation is small by industry standards, where 1,400 sows is more common and larger numbers are not uncommon.

According to Steve, the 700-sow sized operation works well because there are four local finishing operations and their combined size is perfect for handling the production by the Martin facilities.

The owners of the animals is the Heidelberg Pig Company, and with the Martins' management, the operation produces about 15,500 feeder hogs per year, out of 1,650 litters.

Their nutrient management plan was prepared by Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Company, which is one of several agronomic businesses working statewide and in other states providing plan-writing services.

Though a nutrient management plan doesn't require any specific structure, such as a manure lagoon, per se, it does require appropriate structures when the business and operational plan indicate one is necessary.

As part of the Martin operation, built by Hostetter Management Company, the lagoon was built to handle 1.2 million gallons of liquid manure, which hog manure primarily is.

After waiting for each participant to shower and change into sanitized barn clothes and footwear, the tour group at the Martin farm went first to one of 10 rooms used for sows and raising young.

The rooms are fairly identical, but different stages are in each. One room may have all gestating sows soon due, another with sows with young litters, and still others with only weaned young being raised for the finishing houses.

The operation is laid out logically and efficiently, taking advantage of the slow slope to move manure from beneath slotted flooring to the lagoon, located downslope and away from the breeding and rearing facility.

Several feed silo-bins are located outside, and feed is directed to the animals via an auger system.

The sow/piglet housing is designed with farrowing crates that can be folded out of the way when the sow is removed. It converts easily into a pen with automatically supplied feed, allowing the young to be raised in the same pen in which they were born, reducing the probability of disease and stress.

The slotted floors drain into the underground manure system, outfitted with fans to keep manure gases from being detected.

There is little odor-evidence that there are any swine on the facility, even at the lagoon, which was built to exceed environmental standards.

In addition, the manure is seeded with digestive bacteria which futher reduces the odors associated with swine manure.

Sows are removed from the pens after weaning and moved to the breeding area, located in a long room with the 36 boars used for breeding.

The breeding stock is specialized and comes from a Mid-Western outfit that specializes in a variety bred for desirable carcass composition and desirable feed conversion.

The sows are kept in a common 16-foot by 16-foot holding pen for several weeks, until they cycle twice. They are individually moved to breeding pens and bred during their second cycle.

From there, the sows are moved to a gestation area, and prior to giving birth, moved to the individual pens, with the farrowing crates repositioned.

For those unfamiliar with raising pigs, farrowing crates prevent sows from rolling over on their young or stepping on them, while giving the young ample access to nurse and also to move away when the sow moves around.

According to the Rick Martin, the sows and boars seem to enjoy their individual pens more so than the common areas, conjecturing that this may be because it reduces competition for food and space and the "pecking" order social battles common to many animal species.

Ventilation in the facility is negative pressure based. That means that fans are turned on to eject air, creating negative pressure inside. This draws fresh air into the system through regulated vents.

Heat and cold extremes are both of concern for hogs, and optimum conditions can be met through air cooling in the summer, and heat exchange in the winter.

The degree of biosecurity for the hogs seemed greater than that for the poultry, where bathing visitors was not necessary, though overgarments were required.

The poultry facility demonstrated how far the egg-laying farming business has changed in 20 years.

Layers are kept in stacked rows of pens, with sloped sheet metal manure baffles so that droppings from overhead birds fall down and are deflected to the basement manure storage of the poultry house.

Newly born piglets romp under a heat lamp, safe in their area outside the sow's farrowing crate.

The droppings do not fall or splatter on other birds or contaminate feed.

Feed is delivered virtually right to the birds' beaks, along with fresh water. Climate conditions are kept to optimum.

Ventilation is critical to ensure productivity and health of layers. Ventilation in the manure storage area dries out the already dry poultry manure. It was explained that the goal is to get the manure down to about 15 percent moisture, which prevents fly eggs from surviving.

The poultry facility also follows a strict program for quality production.

The program, called the Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program (PEQAP), sets a number of quality production standards that must be followed. The program was developed as a means by which salmonella enteritidis (S.E.) could be prevented and tracked from restaurant or individual consumer back to the farm and flock of production.

Rodent control in the poultry house is essential. PEQAP rules dictate that a certain number of live-traps be maintained inside poultry facilities, on each floor.

Rats and mice have long been attracted to the feed and grain of farms, and, in the past, it was common for rodents to sneak in to feed at night in poultry feed troughs, though not bothering the roosting birds, per se.

According to one of the tour guides, while research is still continuing as to how to origins of S.E. contamination in poultry and eggs, rodents are carriers of S.E., and their dropppings in the feed can infect birds.

At the 80,000-layer house, the farmer has never captured a rodent inside the house. It was built well, although rodents are notorious for their ability to penetrate manmade structures.

It was explained that not only did this farmer keep his rodent traps inside the house, but outside the building as well. That is where he has caught rodents, eliminating them before they could work on damaging the structure to create entrances and pose a threat to the birds and the business.

Chicken manure on eggs is common. Because of the protective nature of the egg shell and membrane, years ago it was merely washed off prior to sizing and packing for consumption. Stains were bleached to achieve a white egg.

At this layer house, the eggs automatically rolled down the slightly sloped pen floors onto a conveyor belt, and out to a packing room.

At the end of the conveyor, the eggs are put through a separator — it controls the flow of eggs for packing in flats. Each egg is inspected while being packed on flats, and those that do have manure on them are packed on separate flats and kept separate to go for other uses.

The flats of clean-laid eggs are put on racks and the racks stored in a large refrigerated room and chilled. About every two days a tractor trailer load of eggs is shipped from the farm for processing — a final wash, sizing and packing, etc., depending on intended marketing.

For the tour, it was explained how long the birds remain in the house (until the second molt, or after two production cycles); how the birds stop laying while they molt (shed and grow new feathers), and how they gear up again into full production.

The uses and treatment of the manure was discussed.

The farmer and his family who manage the layer house have been under contract with Wenger's Feeds since 1992, and are paid per egg and receive bonuses on feed conversion rates.

Furthermore, the farmer is a member of Wenger's producer advisory board, which was created to address producer concerns.

Wengers sell the eggs and provide the feed. The birds are owned by investors.

Again, even while in the basement manure storage facility, the ordor was not strong. Of course, separate from their manure, chickens have their own birdy odor, and that was obvious, but because of the dryness of the manure, and the lack of fly larva which can create unpleasant odors while consuming manure, the poultry manure was not offensive.

It was explained that a lot of the poultry manure is in demand locally and elsewhere by crop farmers, because of its quality as a fertilizer.

Furthermore, because the weight of poultry manure, especially if it is dried, is light compare to other livestock manure, the cost of hauling it is reasonable. It can be packaged and sold as well.

Between visits to the farms, a lunch was provided participants, along with some discussion on the tour.

Peechatka introduced some guests who only attended lunch in order to be available to talk to legislators about some of their concerns.

Two non-local farmers talked about their operations and some of the problems they've had with their respective local municipal government.

Dan Benner talked about his family's 4,800 swine finishing operation that they've had since 1993. He, his brother and father farm together. In addition to the two-barn swine finishing operation, they also keep 18 dairy cows, and a small federally inspected butcher shop.

Benner said his family farm business is primarily crops, and they have 62 fields to farm.

He said that, having graduated from Delaware Valley College, he learned about the economic sense of using manure for fertilizer, instead of being dependent upon commercially prepared fertilizers.

He said that getting involved with the swine finishing-operation not only gave them additional income, but also reduced their overhead costs in raising crops.

"We don't look at manure as waste," he explained. "We were looking at manure for the nutrient value."

He explained how in attempting to get building permits, the family ran into some local opposition.

The local municipality apparently had used the services of a "nutrient management consultant" to deal with the growth of advanced farming in the area.

He said the consultant's technique for dealing with confinement livestock operations was, "to scare everybody."

According to Benner, his family was told they had to come up with a $1 million insurance for hazardous waste (the consultant's advised interpretation of the legal definition of swine manure), and to create and offer the municipality a $30,000 line of credit they could use for environmental cleanups, etc.

In other words, he suggested that the consultant advising the local governing board intended to thwart the construction of newer confinement facilities through intimidation and creating obstacles.

Others who spoke during lunch talked about other types of problems, such as local municipalities ignoring state law that prohibits the creation of ordinances that are more stringent than the state's Act

6 Nutrient Management Law.

While local municipal governing boards can create such ordinances, it is currently the resonsibility of the individual or parties being wrongfully governed or stymied in their business plans to fight local governing bodies.

Rep. Ray Bunt, chairman of the state House Ag and Rural Affairs Committee, thanked Peechatka and PennAg for providing the opportunity to tour such facilities, each in existance for more than half a decade.

Bunt said that it is not often that legislators get an opportunity to see first hand the operations and farming techniques that are really in place and functioning, and that it is very beneficial.

He said he wished more people, everyday voters, could actually see the operations and tour them because unless such an operation is toured and explained, the concept can be very difficult to understand, "Unless you go out and see an operation and ask questions."

Rep. Allan Egolf, of Perry County, said, "I thought it was a good tour. It's good to visit anything like that, to get a better perspective, so I certainly learned a lot during the visit of swine and poultry farms."

He said he was impressed with the care given to the animals, the treatment they receive, and the high level of sanitation that prevails.

Others state House members who attended included Rep. Ron Miller, Rep. Tim Solobay, Rep. Jerry Stern, and Rep. Dick Hess.

Staff who attended on behalf of legislators included Bob Quigley for Sen. Pat Stapleton; Kristen Ebersole for Sen. Noah Wenger; John Miller for Rep. Pete Zug; Jennifer Loy for Rep. Edward Krebs; and Steve Crawford for Rep. Jeffrey Coy.

Also participating were Jay Howes, staff member for the House Agriculture Committee; Owen Thomas, executive director of the Senate Agriculture Committee; Lynn Slabicki, staff member for the House Ag Committee; Barry Denk, executive director for the Center for Rural Pennsylvania, and Mary Kandray, a staff member of the Center for Rural Pennsylvania.

The literature that Peechatka distributed consisted of six different fact sheets, as well as a brochure on the state's PEQAP program, information sheets on the farms, and an information sheet on the use of phytase in feeds produced by Wenger Feeds.

Phytase is a very newly adopted feed industry technology. Phytase is an enzyme that allows poultry, and hogs, to utilize a greater percentage of the phosphorus.

The use of phytase became emphasized within the industry within recent years as a result of Maryland and federal government officials speculating that phosphorus in poultry and hog manure was in some way responsible for spurring pfiesteria growth.

However, because of the value of phosphorus, the use of phytase increases the efficiency of absorption in the animal, and can reduce the amount of phosphorus needed in the feed.

The fact sheets distributed by Peechatka dealt with odor and nutrient management issues; economics of agriculture; the changing image of farming; the government agencies that have regulatory oversight of agricultural operations; what agricultural efficiencies mean in terms of feeding people; and common myths about high-yield farming.

McCullough Wins Scholarship

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. – Douglas A. McCullough has been awarded the 1999 Robert H. Rumler Scholarship from the Holstein Association.

McCullough is from Newville, Pennsylvania, where his family owns and operates a 150-cow dairy. He is currently attending Duke University.

Since graduating from the University of Florida with a master's in dairy science, McCullough has acted as the dairy management outreach specialist at the University of Wisconsin – Madison, an associate consultant with Dairy Strategies LLC, and worked on the family farm.

Upon completion of his master's in business administration, McCullough plans to be a leader in the dairy industry McCullough's extensive dairy experience will complement his business administration degree.

"Although it is important to be focused, people who are industry leaders in the future will need to be able to relate to a variety of non-agricultural perspectives and issues," McCullough said.

Named for Robert H. Rumler, former executive secretary of Holstein Association USA, the $3,000 scholarship is awarded each year to an individual with a dairy science background who is pursuing their master's in business administration.

QUESTION: We started to pasture our herd a short time ago and the manure became terribly soupy. What causes this, and what can we do about it?

ANSWER: When questions like this are asked, I usually need to ask a few of my own, before I come up with any answer.

The first question that I needed to ask was about what feed the cows were coming off of as they went to pasture.

The answer I received was of real concern and actually increased the number of possible problems.

Before pasture season, this herd was fed a TMR. When the cows went out coincided with the haylage running out.

The same mix was fed in the barn, as before the haylage ran out.

One other concern was that this was on April 3, and being in the northern half of the state, the pastures were not particularly growthy.

When manure becomes very loose to the point of runny and shows no sign of cratering as dropped, then we think of several nutritional factors (as a cause).

One thought is that there is excess protein, and with 15-percent protein haylage being replaced by lush pasture (even though short), this is a certain possibility.

Low fiber levels can also cause this change to manure. Pasture at this time of year and growth certainly has the potential to be quite low in fiber.

If nothing else, effective fiber is probably compromised from that of haylage cut correctly.

Excessive minerals can also cause loose manure, but is not usually the case on most pastures.

A high level of starch is the last reason I think of with very runny manure.

I am not sure that this is not causing some of the problem when I learned that the TMR (minus haylage) is still consumed in large amounts. This is due, partially, to the shortness of feed in the pasture this early in April. Inclement weather will also encourage the herd to overeat the now high starch "partially mixed ration."

What we have here is a dangerous situation due to three probable causes. We can address them one at a time.

The protein must be evaluated as part of the total diet, as well as the makeup of the type of protein. A nutritionist can help.

Tools, such as MUN (milk urea nitrogen testing) will also tell us if the loose manure is protein or starch initiated.

Fiber, or at least effective fiber, will always be a challenge on early grazed pastures. This is the place for some long-stemmed hay.

One warning though, if it looks like a high source of fiber (bordering on firewood), then she will not eat it anyway the problem won't be solved.

Excessive starch will show in manure that is very tacky. Grain particles often show up in the manure when the loose manure is due to excess starch.

One good way to check the manure is to walk the pasture after a rain. Noticeable fiber particles, longer than ¼ -inch long indicate poor fiber utilization.

One last thought that I almost forgot seems to be common practice with a lot of herds that pasture. Free choice minerals and salt are sometimes overeaten in response to diet changes or simply because it is new to the cow.

In this sense, our cows are like us, they eat things because they like them, or it tastes good, with no regard as to whether they need them.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

New Holland and Case employees will enjoy greater opportunities for professional development."

New Holland, with sales of its smaller tractors and skid-steer loaders, has more presence in more parts of the world. In North American agriculture, Case's high horsepower tractors have a substantial presence in the large cash grain customer segment.

According to the release, outside North American, New Holland leads the industry in Europe, with a strong position in Brazil, Africa, and the Middle East, Japan and Southeast Asia, and has been developing new ventures in India and China. Case is well established in Latin America, Eastern Europe, and the former Soviet Union.

In the North American construction industry, the Case loader backhoe is a major player, noted Case. With the recent acquisition of O&K, New Holland has moved into one of the top spots in Europe, has strengthened its position in Latin America, and has recently launched a line of construction equipment in North America. Both companies have profitable and fast-growing financial services operations.

Projected cost savings to the companies wold be $400-$500 million annually within three to four years, Case noted.

New Holland, which employs 19,200 workers, cut 1,300 jobs worldwide, including 140 in Lancaster County last year to reduce overhead because of slow sales. In Lancaster County, the firm eliminated 136 of 761 hourly production jobs and four of 884 salaried positions.

Many of the jobs in the county were cut through a voluntary termination program to keep the number of layoffs to a minimum.

Case trimmed 2,600 jobs, leaving the company 17,700 employees. Case will proceed with previously announced plans to cut another 3,400 jobs and to close two North American factories, according to a published report.

As to the impact of the merger, calls were placed to the corporate communications of both companies throughout the week.

Bill Masterson, director of communications for Case, noted the new company will be based in Racine and the brand names will be kept. "Customers will continue to have a choice of both brands, and the distribution network to support the brands," said Masterson. The group ownership will provide improved economics of scale, global reach, and expertise for both companies, he said.

"We've been long-time competitors (with New Holland)," he said. The agreement to merge was signed prior to the announcement, early in the morning on Monday.

He said the merger will be "fun, challenging, and tough," for all involved. The merger will take about four to six months to complete, he said.

Masterson would not comment, pending arrangements between both companies, on how both will continue to operate, personnel required, and other operational methodologies.

Gene Hemphill, industry affairs manager for New Holland, said he believed the merger "is going to be exciting," he said. Hemphill noted the whole ag industry by its nature is in a growth mode, with fewer farmers managing larger acreage, and the merger parallels what is going on in the industry.

When asked about company-wide changes to accommodate the merger, Hemphill said there was no more to say, at this time, other than what was contained in the news release.

In 1998, Case had sales of about $6.1 billion and earnings after taxes of $160 million, down from $403 million in 1997. New Holland had sales of $5.7 billion and earnings after taxes of $298 million in 1998, down from $477 million in 1997.

In newspaper reports in the county, it was noted that Umberto Quadrino, New Holland's CEO who will be interim co chairman of the new firm, refused Monday to say how many workers will be eliminated and how many plants will be closed to achieve the cost savings. Rosso, of Case, noted that an "industrial restructuring" will be a "cornerstone" of the cost-cutting strategy.

In December, Case said it would fire 3,400, or 20 percent, of its workers, and close factories in Hamilton, Ontario, and Hugo, Minn.

Case, founded in 1852, was purchased by Tenneco Inc. in 1967. Tenneco made Case a public company in 1994.

The merged group will start with a debt-to-equity ratio of 50 percent, Quadrino said. On Monday, the stock exchange reaction was mixed. Case's stock rose $3.69 to close at $48.50 a share. New Holland's stock dropped $1.19 a share to close at $16.37 a share.

On Wednesday, shares of Case stood at 46⅞ each, down ⅞ from the previous. At the close Wednesday, New Holland shares were 15 9/16 a share, down 7/16 from the previous.

As of the close Thursday, shares of New Holland were 15¼, with little change from previous. Case shares were 48⅜, up 1½.

In Lancaster County, the New Holland farm machinery business employs 1,372 people, according to Hemphill. The company employs 2,014 in the state and 3,393 in North America, according to Hemphill.

The New Holland headquarter plant manufactures the core product, said Hemphill — hay balers. A plant in Belleville manufacturs skid-steer loaders. Another in Grand Island, Neb. makes combines, and a plant in Dublin, Ga. makes compact tractors for estates, golf courses, and other uses.

The company was founded as New Holland Machine Company in 1895. Since then, it has gone through several ownership changes, notably once when Sperry Corp. purchased it in 1947 and sold it to Ford in 1986. Fiat, an Italian industry company that owns the Amsterdam-based New Holland, bought a majority interest in Ford New Holland in 1990.

Savage Leigh Chrissy Grand At Maryland Spring Show

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, Md. — Savage-Leigh Lead Chrissy, a 4-year-old Holstein bred and owned by Chip Savage, Knoxville, was named senior and grand champion of the recent 29th annual Maryland Spring Holstein show.

Mike Stiles judged the show, held at the Maryland state fairgrounds in Timonium. One hundred ninety-one head were exhibited.

Chrissy, scored Excellent 91, was also chosen as the best bred and owned entry of the open show by judge Mike Stiles. Currently working on a 3-year, 9-month, 307-day lactation with 2x milking, Chrissy had so far made 34,600 pounds of milk, 5.3% fat at 1,825 and 3.4% protein at 1,173 pounds.

She carries the Savage-Leigh prefix on both sides of her pedigree, and is out of Chip's first 4-H project, Savage-Leigh RORAE Chrissy.

Chip Savage also showed the reserve grand champion of the open show, Savage-Leigh Bellwood Linda.

Linda, the first place junior 3-year-old, was classified VG 89 as a junior 2-year-old. Linda was also named the overall production award winner for the show.

Linda was working on a 1-11 record of 322 days with 2x milking and had made 35,260 pounds of milk at 4.8%, 1,712 pounds of fat and 3.1%. 1,091 pounds protein.

Reserve grand champion of the junior show went to Savage-Leigh Banana Split, bred and owned by Jami Savage, Knoxville. Banana Split, the top senior 2-year-old, is out of a Savage-Leigh bull. She was reserve spring yearling Junior All-American last year.

Will Iager, Fulton, had the reserve junior champion of the junior show with his spring yearling, Miss Storm Crystal-ET.

Pennsylvania Agribusiness Takes Regulators Down On The Farm

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Experience is a great teacher.

Yet many of those who make and enforce the rules for advanced livestock farms have never set foot on a farm, let alone a modern livestock operation.

That's why the Agricultural Coalition of Pennsylvania and PennAg Industries Association arranged to escort federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) officials on tours of several advanced farms.

"The idea was so well received that some government officials even used their vacation time to come along," noted Walter N. Peechatka, executive vice president of PennAg.

In one contingent, 14 EPA and DEP officials enthusiastically zipped up bio-security suits, put on plastic boots and hairnets, and plunged though a disinfectant — all designed to protect the health of the livestock — and went in to a world they'd never before visited.

This group was composed of EPA headquarters officials from Washington, D.C., and from Region III offices in Philadelphia, including deputy directors, associate directors and chiefs from water enforcement, industry enforcement and regulatory enforcement divisions and offices.

DEP officials included Robert Yowell, acting deputy secretary for Water Management, and Milton Lauch, chief of the Office of Wastewater Management.

They toured a 1,000-swine finishing farm in Lebanon County and an 80,000-chicken laying operation in Lancaster County. They also examined a lined storage lagoon at a 1,400-sow breeding farm and piglet nursery in Lebanon County, which demonstrated outdoor storage and safety precautions.

Another group of two DEP regional officials and two EPA Region III enforcement staff toured farms in Bradford County, northeastern Pennsylvania. Their destinations were 900-head and 600-head veal barns and a 100-head/60-calf dairy farm, including a pesticide mixing facility, with their associated manure storage areas.

"All of these facilities were chosen because they are typical of those located across Pennsylvania farms which have been in operation for many years, taking advantage of advanced livestock farming techniques and follow good neighbor policies," said Ron Kreider of the Agricultural Coalition.

"Communication, communication, and then more communication is our goal," said Al Wenger, coalition coordinator. "It's the avenue to debunk many of the myths about advanced farms and to demonstrate the agribusiness community's commitment to sound environmental practices."

The hosts addressed the guests' misconceptions about livestock crowding, odors, manure storage and other issues. The guests had a barrage of questions for their guides, ranging from odor, pest or insect controls to nutrient management, insemination techniques, feeding issues or good-neighbor policies.

"It was an opportunity for officials to see advanced farms in action and to gain a better perspective on the agribusiness industry. Both hosts and guests came away with very positive comments and an interest in arranging additional visits. You know it's a success when everyone wants to do it again," reported Peechatka.

The Agricultural Coalition, along with PennAg Industries Association, a 700-member agribusiness trade organization, is committed to educating government officials about the activities that they regulate and oversee.

Central Pennsylvania tour guides were from Kreider Farms, PennAg and Hostetter Management, while the Bradford tour was hosted by James Van Blarcom, president of the Bradford Farm Bureau, and coordinated by Dennis Mullane of Taylor By-Products Inc.

University Of Minn. Announces FINPACK 99

WESTMINSTER, Md. — The Center for Farm Financial Management, University of Minnesota, has just released a major upgrade to its popular farm financial planning and analysis software, FINPACK.

"FINPACK 99" is designed to run under Windows 95, 98 or Windows NT 4.x," said Bob Craven, center director and extension economist. "We think we've maintained the best of previous versions while making improvements that will benefit old and new users alike. We've added input and output guides to help you move around the program faster. You can preview your output to quickly check your work on the run. We have improved loan and conventional calculators. Finally, we have what we think is an impressive Windows interface."

The new release comes at an opportune time.

"The capital intensive nature of farming makes a tool like FINPACK a valuable part of any farmer's or ag professional's software arsenal, even in the best of times," said University of Minnesota Economist Kent Olson. "But coming off a year like 1998 with low commodity prices, and looking forward to little or no improvement in 1999, the use of a good planning and analysis tool like FINPACK is even more important."

FINPACK was originally introduced as a software system in 1972, and farmers made use of the program through Extension educators, lenders, and farm management instructors. In 1993 the program became available to farmers and ranchers. This "Personal Version" has added one more level of use for the popular software.

"FINPACK 99 is simply the next generation of this nationally and internationally used program," said Craven.

"We've always maintained that one of FINPACK's greatest strengths was the improved give and take it creates between lenders and the producers they work with," said Crave.

Reading Fair Breaks Ground

along Route 61.

Four years ago the Reading Fair lost its ability to be held at the shopping mall and was switched to a new, temporary location at the Kutztown fairgounds.

However, attendance at the popular Reading Fair began to drop off, attributed to half-hour of more travel times for residents of Greater Reading.

The new fairgrounds site was considered several years ago, and although officials had announced the possibility of a move, it wasn't considered a reality until more recently.

According to David Souders, vice president of the Reading Fair, what has made the move and development of the Reading Fairgrounds possible was volunteerism and community support.

He said that all the trade unions in the county have offered to provide services for the installation of plumbing, electricity, building, etc.

Souders said the contributions offered by the trade unions represents up to $500,000 worth of saved expenses in establishing the county fairgrounds.

Also helping is the funding support from the Pennsylvania State Fair Fund, which has granted the Reading Area Fair $25,000 this year for the livestock pole barn.

Souders said he is working on submitting applications for additional grants for next year — one for grading and building gravel roadways for the grass parking area (with capacity estimated at about 2,500 cars); another for power and water.

"The one thing nice about the fair is it is getting a lot of support. The trade unions are coming to our assistance, with the engineers doing the grading, electricians are doing all the work...

"It's amazing," Souders said. "The volunteerism and the people getting behind this project is really great."

Souders said that in future years, additional pole buildings for smaller livestock and activities are to be built.

This year, he said, may be "a little rustic."

"There will be lots of tents this year," he said. "Livestock will probably have four tents for small stock, a big tent for musical entertainment, a big tent for the Grange, and hay grains, fruits and vegetables. A tent for the Grange food (concessions). We can use the 4-H center for arts and crafts and needlework, and we'll have another smaller tent for another entertainment venue."

According to Souders, there is a lot of earth-moving work needed to be done at the site, such as grading, designing and building proper stormwater runoff, and such things.

In addition, in order to grade the fairgrounds properly, clean fill is needed, and soon.

(Those interested in donating clean fill should contact Souder at (610) 370-3473.)

Souders said the location of the new fairgrounds should allow greater participation than ever, because it is so close to the Greater Reading area. It is only 5 minutes from the Reading Airport, he said, and 10 minutes from Wyomissing.

From his office in Mt. Penn, he can drive to the fairgounds in under 20 minutes, he said, adding that anyone in the Reading vicinity should be able to drive to the fairground within 20 minutes.

Souders also announced a new fee policy for this year, designed to eliminate headaches for patrons, and to ensure the afforability of the fair.

Instead of having different fees and rates, this year fair officials were able to work with Midway and entertainment providers to arrive at a general fee of $6, which is to cover parking, admission, rides and musical entertainment.

He said that the new fee system is designed to help families better afford and enjoy the fair. He said it will work if enough people attend, and it is expected they will.

Entertainment lined up includes country musician Bill Anderson from Nashille; Mustang Sally, an all-female country group; Sensational Soul Cruiser, a house band from a New York establishment, which is also the opening Monday night act.

In addition there are to be such other entertainment acts, as a magic circus and clown.

"Here again," Souders said, "I think our entertainment is better this year than it's ever been, and throwing it in for one price, I think (turnout) will be very good."

Of course, there will be all the livestock and homecraft competitions and exhibits — beef and dairy cattle, sheep, goats, swine, and rabbits — Souders said. "We'll be loaded with judged events," he said.

Furthermore, buyers and exhibitors should take note, for the first time this year, all the county 4-H livestock sales are to be held in conjunction with the fair, during the evening, Friday, Sept. 24.

Previously, only the county 4-H sheep roundup and sale was held with the fair.

According to Souders, with all the different fair committee people, directors, and others helping, about 100 volunteers annually help opertate the fair.

With the new constructions, and trade unions helping out, the county fire police, ect., the number of volunteers this year has been increased many fold.

F.O.4 June Milk $15.04

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Acting Market Administrator David Z. Walker recently announced a June Class I price of $15.04 per hundredweight.

The June Class II price is to be $12.11 per cwt.

According to Walker, the June Class I price includes the 20-cent assessment for fluid milk promotion and consumer education.

The Class I and Class II prices are up 19 cents from May, but are 20 cents lower when comparedto year-earlier levels.

He announced an April Class III price of $11.74, and an April Class IIIA price of $10.29.

The Class III price was up 15 cents from the previous month, while the Class IIIA price was down $1.34.

The June Class I and Class II prices and the April Class III price are based on the April basic formula milk price of $11.81 per hundredweight at 3.5-percent butterfat.

The April butterfat price was $1.0342 per pound, down 35.55 cents from March.

The April skim milk price per hundredweight was $8.42.

MDA Sets Public Meetings

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Two very important issues that will impact many have activities taking place over the next month or so.

Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) will be holding public meetings to discuss the new nutrient management regulations. Dates, times, and places are as follows:

• Talbot County Community Center, May 25, 7 p.m.-9 p.m.

• Hagerstown Community College, Room CLR111, May 26, 7 p.m.-9 p.m.

• Prince George's Government Center, County Council Room, Upper Marlboro, June 2, 7 p.m.-9 p.m.

• MDA will receive additional written comments for 30 days or until July 2, 1999.

If you have concerns about the issue, several opportunities are available to express your opinions and ideas, ask questions, or offer general comments.

Nothing about this has been finalized. This is your chance for direct input. You may not be able to attend one of the scheduled meetings but you certainly can write a letter. MDA's address is Maryland Department of Agriculture, Office of Resource Conservation, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, (410) 841-5683 or www.mda.state.md.us

Printed materials with pertinent information available through the office include:

* Maryland's Nutrient Management Law . . . And how it affects you

* A Citizen's Guide to the Water Quality Improvement Act of 1999

Previous Ag Today articles have provided information relative to this issue that may be helpful to you as well. Comments should be specific and to the point. Do not wait. This may be your last opportunity to be heard on this very important issue.

The second important issue has to do with cover crops. The Monocacy Watershed will have $400,000 available for the planting of cover crops this year.

Signup for this program will be June 7-July 9, on a first-come, first-served basis. Aerial planting July 15-Sept. 1 provides $35 per acre, direct and seeding Sept. 1-Through Oct. 15 provides $25 per acre. Cover crops allowed during these first two periods are annual ryegrass, rye, wheat, oats, triticale, and barley. Seeding between Oct. 16-Nov. 1 provides $10 per acre and only rye is permitted.

These cover crops can be grazed or green-chopped until May 1, 2000 but must be killed by May 1, 2000.

For more information on the cover crop program contract the Carroll Soil Conversation District office.

Dayna Weinhold is heading for Penn State and a degree in agriculture education.

The city resident said of her career choice, "My ag teacher (Lem Metzler) has been a big influence. He is an excellent mentor."

In FFA at Lancaster Mennonite High School, Dayna has excelled in ag business, and helped her team win a silver medal in national competition. She has participated in public speaking and been selected a national talent winner for her ability to play five musical instruments.

In other high school activities, Dayna has participated in Quiz Bowl, which won the tournament, band, orchestra, band, handbells, chorus, musicals, and the National Honor Society. After studying piano for 10 years, Dayna is designated pianist for FFA, many civic organizations, and for Jerusalem Lutheran Church. She is acitive in the youth group at her church.

She hopes to participate in musical activities at Penn State.

Although Dayna lives in the city, she has had ample opportunity to visit her grandparents and cousins, who live on a farm.

"I love large animals," Dayna said of her struggle to decide on a college major, "but I decided to go into ag teaching. I can identify with some of the students who don't come from the best home situations, so I'd like to combine ag teaching with youth ministry."

Bala Cynwyd Furniture Maker Wins Award

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Paul Downs Cabinetry of Bala Cynwyd, Montgomery County, was the recipient of an exhibit award for best use of Pennsylvania hardwoods at the 1999 Philadelphia Furniture and Furnishings Show.

The award was sponsored and selected from over 40 exhibitors by the Pennsylvania Hardwoods Development Council, which is housed within the state Agriculture Department.

The Council is dedicated to supporting the development of Pennsylvania's hardwood industry.

Paul Downs Cabinetry is a five person shop providing custom-made and limited production home and office furniture made out of cherry and maple from northwest Pennsylvania.

The owner, Paul Downs, is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and is a self-taught woodworker.

His company has been operational for 13 years and stresses functional design and the skill of his artisans.

The Philadelphia Furniture and Furnishings Show is the country's largest retail exhibition and sale of hand-made functional objects.

Grill Time

Fire up the grill.

Whether cooking with charcoal or gas, grilling preferences are beef steaks and burgers. But many different options are available. In addition to burgers and typical barbecue favorites, today's collection of recipes includes ideas to grill vegetables, pizza, and other irresible fare.

Since many of our readers entertain large groups of extended family members and friends, some of the recipes included in this selection serve up to 24 people. For a smaller group, adapt the recipe amounts accordingly.

GRILLED TURKEY BURGERS

1½ -pounds ground turkey
½ cup finely chopped onion
⅛ teaspoon celery salt
Salt and pepper to taste
6 hamburger buns, split
6 large slices tomato, optional
6 lettuce leaves, optional
¼ cup mayonnaise, optional
¼ cup ketchup

In medium bowl, combine turkey, onion, celery salt, salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly. Let stand in refrigerator, 2 to 3 hours for flavors to marry.

Heat coals or gas grills. When ready, form patties and grill 4 to 6-inches over medium heat for 12 to 15 minutes, turning once. Grill until meat is no longer pink. Toast buns on grill. Make sandwich with desired additions. Yields 6 servings.

RANCH BURGERS

1½ pounds lean ground beef
4 teaspoons Spicy Seasoning Mix*
4 egg-hamburger buns, split
Romaine lettuce
Sliced tomato
¼ cup creamy ranch dressing
2 tablespoons canned fried onion rings

Shape ground beef into four ¾ -inch thick patties. Press seasoning mix evenly into both sides of patties.

Heat large, heavy nonstick skillet over medium heat until hot. Add patties and cook 12 to 15 minutes for medium doneness, turning once.

Line bottom half of each bun with lettuce and tomato slices; top with burgers. Spoon ranch dressing evenly over burgers; sprinkle with onion rings. Close sandwiches. Makes 4 servings.

*Spicy Seasoning Mix: Combine:

2 teaspoons dried thyme leaves
2 teaspoons paprika
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon onion powder
½ teaspoon ground red pepper
½ teaspoon ground white pepper

Store, covered, in airtight container. Shake before using to blend. Yield: approximately 3 tablespoons.

Black Jack Burger

"A blackened burger, topped with melted jack cheese, served on a sesame bun with Creole mayonnaise, onions and tomatoes."

BARBECUE RUB

4 tablespoons paprika
2 tablespoons salt
2 tablespoons ground cumin
2 tablespoons chili powder
2 tablespoons ground pepper
2 teaspoons cayenne

In a medium bowl, whisk all the ingredients until well mixed. Transfer to a half-pint airtight jar. Stir before using. Will keep six months.

Use on pork, chicken, and beef.

Therapy Blooms At Faraway Farm

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MILLERSBURG (Dauphin Co.) — It's difficult to discern where therapy begins and ends among the jumble of colorful flowers, herbs, and plants that thrive in a secluded spot of Dauphin County called Faraway Farm.

After a stressful day in the office, Drs. Thomas Fink and Evelyn Soehner find renewing therapy nuturing the plants and flowers to optimal health. Patients find not only neurological help at the rural office but also a haven of visual delight.

Visitors will have the opportunity to tour this delightful haven on Sunday, June 6. Farmaway Farm is one of 10 sites included on the Summer Garden Tour sponsored by Lykens Valley Garden Club.

The name Faraway Farm is descriptive of the 150 acres, far from the city and stretching in all directions into meadows, fields, and mountains.

Neither Fink nor Soehner grew up on farms. "But I always wanted to live in the country," Soehner said. For years, the couple worked together gardening in their Harrisburg backyard until six years ago.

"We were lucky to find this place," Soehner said. "We stumbled across a little ad in the newspaper and as soon as we saw it, we fell in love with it."

The first year, the couple started one little garden that multiplied into a tangle of perennials and herbs. They divided the plants and started another and another.

"Every year, we start another garden and say 'That's the end,'" Soehner said.

But another springs comes, and Soehner says, "Another garden would look nice in this spot."

Now they have several gardens: culinary, butterfly, rose, hummingbird, and an ornamental.

The couple often entertain friends on their farm. "I like to use my gardens like another room of the house," Soehner said. "We can have dinner in the gardens for six months out of the year."

She sets up tables in the garden. Guests dine while inhaling the aroma of lilacs and other seasonal flowers, admiring flitting butterflies, hearing the chirping of rare and common birds, and admiring the spacious countryside. Abundant flowers include fragrant heirloom roses, delphiniums, catmint, honeysuckle, and lavender.

Planted containers massed together add color and beauty on the spacious deck that encompasses large shade trees. A ladder is stacked with potted geraniums. Wooden gates, rustic arbors, slate walks, stone-edged gardens, and winding pathways blend old and present.

"I love the sound of running water," Soehner said in explana-

VINEGAR-FLAVORED GRILLED CHICKEN

4 broiler-fryer chicken quarters
⅔ cup white wine vinegar
⅔ cup water
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons Worchestershire sauce
2 tablespoons garlic salt
1 tablespoon coarsely ground pepper

In small saucepan, place vinegar, water, butter, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper; bring to a boil. Brush sauce on chicken. Place chicken on prepared grill, skin-side up, about 8-inches from heat. Cook, turning and basting liberally with sauce every 5-10 mintues, about 60-70 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Makes 4 servings.

To shorten grilling time, chicken can be partially cooked in microwave oven before placing on grill. While grill is heating, microwave chicken on high about 5 minutes per pound, then grill about 20 minutes more.

National Broiler Council

GRILLED BEEF QUESADILLAS

¾ pound thinly sliced deli roast beef
1½ cups prepared thick and chunky salsa
¼ cup chopped fresh cilantro
3 tablespoons fresh lime juice
1 cup canned black beans, rinsed, drained
½ cup frozen corn kernels, defrosted
8 medium flour tortillas
3 cups shredded Co-Jack cheese

In medium bowl, combine salsa, cilantro, and lime juice. In second bowl, combine ½ cup salsa mixture, beans and corn. Set aside remaining salsa mixture.

Sprinkle cheese evenly on one side of each tortilla; divide beef evenly among tortillas. Top with scant ¼ cup bean mixture. Fold tortillas in half.

Place quesadillas on grid over medium, ash-covered coals. Grill, uncovered, 4 to 5 minutes or until brown; turn once. Serve with reserved salsa mixture.

Beef Council

EARTH & TURF

24 beef loin, tenderloin steaks,
1½ ounces dried porcini mushrooms
3 cups hot water
2 cups dry white wine
1 pound button mushrooms, sliced
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
½ cup flour
3 cups chicken stock
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon black pepper
2-ounces butter

Soak porcini in hot water 30 minutes. Strain through fine sieve, reserving liquid. Chop porcini.

In saucepan, reduce wine to 1 cup; reserve.

In skillet, saute button mushrooms in oil 5 minutes; add porcini.

Whisk flour into chicken stock. Add stock, reserved porcini liquid and wine to mushrooms. Cook over medium-low heat, stirring, until slightly thickened. Season with salt and pepper. Whisk in butter. Keep hot. Yield: 6 cups.

For each serving, grill steak to desired doneness. Plate steak; ladle 2 ounces mushroom sauce over steak.

Beef Council

HERBED GRILLED BREAD

Herbed butter:
½ cup butter
2 cloves garlic, finely minced
2 teaspoons paprika
1 teaspoon oregano, dried
½ teaspoon cumin
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper

Bread, sourdough, Italian or French sliced ½ -inch thick

In a small pan, melt butter, add minced garlic and cook 30 seconds. Remove from heat and add paprika, oregano, cumin, and cayenne, mix well. Brush one side of bread with butter and place on heated grill 4 to 6 minutes or until golden brown, checking frequently to prevent burning.

VEGETABLE GRILLING GUIDE

Grilled vegetables make easy, tasty accompaiments to grilled meat. They are a family-pleasing way to add vitamins, minerals, and fiber to the meal.

Before grilling, brush cleaned vegetables lightly with olive or vegetable oil. For variety, the oil may be seasoned with crushed garlic and herbs. Grill until tender, turning occasionally. Season with salt, as desired.

Bell peppers (green, yellow, orange, or red): Cut peppers lengthwise in half; remove seeds. Grill 12 to 15 minutes.

Corn: Pull husks back from corn, leaving husks attached to base. Remove corn silk. Do not brush with oil. Fold husks back around corn, tie at top of each ear with string or strip of husk. Soak corn in cold water 1 to 2 hours. Grill 20 to 30 minutes, turning frequently.

Eggplant: Cut small eggplants 3 to 4 ounces each) lengthwise in half. Grill 10 to 12 minutes.

Green onions: Grill whole onions about 5 minutes.

Mushrooms: Grill whole mushrooms 12 to 14 minutes.

Onions: Cut onions crosswise into ½ -inch thick slices. Grill 15 to 20 minutes.

Potatoes: Precook small potatoes (3 to 4-ounces each) until barely tender when tested with fork. Rinse in cold water to stop cooking, drain well. Thread onto skewers. Grill 10 to 15 minutes.

Squash: Cut small squash lengthwise in half. Grill 8 to 12 minutes.

Sweet Potatoes: Cut potatoes diagonally into ½ -inch thick slices. Grill 14 to 16 minutes.

Tomatoes: Cut tomatoes into ½ - to ¾ -inch thick slices. Grill 3 to 5 minutes, or until heated through.

Featured Recipe

May is officially Burger Month. It's amazing the many different ways the nation's most popular sandwich can be made.

A form of the hamburger is reported to have been eaten as early as the 14th century. In 1924, the first cheese hamburger was sold in a California grill, since then hamburgers with various toppings continue to be concocted. Caramelized onions, smoked Cheddar cheese, Cajun spices and other ethnic seasonings are popular now.

If you're entertaining a crowd, you'll want to try The Black Jack Burger. The recipe can easily be adapted for fewer burgers.

If you would like more beef and veal recipes to grill, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the Pennsylvania Beef Council (PBC), 1500 Fulling Mill Rd., Middletown, PA 17057.

PBC also launched a new web site (www.pabeef.org) with recipes, food safety tips, and educational materials. Web site visitors can download materials or e-mail requests to information@pabeef.org.

BLACK JACK BURGER

2¾ cups mayonnaise
⅔ cup Creole mustard
48 tomato slices
48 thin red onion slices
½ cup prepared vinaigrette dressing
24 ground beef patties
1½ cups Cajun seasoning mixture
24 slices Monterey Jack cheese
24 sesame seed buns, split

In bowl, mix ingredients until thoroughly blended. Cover and refrigerate. Yields: 3½ cups.

In bowl, toss tomatoes and onions in dressing to coat. Cover and reserve.

For each serving, season one patty on each side with 1½ teaspoons Cajun seasoning mixture. Grill to 157-degrees internal temperature. Top with one slice cheese and melt. Spread 1 tablespoon Creole mayonnaise on each cut side of one bun. Place 2 slices each marinated tomatoes and onions on bottom bun half. Top with grilled burger and top of bun.

Contest For New Jersey Residents Only

SUSSEX, N.J. — The New Jersey Dairy Princess Committee announces the 13th annual Jersey Fresh Dairy Recipe Contest. All New Jersey residents may enter, and the featured topic is appetizers or hors d'oeuvres recipes using Jersey Fresh fruits, vegetables and dairy products. All entries must feature at least one dairy product and no imitation dairy products may be used.

Judging will be based on taste appeal, creativity, east of preparation, appearance, and the effective use of dairy products. No recipe should specify brand names, and entries must state number of servings and approximate preparation time.

Entries must be postmarked by midnight, June 1 to be eligible for the contest. Semifinalists will be contacted to be present at the final judging which will take place Jun 26, at the Somerset County 4-H Center in Bridgewater.

The grand prize is a $150 cash award; second prize is $100, and third prize is $50. All semifinalists will receive dairy promotion awards.

Born, er, rather Hatched: Monday, May 11, and Thursday, May 13.
Birth weight: A mere few ounces of yellow-brown fuzz. Each Birth length: About 6 inches. Each Number: Eleven Combined.
Proud Parents: Two pairs of turf competitive Canada geese.

This year is the first time that our meadow ponds have hosted multiple nestings of Canada geese. Their obvious tameness leads us to suspect that at least one of each of the parental pairs is a former "native" of the meadow, returned like so many species to their place of birth, to renew the miraculous cycle of continuing life.

It was the Frog Pond nest that won the gosling race, not a surprise because we knew that one had been the first started. What we weren't sure of was how many days sooner.

The first hatch of five little fluffballs surprised us by slipping off the bank of one of the middle ponds, as our extended family circled it on an evening visit to the meadow. Five tiny puffs of down bobbed over the ripples, carefully herded every moment by two very protective and cautious parents. Goslings are hatched with that amazing instinct to huddle close to their mothers, so close that these nearly disappeared under her tail feathers even while bobbing along behind her in the water.

On his journeys back and forth past the ponds with field equipment. The Farmer kept tabs on the family's whereabouts over the next day or two, watching for signs of activity from the later nest at the big pond. During the month-long hatching process, the two ganders had occasionally clashed in honking, splashing, territorial squabbles, though they seemed to ink a truce toward the end.

Whether the truce was due to tolerance or just tiredness, we weren't sure. Whatever the reason, peace did pretty much prevail before the eggs started to come alive. However, given the fierce territorial protectiveness our single-nest hatches have always spurred, we figured the squabbling would resume once the goslings had pecker their way out into the world.

Sure enough, the Frog Pond pair showed no inclination to return to that nest site, and began edging their way farther and farther up the meadow toward the big pond. Two evenings later, they had settled in comfortably on a pond in between. And the parents now began accepting the nosey presence of three adults, two children, and a dog. The geese showed with enough comfort to paddle a bit closer with the babies for some feed we tossed toward them.

But, now there was activity on the platform nest site of the big pond. Minus the binoculars, it took some eyestraining in the dusk to identify at least two tiny heads bobbing around the feathers of the goose, still regally perched on her nursery. Apparently the hatching was still not complete, because Mother Goose showed no signs of moving an inch.

"We have six babies," announced The Farmer the next morning. The second hatch had "launched" into the pond, enabling him to take a head count on one of his numerous trips past while hauling loads of forage from the fields to the silo.

By midday, both pairs were contentedly paddling their bobbing babies around the big pond, occasionally leading them to the lush grass nearby to graze and snooze in the sun. And, though they continue to maintain a respectable distance from each other, a goodwill philosophy of "live and let live" appears to have taken hold.

If only we humans could learn to more readily do that.

Dairy Promoters Needed In Many Counties

CLARION (Clarion Co.) — The Pennsylvania dairy industry is seeking women between the ages of 13-24 to help with dairy promotion.

Any single woman interested in competing for the title of dairy princess must be between 16-24 years of age and be involved with the dairy industry. Younger promoters between 13 and 16 years of age are needed to help as dairy maids or ambassadors.

This is an excellent opportunity to have fun, make new friends, develop self confidence and public speaking skills, as well as travel.

Chester Countians should attend an informative tea scheduled for May 23 at 2 p.m. Call one of the following committee members for information: Sharon Nolan (610) 593-7465 or Charlene Ranck (717) 442-9008.

The Chester County coronation is scheduled during the Cochranville Community Strawberry Festival on June 5, at 10:30 a.m.

Tioga County also needs dairy promoters. Tioga County's pageant is slated for June 14 at the Whitneyville Fairgrounds. Tickets for the 7 p.m. dinner is $8. Call Carol Baker for more details at (570) 549-2599.

Clearfield County will hold its coronation on May 29 at Clearfield Agway. The ceremonies begin at 8 p.m. followed by entertainment and an ice cream social.

For more details, call Mary Ann Way at (814) 765-6438.

York County needs dairy princess and Little Dairy Miss contestants for the pageant to be held at the York County 4-H Center, Bair, tentively scheduled for June 26 or 27. Call Gail Thoman (717) 428-1832.

Perry County needs dairy princess and dairy ambassadors for the pageant scheduled for June 19 at the Perry County Extension office, New Bloomfield. Call Marel or Peggy Raub at (717) 834-4721.

The following counties also need dairy promoters:

Bradford County contact person is Kristin Russell (814) 669-9149.

Clinton County contact person is Sue Dotterer (570) 726-6087.

Indiana County contact is Jim Lydic (724) 397-4952.

Wayne County contact is Daisy Dix (570) 448-2941.

Lebanon County contact is Jenn Bashore Ebersole (717) 933-1604.

Sun area contact is Linda Fisher (570) 374-4114.

Beaver-Lawrence Counties contact is Betsy Musser (724) 336-4300.

Schuylkill County contact is Gail Moyer (570) 385-1815.

Cumberland County contact is Betty Zeigler (717) 243-2001.

Warren County contact is Carol Wilcox (814) 757-8234.

Mercer County contact is Elaine Leise (724) 475-4788.

Somerset County is Angie Shober (814) 267-3624.

Safe Food Workshop

W. PITTSTON (Luzerne Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension of Luzerne County, in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Health Northeast Regional Office, will host a two-hour workshop on "Safe Food Handling Techniques" for volunteers who prepare and handle food for fundraising.

The workshop will be held on May 25, from 6:30 p.m. until 8 p.m. at the Firwood Methodist Church, Old River Road, in Wilkes-Barre.

The workshop is designed for all levels of food handling. It will focus on hands-on demonstrations of proper use of thermometers, sanitizing equipment, cooling foods properly and handwashing.

For more information, call Mary Ehret at 717-825-1701 or 602-0600. There is no charge for the program.

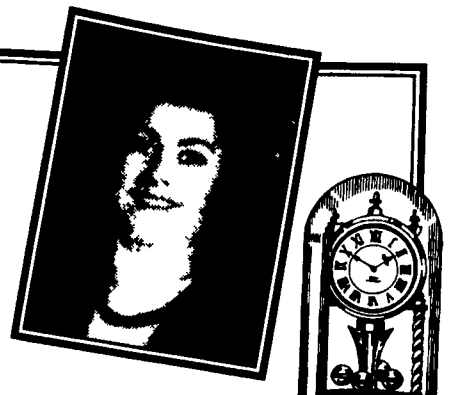
Taking Time by Rebecca Escott



Wedding Bells, Wedding Bills!

May and June are traditional bridal shower and wedding months. Time of bliss and joy. Unfortunately, after the few days of celebration come the bills. Weddings are expensive and they are just the first of many money issues that new couples will need to tackle together.

Research shows that one of the biggest stressors on a marriage is disagreements about money. The stress doesn't usually come from not having enough money, but from husbands and wives differing on how and when that money should be spent. It's crucial that newlyweds and soon-to-be-weds learn healthy ways to budget money and talk about money.

It is common that, in a couple, one person will be more of a saver — the conservative one who plans, shows self-discipline, is practical. The other is likely to be less organized and more impulsive. Consequently, this person also feels free to spend money in more lavish ways. The beauty of a relationship is that these two styles can bring balance to a family if handled well.

Brides and grooms who want to establish healthy money routines should try these things:

1. Set aside at least 30 minutes a week to talk about how things are going. Is there anything coming up that we need to plan for? Anything that happened this past week that I should know about. This gives a perfect chance to list things like: the quarterly water bill comes this month; I have to get the car inspected; we got an invitation to Aunt Rita's daughter's wedding. All these things require some planning with a couple's finances.

2. Ask each other what your hopes and priorities are for the next month, six months, year. I know when my husband and I moved into our home three months after we were married, we sat down and listed our home improvement priorities. Several we considered urgent. (Of course, a few of those "urgent" things are just getting taken care of now, seven years later, because time and money constraints delayed our plans.

3. At least at first, go over household bills together. It would be good to do this even before you are married or sharing the same household. Findout out how much another person spends going out with friends, how the checkbook isn't balanced, how far behind someone is on credit card bills or a student loan are not things that you want to surprise you months into a marriage. Take time to ask questions and talk openly about the financial commitments you bring in to the relationship.

4. Take one evening or afternoon to specifically discuss how money was handled in your growing up families. Did people talk about money? Did your moms work outside the home? Did you work as a teen? Were you paid for chores? Did your parents loan you money? Did they make you put money in the bank? What were your vacations like? Your cars like? Who kept the checkbook and paid the bills? What worked about these routines? What would you like to change in your own marriage? The patterns that each partner experienced as a child will strongly influence the choices he or she makes as an adult. Knowing about the other's experiences will help the spouse understand the opinions and struggles.

5. Both partners should keep a written record of all their spending for at least a month. At the end of the month, add up the amounts. Put together a list of categories of purchases. You may have spent money on groceries, entertainment, clothes, charities/fund-raisers/church, gifts for friends, car/transportation, etc. Write each of these categories on a piece of paper. Each partner should put them in order of how important they are to them (how important they are to the family budget). Then share your rankings with your partner.

In the early days of a relationship, it's easy to ride on the adrenaline of love, but sooner or later that will even out and more nitty-gritty issues of running a shared household will emerge. It's at these times that you will say,"Boy, I'm glad we took the time to talk about this money stuff early on., so I know where you're coming from.

Farm Women Impersonate Favorite Celebrities

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MECHANICSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — Scattered among the 610 members attending the 34th annual Spring Rally for the Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania were Sonny and Cher, Micky and Minnie Mouse, Lucy and Ethel of "I Love Lucy" fame, Ed Sullivan, the Andrew Sisters, Johnny Cash, and other former celebrities.

OK, they weren't the actual celebrities, but the impersonations might have fooled someone with dim eyesight. Members of Cumberland County Society of Farm Women 15 did a rip-roaring job of impersonating their favorite performers both past and present. Wigs, costumes, and makeup transformed the members into the images of their stars as they either lip-synced to the original music or spoke with the accents and mannerisms associated with their portrayed characters.

Deb Yorlets looked like the original Ed Sullivan as she introduced guest stars. There was Janet Kutz dressed in black and strumming a guitar as Johnny Cash while side-kicks Sandy Morrison and Betty Garman pounded the drums and blasted the trombone to the famous hit, "Ring of Fire."

Martee Mentzer, Janice Yorlets, and Esther Cohick made a great appearance as the Andrew Sisters.

The "Honeymooners" sitcom by Sandy Morrison, Carol Williams, Erma Dingle, and Phyllis Barrick showed that married life isn't always bliss.

Minnie Pearl wearing her hat with price still attached was really Farm Woman member Joyce Wardle. Mouseketeers were Cheryl Barrick, Carol Williams, and Peggy Wynn.

Dr. Kenneth Markley, psychologist, talks about great marks of maturity.

Recognize Deb Yorlets and Joyce Wardle as Lucy and Ethel of "I Love Lucy" fame?

As Cher, Peggy Wynn swung her straight long black hair and hips with Ann Brough, alias Sonny, to the '60s hit, "I Got You, Babe."

In the skit, farm family Ilene Hosfelt, Katie Whistler, Winnie Beam, and Corrine bought their first television set and were enthralled to watch whatever everyone else was watching on shows in the 1950s through 1970s.

"Getting Older and Getting Fatter," by Judy Dillen, library director for New Cumberland Library, had Farm Women members in hysterics as she recited writings from humorous Erma Brombeck. Now deceased, Brombeck remains one of the most famous women to address the many dilemnas that women face. The pitfalls of many diets were addressed through her sense of humor and members were invited to establish their own Weight Watchers group by serving doughnuts and watching each other grow.

A barbershop quartet called the "Social Security Act" entertained in the afternoon with a medley of songs from the early 1900s.

Dr. Kenneth Markley, psychologist, talked about the marks of maturity. "Other people don't care what you look like as long as you're neat and clean," he said. To be liked, "Make people feel special."

With humorous anecdotes, Markley explained that the other marks of maturity are to see yourself realistically, to cooperate with others, to be decisive, to aim but don't demand perfection, and to love others.

In the skit, this farm family hurries off to town to buy their first television set.

Peggy Wynn and Ann Brough alias Sonny and Cher sing "I Got You, Babe."

Cumberland County Society of Farm Women #15 gather on stage after performing before the audience of 610. On the right, the three women in the white blouses performed as the Andrew Sisters. Second from left is Ed Sullivan.

Man In Black Johnny Cash, Janet Kutz, strums a guitar accompanied by Sandy Morrison and Betty Garman.

"Honeymooners," Sandy Morrison, Carol Williams, and Erma Dingle attempt to work out marital strife.

"Getting Older and Getting Fatter" isn't bad when viewed with the sense of humor presented by Judy Dillen.

In other business, Donna Duncan, president of Cumberland County of Farm Women, read a letter from First Lady Michele Ridge congratulating members on their commitment to preserve family farms, on their charitable efforts, and on being strong role models for the young.

Lois Hughes, state president of the Society of Farm Women, addressed members and said that next year's Spring Rally will be hosted by members from Lebanon County.

Cumberland County members who planned the daylong program included the following: Donna Duncan, president; Betty Wert, first vice president; Norma Greider, second vice president; Betty Garman, secretary; Sarah Nealy, treasurer; Dottie Dunkleberger, corresponding secretary; Carol Goldinger, state director; Martee Mentzer, past state president; and Edith Diehl, past state president.

The Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania was founded in 1914. The purpose of the organization is to contribute to the power and influence of the farm home, to contribute to the community activity of farm women, to develop leadership, and to promote better living and working conditions of farm homes of Pennsylvania.

Throughout the year, members work diligently to raise monies for charity and perform other notable duties, but the Spring Rally is a day set aside annually for members to gather together to have fun.

State membership stands at 2,639.

Century of Farming — A Pictorial Review

The best way to review agriculture over the last 100 years

Recalling the family involvement and historic significance of agriculture's heritage Century of Farming will feature hundreds of photographs on 128 pages. This treasure chest of memories will include photos from yesteryear giving the reader a glimpse of the life in the farm community for the last 100 years. Already our readers are submitting photos from their family albums and a number of historical society groups have pledged selections to be used in the Lancaster Farming book.

This book will be edited by the Lancaster Farming staff and will be hard cover bound to make it of heirloom quality. The finished product will be available by mid November 1999, just in time for Christmas giving and the turn of the century.

You will want a copy of Century of Farming not only for yourself but your loved ones as well. What a great gift idea for those who have roots in agriculture or simply like keepsake history books for their library.

WE NEED YOUR HELP...

If you have photos of bygone days that show the times and activities of agriculture between 1901 and the present, would you share them with us? We are looking for such photographs. These photographs should be identifiable, including at least some of the people, buildings, machinery, time and place.

- When you send them to us or drop them off at Lancaster Farming's office at 11 Main St. Ephrata, PA 17522, please jot down all pertinent data including your own name, address and phone number.
- If you have any questions, call our editor at 717-721-4425. Space may prohibit us from printing every photo submitted, but all photos will be returned to their owners unharmed.

PRE-PUBLICATION DISCOUNT!

Only a limited number of Century of Farming books will be published. To be sure that you get the number of copies you want, place your pre-publication order today! The pre-publication price is only $26.00 per book. If you don't reserve a copy the price will be $34.95 when the books are available. The Pennsylvania sales tax is included, but postage and mailing the books to you is $3.95.

Simply complete the order form at the right and mail it right away with payment of your pre-publication price included. We do accept MasterCard, Visa and Discover cards.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send an SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — K. Wolfe would like the recipe for homemade ice cream that children can make in plastic baggies. She remembers the recipe had appeared in this paper last year.

QUESTION — Brenda Houser, Middletown, would like a recipe to make cookies that taste like the ones served at Shady Maple Smorgasboard. The varieties that she likes are Chocolate Chip Truffle, which has a chocolate batter with chocolate chips in it and a soft chocolate center, and Peanut Butter Truffle, which has a peanut butter batter with chopped nuts and a soft peanut butter filling.

QUESTION — Karen Rex, New Tripoli, would like a recipe for pumpkin whoopie pies filled with a cream cheese filling. She remembers buying them at public auctions occasionally. They were delicious and she is now having a crave attack.

QUESTION — Ed Gottshal, Ephrata, remembers his mother making cinnamon rolls in the 1940s. He thinks that she did not use a raised flour, but pie dough that was sprinkled with sugar and cinnamon, and rolled up like a jelly roll then cut into pieces. He'd like an exact recipe.

QUESTION — A reader would like to know how to can horseradish. When should the roots be dug? How long should horseradish be cooked? She would also like recipes using horseradish.

QUESTION — An Ephrata reader would like a recipe for cracker pudding made with ice cream. She also would like a pancake mix recipe to store and use as needed by adding liquid.

QUESTION — For the recipe for Pork Roll printed April 24, ingredients such as Perma Flow, phosphate, and speed cure were listed. Where can these items be purchased.

QUESTION — Marilyn DeMeyer, Hilton, N.Y., would like recipes for salt rising bread.

QUESTION — Shirley Ream, Criston, Ohio, would like a recipe on how to can ring bologna either by waterbath or pressure cooker or both.

QUESTION — Tricia Grossnickle, Frederick, Md., would like to know if any of the readers know of a recipe for a dessert called Johnnie Bowl. Tricia remembers her grandmother made it for New Year's. The dessert is a pudding-like cake with raisins wrapped in cheesecloth and boiled. The dessert is served with a sauce.

QUESTION — Connie Becker, Cato, N.Y., would like recipes for quart-jar soup mixes that are layered and given as gifts. She appreciates the recipes that were printed for Sand Art Bars, Quart Jar Cookie mixes, and canned breads and cakes. Any other food gift ideas or similar recipes not previously printed would be appreciated.

QUESTION — Pam Bange, Hanover, would like recipes for using shitake mushrooms and portabella mushrooms.

QUESTION — G. Minkle, Wayne, would like a recipe for hot pepper cabbage relish, which she had clipped from this column several years ago.

QUESTION — K. B., York Springs, would like a recipe to make rotisserie chicken that tastes like that made by Rutters' Mini Market.

QUESTION — Carrie Sponseller, Gettysburg, would like a recipe for Snow Flake Cookie mix in a jar. It includes white chocolate chips and macadamia nuts that are layered in a quart jar.

QUESTION — Several years ago, J. Rouse clipped a recipe from this section for maple syrup pork chops. Her family loves the recipe, but she lost it. Anyone else clip the recipe? Send it in so we can reprint it.

QUESTION — Linda Garber, New Ringgold, is looking for recipes for vegetabie cream cheese to spread on bagels.

QUESTION — Ben S. Stoltzfus, Honey Brook, would like a recipe bran muffins that tastes like the Sara Lee brand.

QUESTION — Lester Horvath, Washington, N.J., would like a recipe for hot pickled ring bologna.

QUESTION — Madeline Raub, Easton, would like to know where to buy a round biscuit shaped like a basket with a fluted edge. She thinks the biscuits had been made by Nabisco and sold loose by the pound. Her mother used them at Easter to make "bird nests" by putting icing inside and colored jelly beans.

QUESTION — Barb Fox wants to know how to make blueberry pig.

QUESTION — Jack Hohmeier, Painter, Va., wants to know how to actually can canned milk, not just duplicate for immediate use.

QUESTION — Lynn Rossi, Lititz, would like a recipe for marinated mushrooms, which are made without cooking oil and sold by S. Clyde Weaver, East Petersburg.

QUESTION — Mrs. Dale Burkhart, Narvon, misplaced a recipe for a seasoning mixture to rub into beef roast before roasting. She recalls that some of the ingredients included instant coffee granules, beef bouillion, salt and pepper.

ANSWER — Here's another Cajun recipe that had been requested.

Blackened Cajun Catfish

4 catfish fillets
⅓ cup melted butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons dried thyme leaves
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons black pepper, cracked
2 teaspoons paprika
1 teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon ground red pepper
⅓ cup dry white wine

Heat large cast-iron skillet over high heat for 10 mintues. Rinse fillets and pat dry. Mix melted butter and lemon juice in small bowl. Brush fillets with lemon butter on both sides and sprinkle each side with spice mixture. Place two fillets, rounded side down, in hot skillet. Cook over high heat for 2 minutes. Turn fillets and cook 2 to 3 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Repeat procedure with remaining fillets while keeping cooked fillets warm. Remove skillet from heat and add wine and any remaining lemon butter. Stir well and spoon over catfish. Serve immediately. Serves four.

Note: this cooking method produces smoke. Prepare in a well-ventilated area.

ANSWER — A reader, who has a Whisper Mill Grain Grinder, wanted some other readers' favorite recipes using fresh ground flour such as barley, rice, spelt, rye, etc. Thanks to a reader for sending in several.

Yogurt Pancakes

½ cup brown rice flour
2 tablespoons soya flour
1½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon sugar (optional)
¾ cup plain low-fat yogurt
2 eggs

Combine all ingredients in small bowl of electric mixer. Turn to high speed and mix until well blended. Pour about ¼ cup at a time into a hot, lightly greased griddle and cook as usual.

Millet Muffins

1 cup millet flour
1 cup boiling water
1¼ cups brown rice flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon safflower oil
1 tablespoon honey
2 eggs, separated

Pour boiling water over millet. Set aside. Combine dry ingredients. Set aside. Stir oil and honey into millet. Beat egg whites until stiff. Set aside. Without cleaning beaters, beat yolks. Add to millet. Stir in dry ingredients. Stir in about 2 tablespoons whites into the mixture. Fold in remaining whites. Spoon into well greased muffin tins. Bake at 400 degrees about 20 minutes, or until done.

Farmers' Market Nutrition Program To Distribute $2 Million To Needy

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On behalf of Gov. Tom Ridge, Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. announced that more than $2.18 million will be distributed to Pennsylvania's women and children under the Department of Agriculture's Farmers' Market Nutrition Program (FMNP) in 1999.

The program provides fresh fruits and vegetables to families enrolled in the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program.

"The Farmers' Market Nutrition Program encourages healthy eating habits by promoting consumption of fresh fruits and vegetables among nutritionally-at-risk mothers and mothers-to-be, and children ages two to five," Hayes said. "At the same time, it increases support for Pennsylvania's more than 300 farm markets that participate in the program."

In 1998, more than 437,000 FMNP checks valued at $5 each were issued to eligible women and children. IN 1999, it is expected to serve more than 152,000 participants in all 67 Pennsylvania counties, and will provide additional sales for more than 400 participating Pennsylvania farmers.

All mothers and children ages two to five enrolled in (WIC) are encouraged to apply. Eligible individuals should contact their local WIC office, or call 1-800-WIC-WINS (1-800-942-9467) for more information.

Red Lion Wins By One Point

DALLASTOWN (York Co.) — The Road Kill I team from Red Lion High School took first place by one point over Dallastown Hellbenders in the 14th annual York County Envirothon at the York Chapter of the Izaak Walton League, outside Dallastown. Red Lion team members included Dan Crowl, SaraBeth Wanbaugh, Jeremy Laucks, Roxann Rexroth, Amanda Schott and Caleb Humberd. The Red Lion Road Kill II team won third.

A total of 21 teams with more than 120 students took part in this environmental learning competition organized by the York County Conservation District.

Participating high schools included Dallastown, Red Lion, Northeastern, Kennard-Dale, Spring Grove, Central York, Susquehannock, Hanover, Red Land, Northern, Eastern and York Homeschoolers.

The Envirothon is an environmental learning competition for students in grades three to 12. At the senior high level, teams of six students are tested in five areas: soils, forestry, aquatics, wildlife and a current event topic: wildfire management. Each student receives a snack, T-shirt, lunch, ribbons, certificates, and seedlings. Winners receive trophies and ribbons.

The Road Kill I team will go on to represent York County at the state competition in late May at the PP&L Montour Preserve in Montour County.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Janet Spangler, York Springs, writes that she and her husband are trying to eat better, and wanted recipes high in protein but low in fat and carbohydrates.

Puffy Omelet

3 eggs, separated

Beat egg whites, add salt, pepper, fresh herbs if desired. Fold beaten egg yolks into the whites.

Use cast iron fry pan, melt 1 tablespoon low fat butter substitute over high heat. Put egg mixture into pan and cook one minute. Place cast iron pan into 400 degree oven for three minutes. Fill half the omelet with low-fat cheese, sauteed onions, broccoli, tomato, bell pepper, etc. Fold over half the omelet. Cut omelet in half. Serves two people.

Here are some more protein-rich recipes that are packed with nutrition.

Italian Garden Catfish

4 catfish fillets
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon black pepper, ground
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 cups thinly sliced onions
2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms
2-ounce can anchovies, drained, chopped
2 teaspoons chopped garlic
¼ teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes
¼ cup chopped parsley, divided
2 cups chopped plum tomatoes
½ cup dry white wine

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Rinse fillets, pat dry and arrange, rounded side up, in a greased roasting pan. Sprinkle fillets with salt and pepper. heat olive oil in heavy skillet. Add onions, mushrooms, anchoives, garlic, red pepper, and half the chopped parsley. Cook over medium-high heat until onions soften, about 4 minutes. Add tomatoes and wine to onion mixture. Simmer for 2 minutes and remove from heat. Spoon vegetable mixture over fillets. Cover with foil and bake 15 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Transfer fillets and vegetables to warm serving plates. Pour remaining liquid into a saucepan. Add remaining parsley to cooking liquid. Heat to a simmer. Simmer for three minutes. Spoon sauce over each portion. Serves four.

Stir-Fry Beef

1½ pounds sirloin steak, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons vegetable oil, divided
1 medium onion, cut into ½-inch pieces
2 cups broccoli florets
2 cups green, yellow, or red bell peppers
1 garlic clove, minced
¾ cup beef broth
¼ cup teriyaki sauce
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon cornstarch

Pour 1 tablespoon oil into large skillet. Heat over medium-high heat. Cook and stir beef strips until browned and done, about 1 to 2 minutes per side. Remove beef from skillet and drain. Add remaining oil to skillet. Add onion, broccoli, peppers, and garlic. Stir-fry until vegetables are crisp-tender, about 4 minutes. Combine broth, teriyaki sauce, ginger, and cornstarch. Stir beef and broth mixture into vegetables. Heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is slightly thickened. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Here's a high-quality protein recipe from the Egg Board.

Spinach Salmon Loaf

6 eggs
1 cup non-fat or low-fat milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons dried dill weed
1 teaspoon onion salt
10-ounce package frozen chopped spinach, thawed, drained
2 cups cooked elbow macaroni
1 can salmon, drained, flaked

In medium bowl, beat together eggs, milk, lemon juice and seasonings until well blended. Stir 1 cup egg mixture into spinach. Evenly spread about 1 cup of the spinach mixture over bottom of greased loaf pan. Layer 1 cup macaroni, ½ cup egg mixture, remaining spinach mixture, remaining macaroni, remaining egg mixture, and salmon over spinach.

Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until knife inserted near center comes out clean, about 50 to 55 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes. With spatula, gently loosen at sides. Invert onto serving platter. Cut into ¾-inch slices.

Wildlife Education

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Wildlife Federation will be conducting a week-long conservation workshop for educators in the southcentral region of Pennsylvania, in early August.

The workshop will be based at Big Spring High School in Cumberland County and specific workshops will explore other conservation and nature centers within the Susquehanna Valley.

Participants will travel to various sites which might be suitable as field trips for their students and will be able to develop a network of teachers and other resource professionals.

The workshop will be held August 9-13, from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. daily.

This regional workshop, intended for middle school and high school educators, will focus on local situations and conditions pertaining to water quality and stream monitoring activities, agriculture, land use issues, forestry and wildlife as well as educational programs provided by state agencies and local conservation organizations.

The planned course of study, sanctioned by the Capital Area Intermediate Unit and the Pennsylvania Department of Education, will provide continuing education credits for teachers.

For additional information, call the Pennsylvania Wildlife Federation at 717-231-4390 or write to the state headquarters at 2426 North Second Street, harrisburg, PA 17110.

Wildlife Is Best Left Alone

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — People often encounter young animals who appear to be wounded or abandoned in the spring. If you run across one of these baby animals, it's usually best to leave it alone, says a wildlife biologist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Even with good intentions, people often do more harm than good trying to take care of young animals," said Margaret Brittingham, associate professor of wildlife resources. Most commonly encountered are rabbits, birds, and fawns.

"Rabbits often nest in little depressions in lawns or the sides of yards," Brittingham said. "The female nurses the young in the morning, covers the nest, then leaves until dusk. That's why baby rabbits often appear to be abandoned."

But rabbits periodically return to check on their young. If the nest has been disturbed, the adults will move it.

"Once my dog came upon a rabbit's nest in the yard," Brittingham said. "I took her inside, returned to the nest two hours later, and the young already had been moved."

If you suspect that young rabbits have been orphaned, some experts suggest taking a string and making a circle around the nest and an "X" over it late in the afternoon. The next morning, check the string. If it's disturbed and the babies seem well, the mother has returned.

If the mother has been killed, the young animals may need help.

Brittingham recommends calling a local wildlife rehabilitator as soon as possible. People aren't allowed to raise baby animals without a permit. To find the nearest wildlife rehabilitator, call your county extension office.

"Many people often see young, flightless birds sitting alone and want to carry them inside," Brittingham says. "But birds are very hard to raise. It's almost always better for the bird if you leaved it in a safe place and hope the parent returns.

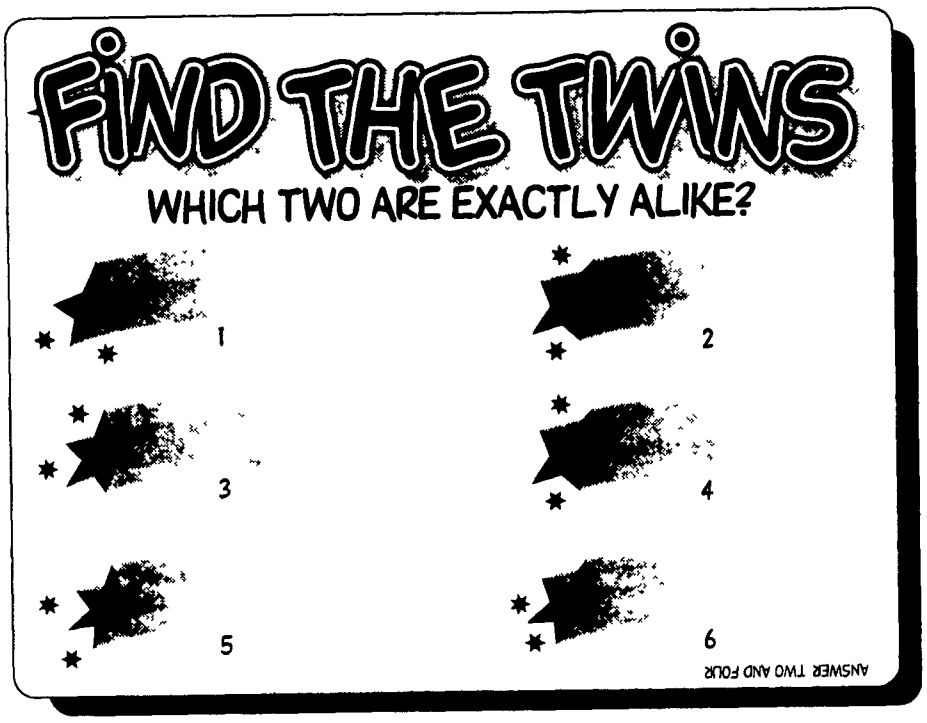
"Sometimes the bird actually has left the nest but can't yet fly," she says. "If you're concerned about cats or predators, move it to a safe place, like a bush or low branch. It's a myth that the mother won't return to a baby bird after a human has handled it."

Occasionally young birds fall from nests. "In that case, you can try returning it," says Brittingham. "A fallen nest with eggs can be placed high in a shrub or tree. But a fallen egg is probably a lost cause."

People occasionally find baby deer in the woods. "Often the fawn hasn't been abandoned," Brittingham says. "Deer, like rabbits, leave their young alone for long periods of time. But if you know the mother's been killed, contact the Game Commission."

Brittingham urges people to remember that they can be injured aiding wildlife. Animals sometimes bite out of fright. To avoid being bitten or scratched, she suggests being cautious and wearing gloves. "You want to be particularly careful handling squirrels," she says. "They're very aggressive and have very sharp teeth.

"And never handle raccoons," she stresses. "Many raccoons in Pennsylvania carry rabies. If you see raccoons around your house, you should modify what's attracting them. Raccoons often feed on cat food or garbage cans. Make sure garbage cans are secured and garage doors are closed, and don't leave food outside."



Birdbrain Behavior

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Birds are hurling themselves against windows, hammering on drainpipes and pecking on glass. Don't let it get to you — it won't last much longer, said a wildlife biologist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"At the beginning of the breeding season, birds are establishing territories," said Margaret Brittingham, associate professor of wildlife resources. "They're singing, displaying and telling all of the other males of their species to keep out."

When a bird sees his reflection in a window, he thinks it's an intruder. So he "displays" to try to get the intruder to leave. "Of course the 'intruder' displays back, and the bird gets madder and madder until he starts pecking on the glass."

To some people, this behavior can be quite annoying, she says. "One caller had a robin at her work window, pecking nonstop and hurling itself against the glass. Another caller had a mockingbird on her car, pecking like crazy at the side window.

The best bet is to wait it out. Once the birds breed, the male hormones will drop and they'll become less aggressive.

"You can always try putting a large rearview mirror in your yard — like the kind from a truck," she adds. "You may be able to draw the bird's attention to the new intruder."

Another complaint Brittingham hears this time of year concerns woodpeckers. "Woodpeckers drum to set up territories and attract mates, and one of the most resonant items to drum on is a drainpipe or rain gutter," she says. "At 5 a.m., it really can drive people crazy."

To scare them off, Brittingham suggests hanging streamers or Scare-Eye balloons. "Scare-Eye balloons have giant eyes on them," she says. "You can buy them at garden supply centers. They only work for short periods of time, but that's all you'll need."

June Dairy Month

A Good Snake Is A Live Snake

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Ask people what they'd do if they saw a snake in their yard and most will say, "Kill it!" But a wildlife biologist from Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences has other ideas.

"People shouldn't kill snakes — they're extremely good mousers," said Gary San Julian, professor of wildlife resources. "By reducing the rodent population, snakes reduce the potential for diseases such as hantavirus and Lyme disease. Rodents chew the insulation off of wire, causing short circuits and fires. Rodents also can do tremendous damage to agriculture, ruining billions of dollars of grain each year worldwide."

Pennsylvania has only three poisonous species of snake — the timber rattlesnake, eastern massasauga rattlesnake and northern copperhead. The massasauga is found only in a few western counties.

"You can determine whether a snake is poisonous by looking at its eyes," San Julian said. "Nonpoisonous snakes in Pennsylvania have a circular pupil, while poisonous snakes have a vertically slitted pupil, like a cat."

If you don't want to get that close, San Julian suggests looking at the head. "Nonpoisonous snakes tend to have a round head," he says, "while poisonous snakes' heads are more triangular. The exception is water snakes, which — although nonpoisonous in Pennsylvania — can flatten their heads to a triangular shape when provoked."

If you still can't co-exist with snakes in your yard, San Julian has some suggestions. "You've probably watched the old movies where cowboys put a rope around their bedroll to keep snakes away," he says. "We've tested common folk preventatives, such as rop, moth balls, gourd vines, sulfur, artificial skunk scent and sticky materials, and the snakes passed freely through them. Your best bet is to make the environment inhospitable for snakes."

Snakes come into yards for a number of reasons, he says. "They like cover, so you may want to clean up old trash piles or messy woodpiles. You also should keep the grass around your house cut short. Snakes aren't likely to stay where the grass doesn't provide cover.

"You also should remove food sources for mice, because snakes come around looking for mice," he says. "Don't leave excess food out inside your house, and clean up the old food around bird feeders."

Homeowners should plug the holes in house foundations, and any places where utilities come through concrete walls. Animals such as snakes and mice may come inside out of curiosity; others are looking for food or a place to nest. You also should make sure screens are sealed.

If you find a snake in your basement, some experts suggest laying damp burlap bags in a corner or along a wall in the basement, then waiting for snakes to burrow under them and hide.

If you find a snake skin in your house, San Julian says you usually can assume the snake has gone. But if you want to be certain the snake wasn't poisonous, look under the tail. "Poisonous snakes have a single row of scales below the vent, while nonpoisonous snakes have two," he says.

Any snake you see probably wants to get away from you more than you want to get away from it," San Julian says. "If you don't like snakes, it's easy to stay out of their way. I've spent more than 25 years tromping through the woods in seven states — some that have more poisonous snakes than Pennsylvania — and I've only seen three or four poisonous snakes. They're very elusive. You really have to be looking for them."

Why do bees and wasps sting?
These insects sting to defend themselves and to kill other insects for food. But, to understand which sting for self-defense and which sting for food, you have to know what kind of stinging insect it is.
The honey bee, for instance, will only sting when it feels threatened. A honey bee's stinger is serrated — that means it's jagged and looks like a saw blade. So, the stinger gets stuck in your skin. The body of the bee rips away from the stinger when it tries to free itself. Honey bees die shortly after this happens. The female worker bee is the only honey bee that can sting.
Wasps and yellow jackets will also sting for self-defense, but the main use of their stinger is to kill other insects for food. The venom, or poison, from their stinger will kill the insects that they eat. Wasps and yellow jackets vary in size and are less hairy than honey bees. According to our entomology friends at Ohio State, wasps and yellow jackets are the most common bees around your school. These flying pests will sting if you bug them, and sometimes they sting for no reason at all. The same wasp or yellow jacket can sting you many times, because the stinger is smooth and slender like a sewing needle.
So, watch out for these flying pests. They may sting you if they feel threatened.

Grange volunteers shovel topsoil around the base of a flowering dogwood, to help Lyons residents regain their community forest, while insulation panels on the homes in the background indicate that even residential storm damage from last year's tornado in Berks County still needs repair.

Grangers Work To Help Community Recover From Tornado

JAMES MENTZER
Public Relations Director
Pa. State Grange

LYONS (Berks Co.) — On the message board on the war veterans' monument at the entrance to the community park in the 120-year-old, bucolic, Berks County town of Lyons there is a poignant notice:

"We are on the mend."

Behind the sign, there is little evidence in the park of the F-3 category tornado that ripped through the nearby center of town, May 31 last year.

But, standing at the east end of town, looking west, the path of the devastating storm is immediately apparent.

There is a stark constrast between one side of town and the other — one has shade and ornamental trees softly interspersed among homes and lining streets; the other doesn't.

Recently, 75 volunteers, of which 20 were members of the Pennsylvania State Grange, dressed in old clothes and work gloves, and spent the morning as a small tree-planting army to help restore the rural town forest.

The Grangers worked quickly in their tree planting at the plant, inserting 50 pine seedlings in the soil, in two long perpendicular rows.

Those laboring in the park planted a variety of other species — standard maple, Katsura, Golden Ash, Red Leaf and Japanese maples, crabapples, and holly shrubs.

There is still work to be done in the town. Siding on some houses in town is still is missing. Outside lighting at the treatment plant need replaced, etc.

But trees are beginning to make a return thanks to the efforts of Grangers and other volunteers.

"We (Grangers) offered our assistance immediately following the storm," said Fern Kulp, publicity director for the Berks County Pomona Grange, "but we were told to wait and do something on down the road."

Lyons Mayor Randy Schlegel said it was known that it would take time for the town to recover from the storm.

"The debris of trees taken out of this town was absolutely incredible," Schlegel said. "Lyons used to be densely populated with trees."

Trees and tree planting take time.

"There were plenty of people (to help) the first week or two following the storm, but we knew it wasn't going to be an overnight process. We knew there was going to be a need (for help and repairs) for some time to come."

In the months following the storm, that caused an estimate $3 million to $4 million in property damage along an eight-mile stretch, volunteer efforts were being planned.

Berks County Pomona Master Steve Mohn, and Judith Schwank, Berks County director for Penn State Cooperative Extension, got together to envision ways in which the Grange could help the community get back on its feet.

Schwank said the idea of the Grange volunteers helping with planting trees seemed to be "a perfect fit" in the overall recovery effort.

As plans fell into place, the Berks County Conservation District donated pine seedlings to plant at the waste water treatment plant.

In addition, several Granges donated a total of $6,400 to help with the purchase of trees for planting.

Berks Pomona donated $5,000; Virginville Grange Community Service Committee offered $1,200; the Alleghenyville Grange donated $100; and the Jefferson County Grange donated $100, according to Berks Pomona Master Mohn.

"That's incredible," Extension Director Schwank said. "I really commend the Pomona for their donation to this project. It should be enough to purchase about 100 to 125 trees and shrubs."

After the morning's tree planting efforts, the entire group of volunteers gathered in the Lyons park for a special program, commemorating the 127th Arbor Day, and the efforts of the volunteers.

Mayor Schlegel issued an Arbor Day proclamation, and thanked the Grangers for their fundraising efforts and help, the county Conservation District, Penn State Cooperative Extension for its role, tion of the several water fountains that add a soothing quality to the gardens. One unique fountain spray consists of a sprinkling can with a hole poked in the bottom. A hose snakes up from the pump beneath it to the watering can sprout that showers sparkling streams of water on the waterside plantings. The reflection and movement of the water shimmers with joy.

About the topiary shapes interspersed among low plantings, Soehner said, "I like to get things up to eye level, and topiaries are a great way to do that."

In addition to the aesthetic value of the gardens, the couple seeks to provide a natural habitat for birds and butterflies to overwinter. Distant meadows are profuse with milkweeds and naturally growing plants.

The 1860 Gothic Revival style farmhouse is recognizable by its steep roofs, and points that evoke a cathedral feeling. The house has been completely restored. Soehner used her background in interior decorating to incorporate the beauty of the high ceilings with comfortable liviability.

An adjacent summerhouse features the same Gothic Revival style. The couple plans to eventually restore it to its former beauty and use as a guest house.

Although Soehner and Fink spend hours toiling in the gardens, they have never regretted their move to the country. "This is therapy for us after long hours in the office," Soehner said.

The couple work together to provide integrative biobehavioral healthcare. Soehner explained that the computer-driven therapy has proven beneficial to those with brain injuries, the aging, alzheimers' patients, epilepsy, attention deficit disorders, insomnia, and those who want to maximize brain power.

A former interior designer, Soehner suffered an accident that left her with residual brain injury. She became interested in this fledging therapy, which is a form of high-tech brain biofeedback, and was helped by it so much that she with her husband psychologist incorporated it into their practice.

The center built atop the garage and in keeping with the Gothic Revival style features old pine flooring, oriental rugs, and built-in bookshelves.

The couple also maintains an office practice in the city, but the office at Faraway Farm is "a dream clinic for clients to enjoy nature and rest," according to Soehner.

Those interested in touring the gardens at Faraway Farm and nine other sites can order advance tickets for the Summer Garden Tour at $5 per adult and $2 per child 10 or under. Tickets that day of the tour are $7 per adult and $3 per child, 10 years or younger.

For tickets, send your check and self-addressed stamped envelope by June 1, to Lykens Valley Club, 435 Berrysburg Rd. Millersburg, PA 17061.

Soehner uses her interior decorating background to incorporate the beauty of the 1860 Gothic Revival-style farmhouse with comfortable livableness.

Evelyn Soehner likes to intersperse low plantings with items that add height. Separate gardens are filled with plantings typical of the following: culinary, butterfly, rose, hummingbird, and ornamental.

Guests often dine in this large flower garden that borders the meadow where the horses graze. Soehner considers each garden as a separate room of the house and uses the gardens six months out of the year for entertaining.

• Joe & Donna Schueck, 31 Pine St., Millersburg, describe their garden as nothing formal. Hence they named the place "Who Knows What." Among a raised bed herb garden with many plants both decorative and culinary is a large eucalyptus tree. In the center of the yard is a pergola made of recycled corn crib beams with a brick floor. Tiny clear lights sparkle and make a whimsical spot "to sit a spell." The Schuecks have flowers planted in wash tubs, lunch pails, work boots, potty chairs, tire swings, and who knows what else.

• Sally and Steve Maygar, 464 River St., Millersburg, suggest ways to gain privacy and interest to the yard for family enjoyment. The eye-catching gated entry welcomes visitors and shields the garden from full view. Various climbing plants have reached the top and tumble over solid fencing, creating an ever-changing living screen, partially obscuring what lies beyond. Within the limits of the yard, you find several rooms, each having distinct characteristics and seating for quiet relaxation, discovery, or display of choice plants. The varied colors and textures in the garden produce an effective counterpoint to all green plantings. Incorporated into the garden are several water features, including an established fish pond. The potting shed and enclosed outdoor sitting area, which can be used in inclement weather, further expand the practical uses of the garden.

• Dot Brown, 738 E. Union St., Millersburg, said that her yard is a small city lot that is really old-fashioned and provides a great deal of pleasure for her. She has a fishpond with lots of flower stands, azaleas, rhododendrons, and peonies. An antique cream separator, wooden shovel, and bird feeders add unique touches.

• Jerry and Diane Hassinger, 105 Adams Lane, Cloverly Acres, Millersburg, maintain a garden for wildlife, which was recently featured in a Game Commission television series. The layered plantings are designed to attract, feed, and protect wildlife. The character of the yard is evergreen with hemlock predominating. "We prefer a lawn free of chemicals and full of weeds, bugs, and worms. This early American lawn is easier and less expensive to maintain than a monoculture of grass."

• Robert and Debra Bechtel, 320 E. Market St., Berrysburg, have a garden in process. When the Bechtels acquired the property four years ago, it was in dire need of care. They removed overgrown shrubs and plants and have added a new bed or two each year by planting spring bulbs and perennials and filling with annuals to add color. They are adding a waterfall and pond and plan to fill the yard with pathways and gardens.

• George and Marie Ressler, 187 N. Crossroads Rd., Gratz, is a two-acre lot with two large ponds in front of the house filled with goldfish and lilies. Walkways are among the large perennial flower beds filled with eyecatching displays of lupines and foxgloves. The Resslers have a selection of cement figurines, a water well, and stone walls.

• Randy and Donna Alvord, 5498 Rt. 147 Paxton, Dalmatia, have a country garden accented with rustic features. Two large garden areas surround the house with mostly shade-loving annuals, perennials, and culinary herbs. The second area is above a rather steep hill, and is filled with vegetables, medicinal herbs, and other sun-loving flowers and shrubs.

• Judy and Dan Lentz, Rt. 147 Bridgeport, Dalmatia, said they have no rhyme or reason to their garden, which consists primarily of bulbs, perennials, and shrubs. A small pond with fish and frogs, a bamboo grove, and a wildflower corner, lots of lilies and daylilies cover about half an acre.

• Cyndy and Steve Witmer, R.1, Malta, have a woodland waterfall garden. Although the garden is less than two years old, by planting evergreen trees, rhododendrons, azaleas, cotoneasters, and many other low spreading shrubs, bushes, and grasses, the Witmers are naturalizing the areas surrounding waterfalls and pond. Numerous water and bog plants, fish and frogs are thriving in the pond environment. On a clear day, you can see five counties from the Witmers' front yard. Steve loves to answer questions about the pond and waterfall construction that he did.

Consuming Thoughts

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

Most people realize that as elderly people age, they will eventually need help running the kitchen. What is not so well understood is that it can actually be dangerous for an older person who can no longer manage well to try to run their kitchen alone.

Because the health of the elderly is often fragile, they're highly susceptible to food poisoning and deficiencies. The sensory losses of aging (sight and smell in particular) can cause food handling problems. Also, tight budgets plus ingrained feelings against "waste" cause many elderly people to hang onto risky food too long.

The elderly are much more vulnerable to food poisoning than the general public. As the body ages, less stomach acid (which helps digest food and kill microbes in food) is produced. Also, aging seems to weaken the immune system. In addition, chronic conditions such as heart disease or diabetes or chemotherapy treatment for cancer weakens the immune system

Older people are likely to develop nutritional difficulties For ease of preparation, they may rely too much on canned and frozen foods which can be over-sugared or salted.

Their diets may be lacking in fresh meats, fruits, and vegetables. They may suffer calcium deficiencies - particularly if they have difficulty digesting milk - a condition which often develops in old age.

Eating and drinking improperly or infrequently can also precipitate serious medical problems, especially for diabetics or anyone on diuretics.

The side effects of sensory changes or less of taste and smell are numerous. Some people lose interest in food and become malnourished. Others over-season food, consuming too much sugar and salt However a, more critical concern from the food safety standpoint is the difficulty in knowing when stored food is spoiled. Most spoilage agents, in addition to making food look bad, give off an unpleasant odor Here are a few tips to avoid trouble before it starts

- Be observant - Note any marked change in habits that could mean an elderly person needs more help in the kitchen
- Watch nutrition- Make sure they're getting the foods listed on the Food Guide Pyramid -- meats, fish, poultry, dairy products, cereals & grain, and vegetables & fruits
- Shopping - Shop for 1 week at a time, favoring single-serving type purchases where feasible. Clear unused leftovers out of the refrigerator frequently.
- Cooking & Storing - Help with cooking batches of several favorite foods. Package portions like TV dinners for later use.
- The freezer - Date packages in large letters with marking pen. Move older package forward as you add new items
- Drinks & Snacks - If getting enough liquids is a problem, suggest the use of the microwave for truly "instant" coffee and tea

Keep a basket of fresh, soft denture - friendly fruit handy to Grapes, bananas, and ripe pears are good

- Using an oven timer -For someone who's getting forgetful but still likes to cook, try a bright-colored portable timer.
- Jar & bottle openings helps - If hand strength and dexterity are a problem, contact your local chapter of the Arthritis Foundation for information on gripper pads, cap poppers, and other useful gadgets
- Equipment check - Make sure the refrigerator (safe at 40 degrees F) and freezer (safe at 0 degrees F) are running properly A frosted unit won't cool properly, so defrost every few months as necessary including several master gardners who provided technical advice for the project, and some students from the nearby Berks County Career and Technology Center-East who assisted in the project.

Schlegel also praised the fund-raising efforts of the Grange.

"These people have come out in droves and they have a lot of enthusiasm and excitement," Schlegel said. "The effort they are giving here today will last forever."

Immediately following the ceremony, the volunteers and officials dined together with food provided by the women of the Berks Pomona Grange.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

The other week our son persuaded us to drive to Virginia to visit him at his cottage along the Plankatank River. It is very nice down there and his cottage is beautiful, but I do not like the five or six hours driving to get there. The sun shone and the skies were blue so weatherwise we were lucky.

We want fishing on his pontoon boat on two different days. The first day I caught most of the fish including a 16½-inch croaker. But, the next day I sat for more than two hours with nary a bite while the men pulled in fish after fish. A lot of the fish merely hooked themselves as the poles sat in the holders. Finally, I did get 10 of the 22 that our son filleted for us.

In Virginia the fields are much larger than here in Lancaster County. The corn was several inches high. My iris are only beginning to bloom but down there they were already in full bloom.

The four days were a time to relax and watch the variety of birds at the feeder outside the screened-in porch. We especially enjoyed the goldfinch with their yellow bodies. I even managed to start and finish a book, which is unusual for me. Usually I manage to get through the newspaper and a magazine or two.

But now we are back to checking the calendar to see what is on the schedule for the day. One day a class reunion, another day a Bible Study where I'm to supply the refreshments, and still another with a concert in the evening. And, don't forget all of the outside work to keep our place looking nice and neat.

Enter Dairy Recipe Contest

Enter Lancaster Farming's annual Dairy Recipe Drawing in honor of June Dairy Month and you'll have a chance at winning one of the many cow prizes.

To enter the drawing, select your favorite recipe, which must include a substantial amount of at least one dairy product. Dairy ingredients include milk, cream, sour cream, whipped cream, butter, yogurt, buttermilk, dry milk, ice cream, and all hard or soft cheeses. The recipe can specify either whole, low-fat or non-fat dairy products.

Please check your recipe ingredients carefully. Margarine and non-dairy substitutes such as whipped topping do not qualify as dairy products.

Dairy recipes are needed for appetizers, soups, breads, entrees, vegetables, desserts, beverages, snacks, and salads.

Clearly print or type your recipe. Be sure to give accurate measurements, temperatures, times, and sizes of baking dishes to use. We reserve the right to disqualify entries if these guidelines are not followed.

The difference between this contest and the weekly recipes is that your are asked to include a few paragraphs about yourself and your family. Although it is not required, a photograph of you or with your family adds a wonderful touch to accompany the printed submission. Photos will be returned if you write your name and address on the back of the photo.

Only one entry per family allowed. This contest is for adults who are 18-years-old or older, not children. Send your recipe, photo, and accompanying information with your complete address. If we do not have your complete address, we cannot mail your prize if you win.

Send entries immediately. Envelopes must be postmarked by June 1 to be eligible for the drawing. Winners will be selected through a drawing and will be sent a prize. Winners will be announced in the July 3rd issue of Lancaster Farming.

Send entries to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming Dairy Recipe Contest, P.O. Box 609, 1 E. Main St., Ephrata, PA 17522.

Be Screened During National Skin Cancer Detection Month

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Consumers are urged to schedule a regular skin screening during National Melanoma/ Skin Cancer Detection and Prevention Month in May, a period of heightened skin cancer awareness.

Skin cancer is the most common and rapidly increasing form of cancer and more than 1.2 million Americans will be diagnosed with the disease this year alone. If skin cancer is detected, patients should know that it is not necessarily life threatening or disfiguring. There are effective skin cancer treatments available such as Mohs micrographic surgery, a precise procedure that provides up to a 99% cure rate for certain types of skin cancer and results in minimal disfigurement.

Mohs micrographic surgery is a state-of-the-art skin cancer treatment that relies on the precision and accuracy of a microscope to trace and ensure removal of skin cancer—down to its roots. This technique ensures that all the diseased tissue is removed, leaving healthy skin intact. In addition to its excellent cure rate, a major benefit of Mohs surgery is its cost-effectiveness.

"In the current health care environment, we need to not only find medically effective treatments, but cost-effective ones as well," said Mark Hassel, M.D., a member of the American College of Mohs Micrographic Surgery and Cutaneous Oncology (Mohs College) whose practice is located in Lancaster.

A recent study in the "Journal of the American Academy of Dermatology" reports Mohs surgery is one of the most cost-effective skin cancer treatments available. Another key benefit is the low recurrence rate of tumors treated with Mohs, according to the study. While most skin cancer treatments have a recurrence rate of 10 percent, certain tumors with Mohs surgery return only one percent of the time.

"The high cure and lower recurrence rates equal fewer surgeries for Mohs patients," said John Zitelli, M.D., co-author of the study and an officer of the Mohs College. "Mohs patients also require fewer follow-up examinations than those treated with other methods."

Because Mohs surgery results in minimal scarring and disfigurement, the procedure is particularly advantageous when cancer is located in a sensitive area of the body, or a location where it is important to preserve healthy tissue for maximum function such as eyelids, nose, ears or lips.

"The combination of its minimal cosmetic impact, high cure rate and cost-effectiveness, often makes Mohs surgery the best treatment option," said Dr. Hassel. "It's wonderful, particularly in medicine, to be able to do something where you know there is a good chance you can cure the patient."

Mohs micrographic surgery is most successful at treating basal and squamous types of cancer. It should be the treatment of choice when:

- the cancer is large
- the edges of the cancer cannot be clearly defined
- the cancer is in an area of the body where it is important to preserve healthy tissue for the maximum functional and cosmetic result (eyelid, nose, ear, lip)

Stop Unwanted Telemarketing Calls

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — You've just sat down to dinner and the phone begins to ring—again. To make matters worse, the caller is trying to sell you something, or solicit money for charity.

How do you get rid of them in a tactful manner?

A consumer scientist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences offers some suggestions.

"Give those phone calls to your two- or three-year-old who has become fascinated with answering the phone," says Cathy Bowen, assistant professor of agricultural and extension education. "After a few seconds of babbling or unclear sentences, your message to the caller will be clear."

For people who don't have a toddler handy, Bowen offers other strategies.

Interrupt callers immediately. "If you get control of the conversation and interrupt callers before they start their pitch," says Bowen, "you usually can get rid of them tactfully. Say 'How can I help you?' immediately after they give their name. At the first mention of a product for sale, interrupt and say you aren't interested. Ask them to remove your name and number from their calling list and hang up without giving them a chance to reply

"If you wait for them to respond," "you're just asking for trouble."

Use the Telephone Protection Act. The Telephone Consumer Protection Act of 1991 allows for consumers to receive up to $500 for each violation if they continue to receive phone calls from the same company in a 12-month period after asking them not to call. To make use of this, you have to do three things:

"First, find out the caller's name, the name of the company they represent and the company mailing address," says Bowen. "Write down that information while on the call. Second, tell them you're not interested in what they are selling and to add your name to their 'do not call list.' Be sure to write down the date and time of the call. If you get repeated calls from a company, contact the Pennsylvania Bureau of Consumer Protection for help by calling the Attorney General's consumer protection hotline at 1-800-441-2555."

For a copy of a "do not call list" tracking sheet for unsolicited telephone calls, contact your local Penn State Cooperative Extension office, Bowen says. Cooperative extension offices are found under the county listings in most telephone directories. The sheet also can be printed from Bowen's website at http://www.cas.psu.edu/docs/casdept/familyliving/cb/cbmenu.html.

Register with the Telephone Preference Service (TPS). Consumers also can send their name, address and phone number (with area code) to TPS, requesting that their name be removed form national telephone mailing lists. "You should see a decrease in the number of calls about three months after your request," says Bowen.

Business subscribers to TPS get a delete list in January, April, July and October, she explains. Names are kept in the delete file for five years. After five years, or if you move, you must register again. Write to Telephone Preference Service, Direct Marketing Association, P.O. Box 9014, Farmingdale, NY 11735-9014.

"Some telemarketing companies are trying to improve the way they do business," says Bowen. "However, consumers must continue to do their job as well by staying alert and informed. Your best bet is to stop them before they even start their sales pitch."

If you do choose to listen to telemarketers, Bowen suggests being careful about how you answer questions. "You might be sold something indirectly," she says. "I know someone who was charged for magazines because of the way she responded to a survey."

Bowen suggests alerting children not to answer telemarketing calls. "Tell them to say 'I'm not interested' and hang up.

"People don't want to be rude," she adds. "But you put your phone in your house for your convenience, not for the convenience of a salesperson."

4-H Sewing Workshop

Forty-eight people including 4-H members, leaders, parents and family living agents attended the 4-H Sewing Workshop, held February 28. This workshop was planned and coordinated by Susquehanna County Family Living Agent Darlene Page along with 4-H sewing leaders Lori Mackey, chairperson; Sheryl Boyle, Linda Smith, and Evelyn Gerchman. 4-H groups from Wyoming, Wayne, and Lackawanna County were invited to participate. Thirteen different workshops were presented throughout the day with the objective being to improve sewing skills for the beginner to the more advanced seamstress. Presenters who helped to make the workshop a learning experience included Sheryl Boyle, Rhaylene Britten, Nicole Chidester, Harford Fair Queen, Joanne Cronk, Lori Mackey, Carol Page, Linda Smith, Marilyn Squier, Joan Webster and Carol Young.

'Safe Night USA' To Address Needs Of Youth

DAVID HIEBERT
Westmoreland Co.Correspondent

GREENSBURG (Westmoreland Co.) - What is projected to be a positive experience for youth in Westmoreland County and many communities across the country begins with a couple no's: no weapons, no drugs, no alcohol, and no arguments

According to Cindy K. Arblaster, Penn State Extension Service, the extension service is involved because they are concerned about youth development.

"Kids need to know there is a place to go for fun where there will be no pressure to drink or smoke," she said. "The night will be a chance to network and connect youth of Westmoreland who share the values of living drug free and who want to handle conflict in a positive way.

"Called "Safe Night USA," the event is set up to address the needs of all youth in our country."

According to Arblaster, Westmoreland is following the lead of the National 4-H Council, one of several national sponsors. She sees the event as one of the ways 4-H bridges the needs of youth in urban and rural areas. It is a way to increase awareness of the connection between drugs and violence and learn alternative ways" to deal with conflict.

Fun is expected to be planned into these events by local organizers. At the Westmoreland Safe Night, conflict resolution skills will be taught through skits and crafts. A guest speaker is planned with motivational messages through rapping to music. Also on the program are DJ's, workshops, dancing, performances by entertainers, crafts, and free giveaways. A specific planned into the Westmoreland event will be an analysis of the messages tobacco companies are putting in their messages to youth.

Arblaster hopes that many 4-H participants will attend the free event planned for Greensburg and the Kirk S. Nevin Recreation Center. Call 724-837-1402 for information on specifics of this event.

Nationally the events are being planned in the urban areas. (See listing of confirmed Safe Night events for PA and MD following this article.) More information on all the national publicity and organization can be found on the World Wide Web at http://www.pbs.org/safenight/.

For example, leading up to the June 5 event a satellite video conference training for 4-H and community organizers was held on March 3, 1999. Other national planning includes a live broadcast by PBS and BET to connect 10,000 Safe Nights happening simultaneously.

If you want more information about Safe Night USA from the national organization, call 1-800-253 1158 or email Safe night USA at safenight@wpt.org. Watch for upcoming messages about Safe Night and video site registration forms.

Here is the most recent listing from the World Wide Web of nationally acclaimed organizations who are committed to America's youth and to Safe Night USA.

National 4-H Council http://www.fourhcouncil.edu/

National 4-H Council, a not-for-profit educational organization, focuses on the issues of America's youth. Delicious jam on your morning toast need not be omitted when controlling your sugar intake. Fresh or unsweetened frozen fruits can be used with artificial sweeteners to produce jams and jellies as good as any you'll find on the supermarket shelf.

Dietetic jams and jellies must be stored in the refrigerator or freezer. They contain no added sugar, which serves as a preservative as well as a sweetening agent. The natural color and flavor of diet jams and jellies are best maintained if they are frozen. leave at least 1/2 inch headspace in container before freezing. They'll keep several months in the freezer, but only 3-4 weeks in the refrigerator.

JAMS

Preparing fruit: To prepare fruit for jam, sort and wash fully-ripe fruit Remove any stems, caps or pits. Peel fruits like peaches and apricots Crush the fruit.

Method of thickening: Dietetic jams or jellies may be thickened by adding pectin or gelatin or by concentrating the mixture using the long-boil method.

Cooking: When using pectin, the method of combining ingredients varies with the form of pectin used. Powdered pectin is mixed with the unheated crushed fruit. Liquid pectin is added to the cooked fruit and sweetener mixture immediately after it is removed from the heat Gelatin is softened in cold water prior to combining with fruit

Jams thickened with pectin or gelatin are cooked for one minute at a full boil The full-boil stage is reached when bubbles form over the entire surface of the mixture.

Jams made without an added thickener require a longer cooking period This method involves concentrating the fruit until it reaches the desired consistency. Cook the mixture to a temperature of 221°. If you don't have a thermometer, cook products until they reach desired thickness. Allow for some additional thickening as the product cools

Jams made without sugar are thinner than those made with sugar. Jams contain fruit pulp or pieces of fruit, which tend to stick to the kettle during cooking. Constant stirring to prevent scorching is necessary.

Strawberry Jam with Pectin

(Makes 2 2/3 cups)

1 quart cleaned strawberries

3-4 teaspoons liquid artificial sweetener

1 3/4-ounce package powdered fruit pectin

1 tablespoon lemon juice

Crush strawberries in 1 1 /2 quart saucepan. Stir in artificial sweetener, powdered fruit pectin and lemon juice. Bring to a boil and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Continue to stir 2 minutes. Pour into freezer containers, cover and freeze. Thaw before serving. Store in refrigerator after opening.

1 tablespoon=5 calories

Strawberry Jam with Gelatin

(makes 1 pint)

1 1/2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin

1 1/2 tablespoons cold water

3 cups strawberries, crushed

1 1/2 tablespoons liquid sweetener

1/4 teaspoon ascorbic acid powder

Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine strawberries and sweetener in a saucepan. Place over high heat and stir constantly until mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat, add softened gelatin. Return to heat and continue to cook 1 minute. Remove from heat; blend in ascorbic acid powder. ladle into clean jars, seal Store in refrigerator or freezer.

1 tablespoon=5 calories

Strawberry Jam

(Long-boil Method)

4 cups crushed strawberries

8 tablespoons liquid sweetener

Place strawberries and sweetener in a saucepan. Bring to full boil, stirring constantly, until the mixture reaches 221°F Fill containers, seal and process in boiling water bath 5 minutes. 1 tablespoon=10 calories.

Reduced sugar jams and jellies will have a slightly different texture than jams and jellies using traditional recipes.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Berry And Bees Club

The club's last meeting was April 13. Three people came in to talk. One was Betsy Smith, a master gardener.

Mary Shenk spoke to the club about Arbor Day.

Club members picked up strawberry plants they ordered.

Hoofs In Clover Model Horse Club

Hoofs in Clover Model Horse 4-H Club met on March 2. After discussing a few things, the members made racing saddles and blankets for their Breyer horses. The members have stable colors and even made up their own unique brands.

Born To Show Dairy Club

A meeting of the Born to Show Dairy Club was conducted March 13. The club discussed upcoming 4-H activities: 4-H Awareness Week March and 4-H teen night. New officers are president, Ben Hibbard; vice president, Ray Woods; secretary, Hilary Gesford; treasurer, Shana Mack; historian, Justin Garner, and callers, Amanda Hoover and Sara Oliver. Hoard's Dairyman judging contest was completed.

New 4-H Quilting Club Forms

The Nimble Thimble 4-H Club will conduct its first meeting, April 24 at the home of Genevieve Corwin, 6 Hinds Street, Montrose, from 10 a.m. until noon. This new club is planning to meet every second and fourth Saturday and is open to any interested youth 8-18 years of age. Parents/guardians are encouraged to attend all meetings, and will be required to attend the first meeting to complete enrollment forms.

The Nimble Thimbles have already received contributions of materials and supplies from Chitra Publications, the "Lathrop Street Kids," members of the Crazy Country Quilters Club, and the Small Folk Quilters 4-H Club of Wyoming County.

Anyone interested in knowing more about this opportunity may call Genevieve Corwin at (717) 278-2800 or Joanne Bledsoe at (717) 278-3131.

Locust Hill 4-H Club

The March 23 meeting was conducted in the home of leader Sue Colwell. President Greg Colwell opened the meeting at 7 p.m.

Under old business the club discussed community projects. Colwell will contact the appropriate person about assisting in the Caring Cafe which offers free meals to the community and finding a date for this. She will also contact the Newman's Cemetery caretaker about helping with spring cleanup and get the date for this.

Under new business the club discussed fund-raisers. They decided to have a bake sale at the People's National Bank, Hallstead on May 15 from 9 a.m. to noon. Other discussion included merchandise catalog sales but no decision was made. Colwell is going to look into the Red Cross Safety Course as a possible club event. It will depend on the cost and personnel available. The officers will begin meeting separately at the end of the evening at the next meeting — this will be to discuss responsibilities as well as to work on the officer's books.

Kenny Krug, game leader, had members write as many compound words as they could in five minutes time. Winner was Mike Keiser with 16 words.

Lancaster Farming Questionnaire

You Could Win a White Mountain, Electric ICE CREAM Freezer or a FREE one year subscription to Lancaster Farming
Please fill out this questionnaire and return it to Lancaster Farming, by June 1st, 1999, and we will enter you in a drawing for an ice cream freezer . . . (big 6-quart capacity with triple motion action, a $199.95 value).

At Lancaster Farming, we would like to get to know you better. How many dairy and beef cows, hogs, chickens and other livestock, you have; what crops you grow, what farming practices you use, and what parts of our weekly farm newspaper you enjoy most. We would like to expand our coverage in areas of additional interest to our readers.
Your response to this questionnaire will help Lancaster Farming continue to be your farming newspaper, a major supporter of the agricultural industry in this nation. Thank you for your suport, in taking the time to fill out this questionnaire.
Please mail this page to: Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box609, Ephrata, PA 17522-9982

1176 Rt. 422 West, Douglassville, PA

West of Rt. 662 Intersection & Michael's Diner (We are only a few miles east of Reading, PA)

All buildings, architectural elements & appurtenances, plus exotic trees & plantings being sold for removal in 30 days at buyer's risk, expense & responsibility. A dangerous proposition! We recommend that only insured professionals attend, since neither the owners nor the auctioneers will be held libel for any loss or injury.

The period mansion, which is the centerpiece of the entire estate, will be offered room by room because of its beautiful woodwork and magnificent fireplaces. Legend has it that this outstanding 19th century residence once stood at 16th & Chestnut Sts. in Philadelphia before it was removed and transported to its present site about 1850. Eventually, it became the most elegant home in Douglassville and the nerve center of Grant Irey's expansive dairy farming enterprise. Purchased by Mr. Yoder in the forties, Roselawn became a cluster of upscale apartments & rental units. Recently sold to a prominent convenience store chain, the property will soon be cleared and what is purchased and carted off by preservationists and restorers will ultimately embellish other structures, beautify new places and enrich generations yet unborn. Also: Lg. Pennsylvania stone bank barn in an excellent state of preservation. Stone carriage house approx. 20x50, having slate roof, iron staircase, Irey stained glass panel & steel joists. Plastered victorian brick cottage w/slate roof, converted to wash house. 20x50 four bay frame garage w/apt. Huge 2 story frame dairy barn. Contemporary residence (owner's house). Garage, workshop & tower, which includes heating system for residence and water system for entire farm. Little old frame farm house w/2 car garage.

In addition, please be prepared to purchase wonderful chandeliers, antique street lamps, appliances, stained glass panels, 3 story carved walnut staircase, doors & windows, a huge pier mirror, stone walls, iron gates, fence, antique fire hydrants, lg. iron safe & rare tiles. We have 8 great fireplaces, each one unique, most w/tall over mantel mirrors. There are other fireplaces as well, that are of a simpler nature.

No buyer's premium, no PA state sales tax. The pressure of time makes it imperative that we sell rain or shine. Property is overgrown and buildings are unsafe. Do not bring children. A flashlight would be much better We are starting at noon to allow time for questions and inspection. I will have the property open from noon to five, Sunday, May 30, if you care to look at your own risk.

Welcome to our first on-line auction! We have contracted with LiveBid.com out of California (1-877-LIVEBID) to provide us with on-line bidding capability for this auction only, so that we can see how it works. Perhaps it is something that we can provide for our clients and customers in the future. Perhaps it is something that we can provide for our clients and customers in the future. Perhaps you will object to it; if so, let us know. We want you to understand that we intend to conduct this auction, and all future events, in our normal, time tested, familiar fashion. So far as you are concerned, the on-line process is supposed to be unobtrusive, allowing you to play the auction game as you have in the past. Our efforts are directed toward job No. 1 in the auction profession – attracting desirable material for you to purchase. We don't make it, nor do we own it. We can offer it to you only because somebody trusted us enough to consign it for dispersal at public auction. See you there!

This trend setting event features high quality cast iron toys, cap guns, Buddy L, Minic trucks, Structo clock work toys and many other interesting toys including some fine boxed Marx. Marx also figures prominently in the train offerings, which are otherwise mostly pre-war Lionel. 50 lots of brand new MTH round out the sale.

Dairy Farmers,

Is a high SCC a problem with a few cows in your herd?

Boost your cows immune system with IMPRO Whey Blend and MPV Dairy Boost

All natural products with no milk loss. Use it on the 5-10 Highest SCC cows on your DHIA report sheet.

Cost per cow for a 30 day supply is $27.00

Help yourself to some of those Milk Quality bonus dollars, and improve the health of your herd.

WE'VE ALWAYS BEEN GOOD.
REALLY given Mueller
it comes to dairy production, our custom demand quality in their cooling and storage vessels. They know Mueller has always been the company to set this standard worldwide.
Dependable and durable, our milk coolers will provide you with years of trouble-free performance as well as low operating cost, precise temperature control and a wide range of standard features.
"BETTER", to the employees and engineers at Mueller, means constantly improving our already great products. We have added convenience to our tank washer system by attaching the motor to the side of each milk cooler smaller than 3,000 gallons At the same time, we have added quality by installing the most effective interior washing device in the industry. Mueller's tank washing spray dish is an innovative, one-of-a-kind design which more evenly distributes the cleaning solution throughout the tank's interior. It prevents clogging and offers maintenance-free cleaning.
This high-performance process will give you extra clean tanks.
For the BEST products with the best performance, you can always count on Mueller. For more information see your nearest dealer or call 1-800-MUELLER.

Tractors Improve On Popular 35 Series

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Whether they're hauling a load, pulling a tillage implement, or working with a front-end loader, New Holland's new, hard-working TL Series tractors are at home in the fields or around the farm yard. These versatile 56- to 82-PTO horsepower tractors are rugged and dependable, yet full of comfort and convenience.

The four models in the TL Series have all the proven features of their predecessors, the popular 35 Series, but with some product improvements to increase operator comfort and productivity.

Like the 35 Series, the TL Series is powered by proven, four-cylinder New Holland engines. These engines have excellent lugging ability, with 1,000 useful rpm between maximum torque and maximum power. They are quiet, burn clean and are best-in-class in fuel economy.

Four dependable transmission options adapt these tractors to a wide variety of tasks. Choices include an economical 12 x 4 Synchro mechanical transmission or 12 x 12 Synchro Command™ with shuttle, which is excellent for loader work. The 24 x 12 Dual Command™ with shuttle, the most versatile of the transmissions, provides approximately a "half gear" reduction for each forward gear, in effect providing 24 forward gears. The reduction can be engaged instantly, under load. The fourth option, the 20 x 12 Synchro creeper, has seven gears under 1 mph.

Designed in the tradition of the New Holland family of tractors, the TL Series has a steeply sloping hood and under-hood muffler which contribute to excellent visibility on both cab and ROPS models. Cab model exhaust lines up with front cab pillar for unobstructed forward view over the hood.

Deluxe cabs feature one of the most spacious cabs and widest doors in their class. Cab doors now have a single piece of glass for improved side visibility. Low noise levels, two-door entry, and a quiet, temperature-controlled environment make operation comfortable. Hinged cab side windows have been added to further improve ventilation.

ROPS models feature roomy flat decks, entry from either side, and foldable ROPS for operating under low limbs or squeezing through low doorways. On the TL Series models, ROPS units also have a tilt-telescoping steering wheel for added operator comfort.

On Models TL90 and TL100, the fuel tank capacity has been increased to 33.5 gallons to lengthen the time between fill-ups. Both of these models also feature new, heavy-duty rear differentials. A second steering cylinder on the FWD axle of Model TL70 has been added to reduce steering effort when using a farm loader.

Pa. Feeder Calf Roundup Adds Value

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Initiated in 1995, the Pennsylvania Feeder Calf Roundup program allows beef cow-calf producers to add value to their calves through an effective health program and to market their own calves competitively. During the first four years of this program, 49 farms have successfully marketed 632 calves.

Feeder cattle are most effectively marketed in lots of 40 or more uniform calves. Many Pennsylvania beef producers have small herds that do not allow them to competitively market calves compared to larger breeders around the country. In addition, stocker and feedlot operators have recognized the value of calves receiving effective health management prior to shipment. These practices include vaccinations for respiratory disease, clostridial disease, deworming, and weaning with adaptation to grain feeding.

Program objectives include:

- Allow producers with small herds to take advantage of marketing methods
- To develop health, breeding, and management programs that result in a value-added feeder calf
- To generate and use information about health and growth performance of calves.

In 1998, nine producers from four southwestern Pennsylvania counties consigned 118 feeder calves. One producer elected to wean his 23 steers at home and the remaining 95 were weaned at Warren Dick's farm in Fayette County.

The majority of the calves consigned this year were blacks, black baldies, or sired by a black bull. Because of beef producer low numbers, feeders have combined forces with the Morgantown, W. Va. pool. Calves were sorted and graded into three sale lots and offered for sale via teleauction on Sept. 29, 1998 through Buckhannon Stockyards, Buckhannon, W. Va. More than 1,000 calves were offered for sale via teleauction that day and 36 potential buyers were on the phone to bid on the calves.

Thirteen calves were combined with 37 steers in the Morgantown pool. Average selling weight was 461 pounds. This lot topped the sale that day at $81.25 per hundred weight. Thirty-one steers were sold as a single lot at an average weight of 551 pounds. At $79.00 per hundred weight, they were the second highest selling lot of calves in the sale. The remaining 74 head were sold as a lot of heavy calves, averaging 639 pounds. They sold for $74.50 per hundred weight and were the second highest selling lot of calves over 600 pounds in the sale. Cornell University was the buyer, so the program will be able to collect carcass data on all calves in that lot.

Yardage costs were 30 cents per head per day and the calves spent 29 days in the weaning center. Costs of preconditioning included average hay and grain costs of $24.03 per head, average yardage and treatment costs of $9.07 per head, and the prevaccination charge of $5 per head for a total cost of $38.10 per head. With an average selling weight of 597 pounds and a weighted average selling price of $76.18 per hundred weight, the average gross income was $454.79 per head. Average net income was $416.69 per head. Producers also paid an $8 per head commission fee and $1 per head beef check-off.

How do these prices compare with alternative marketing avenues? Let's make three assumptions:

1. All the calves in this preconditioned program would have gone through Eighty-Four Livestock Auction's special graded feeder calf sale, which was held three days after the preconditioned calves were offered for sale via teleauction.

2. The calves in the preconditioned program would have received the average selling price within a given weight range had they been sold at the Eighty-Four Auction Sale.

3. If the calves had remained with the cows until the day of the sale at Eighty-Four Auction, they would only have gained half the weight gained during the weaning phase. On the average, calves in the preconditioned program gained 52 pounds during the weaning phase, so deduct 26 pounds from the average sale weights for each lot for comparison.

Lot #2 calves average 461 pounds and were sold for $81.25 per hundredweight or $374.56 per head. If the same calf was sold at Eighty-Four Auction, assume it only weighed 435 pounds (461 pounds-26 pounds). At the special graded sale, the sale price for 105 head of 400-500-pound calves ranged form $61-$72 per hundred weight, an average of $66.50 per hundred weight. The 435-pound calf is now worth $289.28 per head, a difference of $85.28 per head. Deduct the $38.10 per head cost of preconditioning, and you still have a premium of $47.18 per head.

Lot #7 calves averaged 549 pounds and were sold $79 per hundred weight or $433.71 per head. If the same calf was sold at Eighty-Four Auction assume it only weighed 523 pounds (549 pounds-26 pounds). At the special graded sale, the sale price for 128 head of 500-600-pound calves ranged from $57-$66.50 per hundred weight, an average of $61.25 per hundred weight. The 523-pound calf is now worth $322.85 per head; a difference of $110.86 per head. Deduct the $38.10 per head cost of preconditioning, and you still have a premium of $72.76 per head.

Lot #9 calves averaged 641 pounds and were sold for $74.50 per hundred weight or $477.55 per head. If the same calf was sold at Eighty-Four Auction, assume it only weighed 615 pounds (641 pounds-26 pounds). At the special graded sale, the sale price for 43 head of 600-pound-715-pound calves ranged from $57-$64 per hundred weight, an average of $60.50 per hundred weight. The 615-pound calf is now worth $372.08, a difference of $105.47. Deduct the $38.10 per head cost of preconditioning, and you still have a premium of $67.37 per head.

Program participants receive individual records that include in-weights at the weaning center, out-weights (sale weights), average daily gains on individual calves, an individual summary of all costs, and average daily gain summaries within each sale lot. Producers use these records to identify strengths and weaknesses in their herd health, breeding, and management programs.

The Pennsylvania Feeder Calf Roundup program is cosponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association and is open to all Pennsylvania beef producers. The tentative 1999 schedule is as follows:

- Aug. 15, 1999 — consignment form due.
- Week of Aug. 23 — first vaccinations administered on the farm.
- Week of Sept. 6 — booster vaccinations, deworming, eartags, implants administered and Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture grading on the farm.
- Sept. 17-18 — Calves weaned and delivered to weaning centers — final sorting and grading.
- Early October — calves offered for sale via teleauction.
- Mid-October — buyer pickup.

Program costs include the $5 per head delivery for the prevaccination program and eartags; of $.30 per head plus actual feed costs and health costs during weaning phase, $10 per head feed bill deposit upon delivery to weaning center, $8 per head commission, and $1 per head beef check-off. Additional weaning centers will be identified upon review of cattle locations and consignment information.

New Resources Expand USGC Efforts

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Grains Council has entered into two agreements that will further leverage Council members' market development funding.

The first agreement is with Purdue University to work with swine producers in the People's Republic of China, and the second agreement will strengthen the Moroccan Poultry Federation in a move to ease U.S. feed grain exports to that country.

Membership support allows the Council to apply for market development funding from USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS). The two main sources of funding from FAS are the Foreign Market Development program and the Market Access Program. Member funds also attract investment from foreign third party co-operators, people overseas who work closely with the Council. This funding relationship has leveraged Council member support so that every dollar of membership money creates $4.83 in market development programming.

"This relationship has been very successful in expanding Council members' investment in export market development," said Bill Guyton, director of business development, "but cuts in government funding and an increased need to create more export market demand, means the Council must look for new ways to expand membership dollars. These new agreements are good examples of our efforts in that area."

The U.S. Grains Council and Purdue University's Animal Science Department have signed an agreement to work with the Council's swine development initiative in the People's Republic of China. The Council will provide direction for the initiative and Purdue faculty will provide technical consultants and will organize programs in the United States and in the PRC. The Council and Purdue will review the partnership's effectiveness annually.

The Council plans to expand its current programs in the provinces of Guangdong and Guangxi, two important swine production areas in China. Working with Purdue will enhance the Council's ability to reach swine producers in these areas. Increasing efficiency in the PRC's swine production will increase the demand for U.S. barley, corn, and sorghum.

"The advantage of the partnership is that it provides consistency in our programs," said Guyton. "The same consultants will be going to PRC which means they are familiar with the program and don't have to learn everything from scratch."

According to Guyton, the partnership also gives the Council access to other resources within Purdue. "There may be opportunities to work with faculty outside of the Animal Science Department like the Agricultural Economics department. This could further expand membership investment."

In the second program, the Council will work with the Moroccan Poultry Federation using Section 108 funds from USDA. Section 108 funds are the result of government-to-government sales of agricultural commodities to developing countries under long-term credit arrangements. The funds must be used within the country that the sale took place.

In 1995, Morocco's largest poultry producers, with the help of Chris Corry, then USGC director for the Mediterranean region, organized the Moroccan Poultry Federation to encourage change in government policies and in the structure of the poultry industry. With the new funding from USDA, the Council will increase the viability of the Federation and foster the Federation's goals of developing Morocco's poultry industry and promoting free market principles for feed stuffs, equipment and in-puts.

"Improving growth in the industry will create more demand for quality feed ingredients," said Guyton. "A strong Federation has the ability to influence the Morroccan government to ease its import restricdtions and tariffs and allow U.S. feed grains to enter the country more easily."

The Council's work with the Federation has already yielded positive results. In 1997, Corry and the Federation worked together to promote the benefits of U.S. sorghum. Poultry feeding trials showed that U.S. sorghum had nutritional value for Moroccan poultry and as a result, the government eased tariffs that had restricted sorghum imports. So far this marketing year, Morocco has imported 89,500 mt (3.5 mbu) of U.S. sorghum, up from zero imports in two years.

"Clearly Chris Corry's and the Council's past success with the Federation has laid solid ground for us to build on," said Guyton. "The Secion 108 funding will give the Federation administrative support to help it meet its goals.

"The industry wants to grow and expand," Guyton said, "and for it to do that it will need better access to feed ingredients. The United States can reliably supply the industry to help them meet their needs, but only if the import channels are open. That is what the Federation will work to do."

Students, Faculty Focus On Future In Agriculture 2020

NEWARK, Del. — The agricultural sector in Delaware has experienced some dramatic changes during the last two decades.

For example, since 1975, the number of farms in Delaware fell from 3,700 to fewer than 2,400 today. At the same time, the average acreage per farm increased from 186 acres to 235 acres.

Will this trend toward larger but fewer farms continue in the future? And, if so, how should policy makers respond to optimize the health and productivity of Delaware agriculture in the next 20 years?

These and other questions are the focus of the Delaware Agriculture 2020 Project under way in the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources at the University of Delaware.

"The first objective is to generate information to help the Delaware agricultural sector plan for the future," said Dr. Bobby Gempesaw, chair of the department food and resources economics. "The second is to encourage debate and influence action by the public and private sectors in order to highlight the future contribution of Delaware agriculture and its importance to the state's economy."

Fourteen faculty and extension specialists are engaged in researching and writing a report that will be presented at the annual Governor's Conference on Delaware Agriculture in February 2000. The report will include an analysis of agricultural and economic trends in Delaware since 1950 as well as discussions of how current environmental, demographic, land use, workforce, marketing, and trade issues will impact Delaware agriculture into the next century.

Pulling together the enormous quantity of data required for such a report is a daunting task, but the faculty members involved in the project are receiving some valuable assistance from nine undergraduates majoring in natural resources management (NRM). The interdisciplinary NRM major is jointly sponsored by the departments of food and resource economics, entomology and applied ecology, and plant and soil sciences.

Dr. Steve Hastings, professor of food and resource economics, chairs the NRM steering committee.

"We established the NRM major four years ago, and I was looking for ways to get some of these students involved in activities outside the classroom," Hastings said. "When Dr. Gempesaw proposed doing the Delaware Agriculture 2020 report, it seemed like a perfect opportunity."

Hastings recruited nine undergraduates, including four first-year students, to work with one of five faculty members on various aspects of the project. Students were assigned to a faculty adviser according to their expressed interests. They work independently, meeting regularly with their advisers to discuss how the work is progressing.

Three of the students are assisting Hastings and Dr. Tom Ilvento, associate professor of economic development, with their analysis of agricultural trends in Delaware in the past 50 years. The students have been responsible for locating and downloading relevant data from the Internet.

"The Internet brings us much more access to the data, but that's only part of the story," said Ilvento. "There's the question of how you interpret the data and how you deal with inconsistencies. We try to convey to students that they are accountable for the way they handle the data. They get frustrated, but they're rising to the task."

For example, compiling the number of farms in Delaware on an annual basis seems a simple task, but the process has been complicated by the changing definition of a farm. Before 1978, the Census of Agriculture defined a farm differently. This change must be noted in any presentation of the data.

Sharon Maher, a junior working with Ilvento and Hastings, said she's learned a lot about how Delaware's economy has changed over the past few decades and how those changes relate to the state's economic future.

"There is so much information," she said. "Compiling it and putting it into a coherent form is challenging."

Zeb Acuff, a junior, believes that working on the Delaware Agriculture 2020 project is a good indication of the commitment research requires.

"It's tricky finding the time to devote to researching this information and still get everything else done," Acuff said. "I hope to use an aspect of this research for a senior thesis."

Hastings has encouraged all the students involved to consider their work as a springboard for developing a program for a Degree with Distinction, which requires students to conduct original research and summarize it in a senior thesis. The NRM students, who will get either independent study credit or a salary for their work, also will be acknowledged as contributors to the final report.

Large Square Baler Family Strengthens Brand's Position

ATLANTA, Ga. — The growing popularity of large square balers has identified the need for an additional bale dimension that will ease the stress of handling the bales and accommodate a greater variety of transportation methods.

The engineers at Hesston took these factors to heart when developing the new Model 4790 large bale system. They developed a square baler with the capacity of the current Hesston Model 4910 and the heavy-duty silage capability of the Model 4755. The answer is a baler that produces a 3-foot x 4-foot bale, enabling a producer to transport their payload easily and efficiently.

The new 3-foot x 4-foot bales allow the producer to stack their payload to three bales high and two bales wide on a conventional trailer. Avoiding the cumbersome task of handling larger bales or smaller bales that may not fit properly, saves time and labor.

In addition to producing high quality, easy-to-handle bales, the 4790 also features superior infield performance. Gone are the days of chasing windblown windrows around the field, with the 104-inch pickup featured on the 4790. This wider pickup enables the producer to maneuver the equipment consistently through the field eliminating crop loss and operator fatigue.

The wide, low-profile pickup feeds the crop courtesy of an inline design that moves the crop in a straight line from the pickup to the bale chute. This is accomplished with centering augers on the pickup assembly that gently feed the crop to a set of packer fingers that pull it into the prepacker chamber. Unlike most competitive brand balers that operate the stuffer mechanism every one or two plunger strokes, the 4790 balers hold the crop in the prepacker until the preselected density has been reached. Only then, does the sensor activate the stuffer fingers to sweep the crop into the bale chamber for final compression. The difference is consistent, well-shaped, high density bales.

Additional improvements include a new twine storage system that features a thirty-ball capacity for trouble-free all day operation. The 4790 tying system features six always reliable Hesston double knotters for tight, easy-to-handle bales.

"Twenty years of big bale experience has allowed us to continually update our product offering to accommodate the needs of today's hay producer," said Ron Hess, general marketing manager for Hesston. "The 4790 is an example of the Hesston commitment to hay harvesting and the ever-changing market demands."

CPCC Certification Recipients Named

COLLIERVILLE, Tenn. — Michael W. Brubaker of Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service, Ephrata, has been certified as a certified professional crop consultant - independent by the National Alliance of Independent Crop Consultants (NAICC).

Applicants must meet minimum requirements of education (minimum bachelor's degree) and experience (six years), pass an exam, complete pesticide safety training, and agree to abide by the NAICC Code of Ethics.

The NAICC certification program's purpose is to provide a mechanism through which NAICC can provide unified standards for agricultural crop consultants and contract researchers to become certified. Certification provides a means by which crop consultants and contract researchers can establish and maintain demonstrated levels of academic training and experience.

Certification provides employers, clientele, and the general public assurance that crop consultants providing plant health recommendations and advice for Integrated Crop Management (ICM) and researchers developing scientific agricultural data meet the education and experience requirements. Certification will aid in the protection and maintenance of our environment.

For more information about the certification process, contact NAICC, 1055 Petersburg Cove, Collierville, TN 38017, phone: (901) 861-0511.

Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. Has A Disc Mower For You!

Down And Tangled Undergrowth?

No Problem!

Case IH Disc Mower Conditioner

Non-stop cutting for higher productivity.

- Clean cut at higher ground speeds
- Faster cutting in dense or tangled crops and over obstacles
- Overhead frame design allows unrestricted crop flow
- Automatic roll separating system eliminates plugging

Designed, tested and manufactured by Case IH at its Hesston, Kansas facility.

Fits the way you farm.

- 9' side-pull of 12' cutting widths available
- Choice of intermeshing conditioner rolls to match your needs
- Quick-convert from field to transport mode

Along with dependable mower conditioners, you can count on us for genuine Case IH parts, professional and reliable service support and flexible financing.

The disc design provides for fast cutting in the most adverse conditions–dense undergrowth, tangled prairie grass, rocks, animal obstacles (gopher mounds, ant hills, etc.)

8500 SERIES SMALL SQUARE BALER

HOLD ON TO MORE HIGH-PROTEIN LEAVES WITH THE CENTER-LINE DESIGN

With a Case IH 8500 Series Small Square Baler, your hay has a straight shot through the baler From pickup to bale chute, all Case IH balers feature the field-proven center-line design.

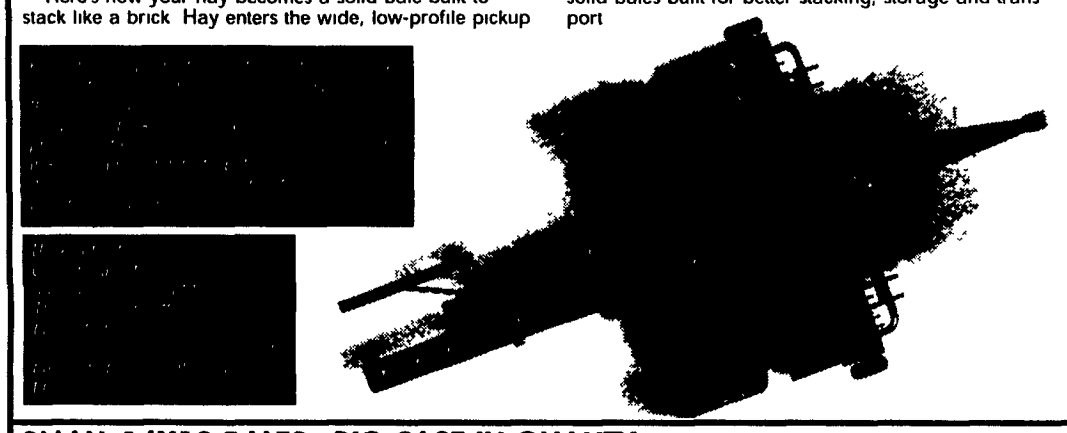
Other baler designs force hay to change directions or turn corners, which can cause leaves to shake off or tear loose, taking your feed value along with them Fortuantely, the center-line design on Case IH balers helps your hay hang on to more of its protein rich leaves, giving you bales with more nutrition

Here's how your hay becomes a solid bale built to stack like a brick Hay enters the wide, low-profile pickup and meets plenty of crop-hungry tines Then centering augers gently feed it to the prepacker chamber Hay is swept in by a stuffer fork and compressed into a uniform flake

Next the preformed bale flake enters the bale chamber just ahead of the plunger Each charge of the heavy-duty plunger makes one flake until a square-cornered bale is built

The result? Bales of consistent density and shape that pack a powerful nutritional payload And you get rock-solid bales built for better stacking, storage and transport



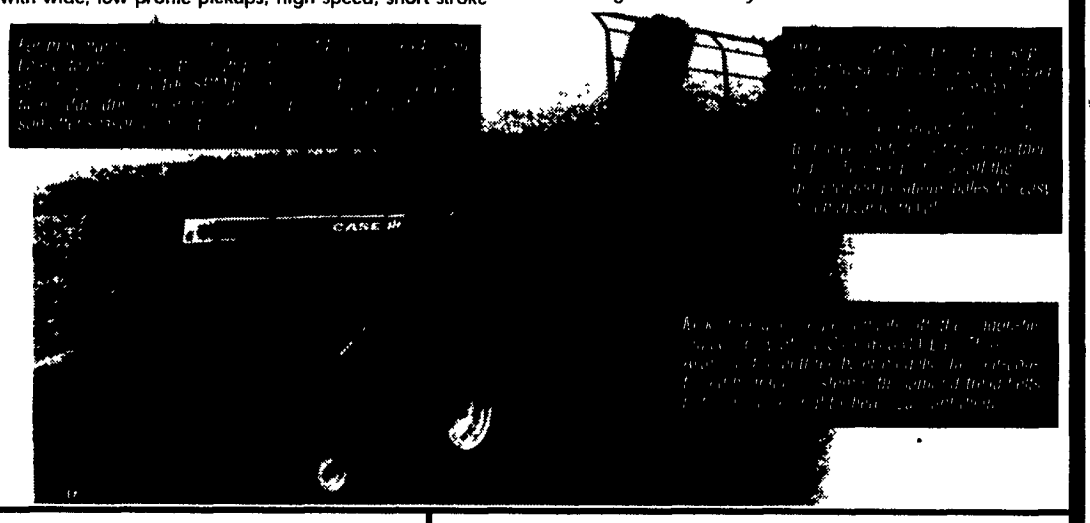
SMALL 14X18 BALES...BIG CASE IH QUALITY

From the smallest 8520 to the medium-duty 8530 and the deluxe 8545, Case IH offers you three choices in the 14x18 in (36x46 cm) bale category

All models boast the advantages of a center-line design It's a difference you'll quickly see in consistent bale quality as you get bale after bale of solid, stackable, tied-to-last bales

These three models of balers get the job done right with wide, low-profile pickups, high-speed, short-stroke plungers, constant-velocity drivelines, and reliable knotters and twisters A big-capacity twine box boosts productivity, while a standard bale counter tracks the day's progress.

Optional features include. hydraulic density control, high-flotation tires, hydraulic pickup lift, wire tie version of the 8545, light kit for night baling, quarter-turn bale chute, the 8511 Bale Thrower, and a bale chute extension with wagon hitch See your Case IH dealer for full details



If You're Looking For A Small Round Baler For A Small Price, See Binkley & Hurst Bros. Today!

If You're in the Market For a Round Baler, Make Sure You Look At the Case IH 8420

 Many standard features you might pay extra for with other machines – features like dual tension arms side-mounted gathering wheels, centrally located drive system, bale counter, mechanical bale-full alert and a "tailgate latched" indicator*

 Make up to a 550-pound bale Requires just 30 PTO horsepower*

 And, big value You can probably buy a new 8420 for what other used models would cost you*

And, you get more than an economical baler We are committed to providing genuine, value-priced Case IH parts, professional & reliable service, and flexible financing

Reel Time Savings to Real Farmers

"We feed 100 milk cows and a total of 150 animals with four loads per day at three different locations We save 1½ - 2 hours of feeding time every day with our Knight Reel Auggie tow"

Russ and Kris Schroeder
Agriprize Holsteins – Horicon, Wisconsin

"We feed a total of 140 head with 52 milking Before our Knight Reel Auggie, feeding a TMR took us 1½ hours twice a day Now each feeding takes approximately ½ hour"

John and Harry Nooyen
Brabantdale Farms – Navan, Ontario, Canada

"We feed about 200 head per day with an average of 100 miling We owned a 4-auger midxer before Our Knight Reel Auggie has a shorter mixing time with a superior blended ration"

Wayne and Bradley Beidel
Beidel Brothers – Newbury, Pennsylvania

"We mix 5 loads per day to feed 650 head Our Knight Reel Auggie mixes faster and unloads faster than the auger mixers that we previously owned Drive through feeding with our tow model has cut our feeding time by two thirds"

Warren and Dave Otto
Otto Farms – Valders, Wisconsin

The 3000 Series KNIGHT Reel Auggie® is available in tow, truck, and stationary models.

Mixing capacities from 147-600 cubic feet.

Reduce the chance of milk fevers and DA's by targeting each ration to each group of cows. The NDA Vertical Mixer will allow you to cut and blend long-stemmed hay (large or small, round or square bales) with all other feed stuffs, making a palatable, easily digestible ration for your just-fresh cows. By starting with lots of hay in the mix, then gradually reducing the hay until they are on full feed, you will get them to peak production faster, and improve your bottom line.

Crop Processing Forage Harvesters

Chop and process corn silage with one pass through the field. Gehl's high-speed grooved rolls crack kernels, break up the cob and smash the stalk. The results: 10 to 20 percent higher digestibility for significant increases in milk production.

- Huge harvesting capacity - utilizes up to 300 tractor horsepower.
- Eight-knife cutting cylinder - delivers length of cut up to 1 inch.
- Roll assembly - is easily removable for haylage operations.
- Processing roll gap - adjusts for varying crop conditions.

GLENCOE® SS7200/SS7400 SOIL SAVER®

For your primary tillage needs, nothing prepares your seedbed better than Glencoe SS7200 or SS7400 Soil Savers These one-pass tillage tools feature a heavy-duty 6"x4" frame with the strength to stand up to high horsepower tractors and years of hard use

Our adjustable spring-cushioned shicer gang is rock-shaft mounted for optimum bearing and blade protection Choose heavy-duty rigid, spring cushion or AutoReset shanks with twisted shovels or sweeps to match your conservation requirements For even more versatility, Soil Savers have working widths that range from 6 to 21 feet

To get a closer look at the SS7200 and SS7400 Soil Savers, contact us today Once you see how easy it is to build the optimum seedbed, you'll wonder why you didn't purchase a Soil Saver sooner

NEW! New Holland TND/TNS Tractors 42 to 62 PTO hp

Customer driven design

TND/TND tractors have the features customers say they need. These tractors outperform and outmaneuver all others in the three-cylinder class Plus they're loaded with comfort and convenience usually found on much bigger tractors.

Exclusive SuperSteer™ FWD axle makes TNS tractors the most maneuverable all purpose tractors available.

8x8 or 16x16 Synhro Command™ transmissions feature synchronized gears and a synchronized, left hand mechanical shuttle The 16x16 includes four speeds 1 mph or less

Exclusive Traction Management System (TNS tractors only) automatically engages FWD when and only when you need it.

Four wheel differential lock is electro-hydraulically engaged on TNS tractors for maximum power to ground performance.

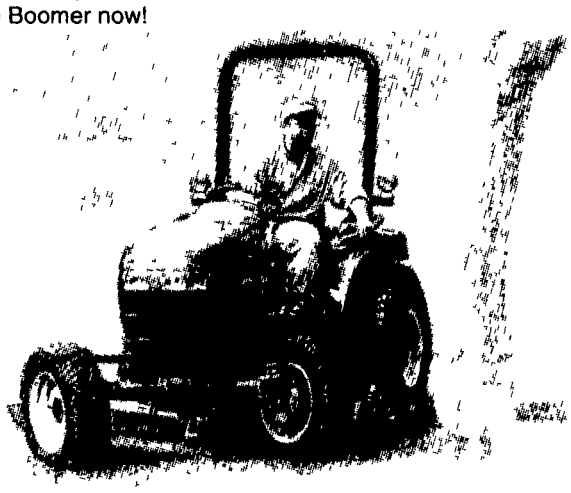
Comfortable cab is suspended and pressurized, shielding the operator from vibration, noise and dirt. Heater and A/C, two doors, tilt/telescoping steering, front and rear washers and wipers, and a best-in-class lighting package are standard Excellent visibility and an overall height as low as 85.1" lets you go places competitive cab tractors can't.

Boomer™ has tightest turnaround

Cut the wheel on a Boomer compact tractor and BOOM. It turns on a dime, up to 50% less than other compacts.

- With Supersteer™ enjoy greater maneuverability
- Sensitrack™ clutch senses turns and is easy on turf
- Innovative styling means high visibility and easy of operation
- Comfort-Plus™ deck applies ergonomic design for greater operator comfort

See Boomer now!



Shuttle back and forth with ease

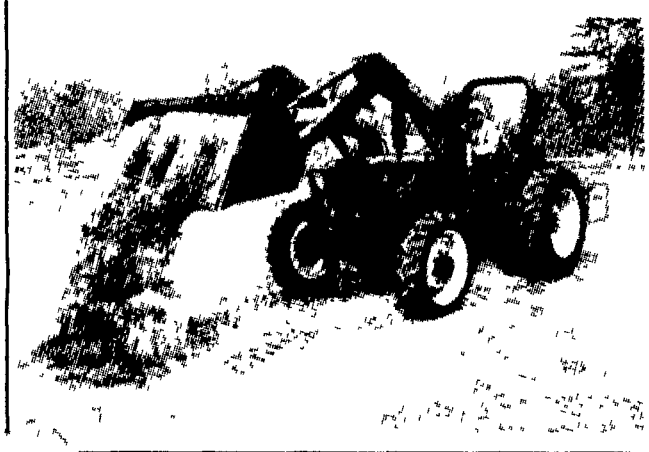
NEW HOLLAND



Excellent in the field - and on the farm

New Holland 70- to 90-PTO-hp tractors feature a 16x16 Pulse Command™ transmission with push-button power shifting within each of four speed groups. Speeds are evenly spaced 18% apart, with nine speeds in the usual two- to seven-mph working range. Plenty of gear overlap makes range shifting unnecessary most of the time.

The shuttle lets you pull out from a dead stop or change direction without clutching. An optional, electro-hydraulically engaged creeper is also available.

BUSINESS ❖ NEWS

Moyer & Son Helps Raise $20,000 For Transplant Recipient

SOUDERTON (Montgomery Co.) — Michael Gerhart of Moyer & Son, Inc.'s Reading office recently organized a fundraising event to help Pete and Marie Fenstermacher of Topton pay for the medical bills associated with their daughter Olivia's liver transplant surgery.

Working with the local community and the Trinity Lutheran Church of Topton, Gerhart chose a charity golf tournament and banquet as the fundraising vehicles. On Saturday, March 13, 190 golfers teed-off at Foxchase Golf Course near Denver. When the day was over, the combined efforts raised $20,000 to help save the little girl's life.

The golf tournament featured several different contests including a skins competition, double-your-money, closest-to-the-pin, and longest drive. Additionally, 35 holes were sponsored by local and national companies.

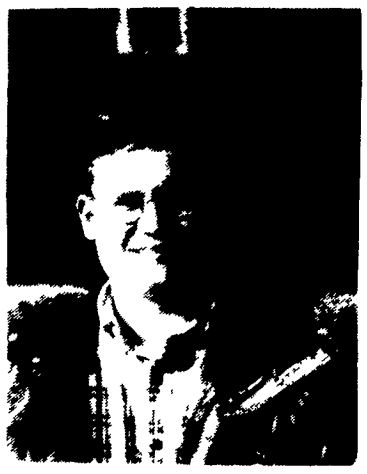
That evening, 45 people attended the charity banquet at the golf club where chances to win donated prizes were offered. Twenty-four volunteers from Moyer & Son, Inc. and many from the community donated their time and effort to make the event a success.

New England Feeds Appoints Kramer

FITCHBURG, Mass. — James Kramer of Greenfield, Mass, has joined New England Feeds in a territory management and consulting position, responsible for feed service to dairy farms in western Massachusetts, northwestern Connecticut, and southern Vermont.

New England Feeds is the largest division of United Co-operative Farmers, Inc., based in Fitchburg, Mass.

In his new position, Kramer will consult with western New England farmers on improving dairy production and profitability by customizing feed formulation, reviewing management practices, and offering new tools and technologies for farm application.



James Kramer

Kramer is a 1997 graduate of Iowa State University's College of Agriculture. In 1998, he also received a master of science degree there, majoring in both animal science and animal nutrition, with a minor in economics.

Pa. Draft Horse, Mule Sale Undergoes Changes In Management

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — In February this year, the 18th annual Pennsylvania Draft Horse and Mule Sale was conducted here.

To the draft horse industry, this has become "The Harrisburg Sale."

Many individuals have given generously of their time and talent to make sure this annual event takes place. Two individuals, however, deserve to be mentioned. To draft horse and mule people in eastern Pennsylvania and beyond, the names of Elmer Lapp and David Keller are known. They provided the leadership that was needed to continue the sale for all these years.

Lapp has been involved in raising registered Belgians all his adult life. In Lancaster County, Lapp was also the key person involved in the beginning of the nanual "Horse Progress Days" that have become so important to the draft horse and muel industry in North American and beyond.

Keller is a familiar face at all of the important draft horse and mule sales in the eastern part of the country. Many Lancaster County farmers have benefited from his trucking service from Ohio and other points west to the east after a big draft horse sale.

"The Harrisburg Sale," a tradition for 18 years, will continue. One youngster saddles up for the February event.

Both Lapp and Keller have indicated that it is time for others to take over the responsibility of the Pennsylvania Draft Horse and Mule sale.

For the past few years, David Glick of Gap, has been involved in the sale, helping to receive horses and coordinate it. Glick's involvement with horses goes back a long way. He spends some of this time practicing horse dentistry. He has agreed to continue his involvement.

Dale Stoltzfus of Leola, has also been involved by helping to present horses from the auction block. Dale bought his first pair of Belgian mares in 1988. He says he has been pleasantly surprised at the level of interest in draft horses and mules in the present horse economy. He has participated as a consigner and buyer at the Harrisburg sale as well as other sales. Stoltzfus has also agreed to increase his involvement.

Hay, Forage Line Offers New Options

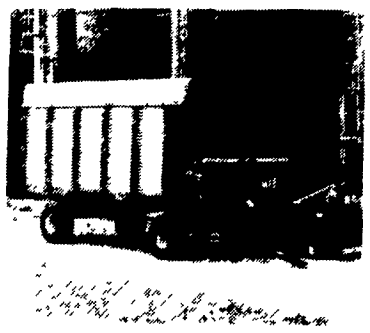
ST. NAZIANZ, Wis. — An extensive new line of forage handling equipment is available through John Deere dealers.

The Victor™ brand includes forage boxes, companion running gear, high lift hydraulic dump boxes and a high capacity forage blower. Victor is a John Deere allied product line, and carries the familiar Deere green color.

Victor products are designed and built by Miller-St. Nazianz, Inc., a 99-year-old company located in St. Nazianz, Wis. that specializes in hay and forage handling products. The company also markets the Miller Pro™ and Badger™ equipment brands.

The forage box line includes front, rear and combination front/rear unloading models in a variety of sizes and capacities. Victor forage boxes are designed for easy, responsive operator control and exceptionally smooth unloading. Their strength and durability are built in with unitized construction. High strength steel frame members and full length steel stringers combine to form a durable integrated assembly that distributes loads evenly over the box's full length. They're designed with dynamic tolerance to flex as terrain and loads vary. A rafter-free roof provides for unobstructed loading and unloading.

Front unload boxes have variable belt drive with 16 unloading speeds. Operators control their loads easily with separate feathering clutches and independent drives for both the metering augers and the outfeed conveyor. These clutches make it easy to start moving the material from big loads into the forage blower.



The forage box line includes front, rear, and combination front/rear unloading models in a variety of sizes and capacities.

Victor rear unload boxes have capacities of more than 1,100 cubic feet. They are hydraulically driven and unload in 1 to 1½ minutes, depending on tractor hydraulics. The rear door opens, closes and relocks automatically. The rear door hinge is at the roof line so load tops aren't shaved off.

Companion running gear for Victor forage boxes comes in single and rear tandem axle models with capacities from 10 to 18 tons. All models feature heavy duty steel construction. Superior tracking and stability result from automotive style ball joint steering, flexible C-section reach, and an extra wide 80-inch stance.

Many producers have increased their hay and forage harvest efficiencies by chopping into a high lift dump box and transporting crops from the field in trucks or receiver boxes. The Victor product line offers three models in various size and lifting height ranges. The largest model lifts up to 30,000 pounds and dumps up to a height of 15 feet. All models employ master and slave cylinders that raise loads evenly from front to back, require less oil, and create a fast cycle time of 1 to 1½ minutes.

The new Victor forage blower has a high capacity design coupled with high velocity to fill tall silos fast and efficiently. The large hopper area matches the blower's capacity, and can take all the material the forage box can deliver without bridging or plugging. Its 12-inch diameter auger feeds forage into the fan's air stream at the same plane as its rotation for greater efficiency. The hopper extends further for easier wagon positioning. And flexible wind guards on the hopper sides help keep cleanup at a minimum.

A 60-inch diameter impeller housing has a reversible band and contains a heavy 8-paddle fan and rotating back plate that provide non-stop filling and virtually eliminate plugging.

Skid-Steer Loader Adds Powerfully Smooth Operation To Demanding Job Sites

FARGO, N.D. — Melroe Ingersoll-Rand introduced the upgraded Bobcat® 873 skid-steer loader featuring a higher rated operating capacity (ROC) of 2,400 pounds (1,089 kg) for heavy lifting jobs, an extended wheelbase for smooth operation, larger axles for longer service life, and a vertical lift path for easier truck loading.

With a 2,400-pound ROC and an extended wheelbase of 48.8 inches, the Bobcat 873 efficiently and smoothly tackles difficult chores such as lifting and transporting pallets of sod or brick. Designed with a vertical lift path featuring a 40-inch reach at maximum lift height of almost 10.5 feet, the Bobcat 873 also loads trucks more easily.

The Bobcat 873 is powered by a 73.5 HP, 178 cubic inch (2.92L), four-cylinder, turbocharged, oil-cooled Deutz diesel engine that provides four-wheel-drive power and an 8.1 mph travel speed. A 19 GPM, L/minute) hydraulic pump with 3,000 PSI system pressure generates hydraulic power for running attachments such as augers, landscape rakes, tillers, tree spades, and more. The 25-gallon fuel tank extends work operation between refuelings

EGGS ARE OK!

Roland M. Leach Jr.
Professor
Dept. Of Poultry Science

You may have heard a recent news release that medical doctors have decided eggs are OK after all. They have rediscovered what the mother hen has known for centuries — eggs are nutritious. Eggs have to be because they must contain the nutrients to sustain the life of the developing embryo for 21 days or longer. That means eggs contain high quality protein, vitamins, minerals, and high quality lipid (fat) for building tissue and supplying energy.

A component of that lipid is that dastardly material called cholesterol. It is there to feed the embryo, not to give people heart attacks. Unfortunately, for the last 20 years we have been told the latter — cholesterol in eggs causes heart attacks and strokes.

We know that cholesterol is involved in heart attacks and strokes. We have known this for years. Cholesterol is a component of the fatty plaques that clog our blood vessels, with higher incidences of vascular disease being associated with high blood cholesterol.

However, we now know that there are two types of cholesterol — good cholesterol (HDL), and bad cholesterol (LDL). Therefore, when we wish to reduce blood cholesterol, we want to lower LDL and decrease the ratio of LDL to HDL.

Many approaches have been used to accomplish this goal. These include the use of drugs that inhibit cholesterol biosynthesis, compounds that decrease cholesterol and bile reabsorption, and diet modification. Although reducing dietary cholesterol is an obvious solution, it is very clear that individuals vary greatly in their responses to this change. In fact, amounts and types of fats have a much greater impact on LDL cholesterol. For example, diets high in saturated (solid) fats and trans-fatty acids (found in hydrogenated vegetable oils) increase LDL cholesterol. On the other hand, unsaturated fats (oils) tend to increase HDL cholesterol and reduce total blood lipids.

In the recent study reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association, the incidence of coronary heart disease and stroke was studied in more than 37,000 men and 80,000 women. After adjusting the data for other risk factors such as smoking and age, the investigators found no relationship between egg consumption and the risk of coronary heart disease or stroke in either men or women. Therefore, consuming one egg per day is unlikely to have a substantial impact on the risk of vascular disease in healthy men or women.

I am sure that the debate will not end with the publication of these results. However, it serves to remind us to use moderation in selecting foods, and avoid fad-diets that emphasize the elimination of foods of high nutritional values such as eggs.

Finally, because of the negative publicity concerning cholesterol in eggs, there have been many attempts to modify egg composition. Some of these have resulted in hoaxes, such as the report that eggs of the Araucana are lower in cholesterol. This was due to a smaller yolk size, confirming the well-known observation that the amount of cholesterol in an egg depends upon the size of the yolk. In studies where drugs are used to decrease cholesterol synthesis, eggs with lower cholesterol content exhibit lower hatchability, illustrating the need for cholesterol by the developing embryo.

There is one modification of eggs that has the potential to improve blood lipid profiles. This comes from the observation that Eskimos have a very low rate of heart disease in spite of consuming diets very high in fat. However, their diet is also high in certain fatty acids (EPA and DHA) found in cold water fish and aquatic organisms. Feeding fatty acids such as DHA to hens modifies the composition of the yolk lipids. When consumed by humans, these modified eggs lower blood triglycerides and LDL cholesterol. Technology is being developed that allows the production of modified eggs without the disadvantage of "fishy flavor."

As Dr. Laura might say — "What's the point, Roland?" The point is that eggs are still an excellent source of nutrition and have the potential to positively affect fat and cholesterol metabolism in humans.

Tradition Lives On in Sickle-Type Mower-Conditioners

ATLANTA, Ga. — When you consider that Hesston designed and built the industry's first center-pivot mower conditioner more than 20 years ago, it's easy to understand why Hesston Hydro-Swing™ machines have become the standard by which others are measured In 1999, Hesston takes another step in maintaining this leadership by introducing the new 1260/1265 and 1270/1275 sickle-type mower conditioners.

These new, high-performance sickle-type mower conditioners offer the latest technology in cutting and windrow formation. Replacing the current model 1160 12- and 14-foot single sickle windrowers, is the new and improved model 1260 and 1265. The double-sickle 1270, a new entry for 1999, and the double-sickle 1275 replace the current model 1170. These new windrowers possess many of the exceptional features of the discontinued models with several improvements for 1999

Like the previous Hydro-Swing windrowers, these new machines feature the reliable hydraulic drive and swinging tongue convenience that provide the operator with the manueverability of a self-propelled machine at the price of a pull-type model Exceptional flotation is accomplished through a wide, box-beam frame and a counter-balancing flotation system. These systems provide the header with outstanding radial and vertical flotation for smooth, even cutting over any field contour

Building on sickle drives that have been touted as the smoothest in the industry, the modesl 1260/65 feature a half-swaybar single-drive sickle with an operating speed of 1,690 strokes-per-minute for faster cutting. The 1270/75 models utilize a timed, dual-sickle drive with an operating speed of 1,840 strokes-per-minute and a counterbalance flywheel on each side to reduce vibration

Additional improvements include new guards and hold-downs from reduced sickle wear, increased auger separation for increased capacity and reduced damage potential and "new look" polyethylene end shields for improved safety, access, durability, and appearance

"We listened to the industry demands and suggestions of our customers when designing these new sickle-type windrowers," said Ron Hess, general marketing manager, Hesston "By offering the latest in windrower technology and adding a new 14-foot double-sickle windrower, we give our customers what they expect from the market leader"

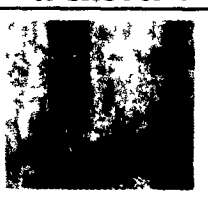
WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

WARNING! DETERIORATING CONCRETE FROM CORN JUICE!

Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical

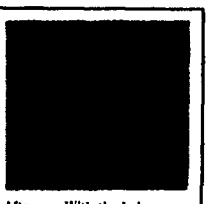


Before The silo's interior with plaster damaged and stave exposed

After The surface is reconditioned, and a new, thick tough surface will protect stored feed

REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

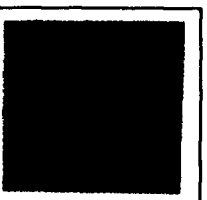
Before A hole is worn completely through the silo wall



After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original

Before The bottom part of the staves are completely worn away



After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure

Attention

Dairy, Swine & Poultry Producers!

New Products Now Available...

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer these products to meet your nutritional needs Manufacturing these products ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

GOLDEN PRO 46 XP

This natural, mechanically extruded and expelled soybean product is experiencing great acceptance with local dairymen A course golden colored meal with a 6% fat content, Golden Pro 46 XP is extremely palatable Golden Pro 46 XP is a natural way to bring the value of high by-pass protein into diets that require a lower fat level

GOLDEN MEAL 40

An 18 percent fat content along with a 40 percent crude protein makes this mechanically extruded meal product a valuable component in a variety of rations Full fat content gives you a high level of digestible energy, while high temperature extruding ruptures the oil cells for better nutritional absorbtions.

CRUDE SOYBEAN OIL

A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications A natural alternative to animal fats, this oil provides needed energy in various rations

To make these products available, and to help you utilize your home raised soybeans Keystone Mills announces its

Soybean Exchange Program

As manufacturers and distributers of Golden Pro 46 XP and Golden Meal 40, we are anxious for you to try our products We are offering a soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced

• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

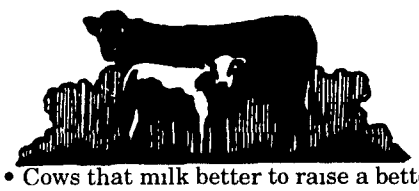
Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients

For Beef



- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -
